Lively, in Paris.
St. Lawrence Treaty.
F. D. R. Walked Around It.
What, Regulate Wall Street?

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

SERIOUS RIOTING in Paris, the Ministry of Marine set on fire in the Place de la Concorde near the American embassy, the fashionable Hotel Crillon and the ultra-fashionable French "Jockey Club." The mob, looking for weapons in the Ministry of Marine, did not get any, and the fire was extinguished.

You could not call it "an uprising of the French people." It was more a political demonstration by politicians, largely by royalists opposed to republican government.

The French, unlike Americans, are not what Lord Northcliffe called "a docile people," but there cannot be any serious revolution unless the French army should become disloyal, and the army is republican. Machine guns and gas bombs would quickly discourage mobs.

YOU MAY have read, here and elsewhere, quotations from a Canadian newspaper, the Toronto Mail and Empire, concerning the St. Lawrence waterway treaty, and you will be glad to know that the State Department in Washington denies categorically statements made by the Canadian editor.

"Statement that the cost of the undertaking would be borne mainly by the United States is completely false. The United States will pay $272,000,000, Canada between $271,000,000 and $272,000,000.

"The United States does NOT abandon its ancient contention that Lake Michigan is an American lake. Lake Michigan is, as it has always been, wholly within the territory of the United States. This treaty does not surrender American sovereignty over it."

CONCERNING the Canadian statement that the treaty "puts an end to Chicago's ambition to drain the Great Lakes for the benefit of the Mississippi Valley," the State Department says the new treaty is based on "a decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, surely a foundation for a treaty."

However, as regards cost, the Toronto Mail and Empire could point out that while the United States supplies $272,000,000 of new money, Canada, on her contribution estimated at the same amount, gets credit for $128,000,000 already spent on the Welland Canal, completed in 1932, and considered by our engineers "an integral and necessary part of the St. Lawrence waterway."

Perhaps Canada will get a little the better of it, but the British usually do, and the main thing is to have the waterway and open up the Middle West to the ocean.

If the President wants it there is little doubt that it will be built, and this country, having so much more to ship, will get more from it than will Canada.

THE CANADIAN paper's statement that the United States will get from this project 1,000,000 horsepower while Canada will get 4,000,000 horsepower, is explained by the State Department as follows:

"The St. Lawrence treaty has been restricted to the international section of the waterway. The international section will develop 2,200,000 horsepower, of which Canada will get 1,100,000 and the United States 1,100,000.

"On the purely Canadian side of the river, Canada will be able to develop 3,000,000 horsepower. This development will be at Canada's own cost. The United States will not pay a cent toward it. And to develop that power Canada needs no treaty with the United States."

Now you know all about it.

MR. BENKERT, supposed to understand money, called before the House Banking and Currency Committee, said things to relieve your mind if you worry about your dollars.

Gold has been a curse to us, says Mr. Benkert, the nation has been a victim for one hundred years of shifting prices for metal. Congress "has failed miserably in its constitutional obligation to regulate the value of money."

That regulation is attended to now, says Mr. Benkert, and it's all nonsense to talk about "stabilization of the dollar in relation to the English pound."

AN ANCIENT fortress on a rock could not be taken by the greatest generals, many tried, all failed. Then one general looked at the rock, paid no attention to it, walked around it, came back on the other side and the fortress surrendered.

The "gold basis" bugaboo appears to have been the modern impregnable fortress, and Roosevelt the general that marched around it and came up, triumphant, on the other side.

SENATOR KING, Democrat from Utah, wants the United States to run all stock exchanges through a commission. Senator King believes that such a bill, had it been passed long ago, would have saved the country and Congress a lot of trouble now.

It certainly would interfere seriously with some good old-fashioned Wall street ways. The President would appoint three commissioners, the Senate would confirm them, and they probably would be a hard kind to hoodwink or buy.

Then if some great financier of two continents wanted to issue sixty million odd shares, with nothing in particular behind them, to be sold to the public for one billion five hundred million dollars, the commission would ask some annoying, even impertinent, questions.

Mrs. Mull Got Girl's Pay, Jury Told

PROSECUTOR CHARGES LIE TO GET $15

Man and Wife Tell of Seeing Auto Where Body Was Found

The estate of Margaret Schwickrath, the murdered mystery girl,—$15.94—was claimed by the same jealous woman who is standing trial for the slaying, a jury of three women and nine men heard in Criminal Court today.

Miss Schwickrath's bullet-pierced body already had been found in a culvert on the Allegheny River boulevard when Grace Mull went to the Fried & Reineman Packing Company plant on the North Side, lied that Margaret was ill and managed to obtain her pay, $15.94—this was the picture that Prosecutor Chauncey Prugar painted for the jury.

Grace Mull and her husband, Roy Mull, are being tried for the murder. So is their 19-year-old son, Elmer, but the case against him is admittedly weak.

STATE CASE NEAR END

While Mrs. Mull, who also worked at the packing plant, was explaining Margaret's absence, the mystery girl lay in the morgue, where thousands tried to identify her.

Prosecutor Pruger was nearing the end of the state's case today.

He called new witnesses to bolster his charge that the Mulls took Miss Schwickrath, who lived with them, from their home in East Ohio street to their cabin in "Red Onion"—a colony near Greensburg before dawn one Sunday morning and, some time in the next 24 hours, murdered her.

And, Pruger contends, Mrs. Mull was relieved to see Miss Schwickrath pass away, because she was jealous of the attentions her husband showered on the younger girl.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Elrod, of 105 Woodside road, Forest Hills, testified they were driving past the boulevard culvert and saw parked a car which the state contends was Mull's.

Mrs. Elrod thought it was a green-colored sedan.

To her husband it looked sand-colored.

AGREE ON DESCRIPTION

But they agreed on this description by Mrs. Elrod:

"A man got out of the car. He looked like a small fellow with a cap. He went around and

Roosevelt Better, Returns to Desk

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt returned to his desk in the executive office today for the first time since Friday, completely recovered from his slight cold and with his batch of correspondence almost cleaned up.

With a smile the President described his absence as due to spring house cleaning in his private correspondence.

GEORGE MILLER, JR., 8

SEARCH FOR BOY ENDS IN MORGUE

The tireless search of Mr. and Mrs. George Miller, of 340 Bismark street, throughout the night for their 8-year-old son, George, Jr., ended early today in the morgue.

After canvassing police stations and hospitals, the parents found their only son—and youngest of four children—dead in the morgue, his skull fractured four hours previously by an automobile.

The search began when the child failed to return from an errand. First, neighbors' homes were investigated, but when the child's uncle, John Banasdale, found the boy's shoe in Bigelow boulevard, the search shifted to hospitals.

The boy was killed less than 100 yards from his home. Intent upon his errand, he darted across the boulevard, in the 3300 block, apparently not seeing the automobile.

The alleged driver, Ray Skalski, 24, of 105 Sixth street, Aspinwall, sped the child to St. Francis Hospital. He was pronounced dead, and the body was removed to the morgue.

The driver told police the boy had darted out directly in front of his automobile. He was released on his own recogniance to post bond later before the Coroner.

TWO SLATED FOR NEW CITY VOTE BOARD

Joyce, Frank Expected To Get Permanent Registration Jobs

Appointment of Jacob Frank and Thomas A. Joyce as members of the new Pittsburgh Commission on Permanent Registration was understood to be near today.

Gov. Pinchot, it was understood, will appoint Frank, an attorney and a Republican, and Joyce, a former member of the commission, probably today. Joyce is a Democrat and once was removed from the commission by Gov. Pinchot.

In making these appointments the Governor would ignore the four members of the old commission, which was ripped from office by the Harris permanent registration bill passed in the last special session of the Legislature. They were John K. Morrow and Mrs. Sarah C. Braun, Republicans, and Mrs. J. Wood Clark and John McCarthy, Democrats. The new commission consists of only two members.

JOB SEEN FOR MRS. BRAUN

Mrs. Braun is expected to be named chief clerk for the commission.

In naming Joyce, the Governor would rebuff Democratic County Chairman David L. Lawrence, who had urged him to reappoint Mrs. Clark. Recent attacks on the Governor by Joseph F. Guffey, allied with Lawrence in the Democratic organization, were so resented by the Governor that he turned thumbs down on Mrs. Clark.

The new commission is confronted with the task of re-registering all Pittsburgh voters before the spring primary, May 15. The new law establishes three registration days before the primary in order to permit this, but thereafter voters will not be required to register again if they vote at least once in two years.

COMMISSION SHAKEUP

Joyce, a former member of the commission, was removed by Gov. Pinchot during the legislative session of 1933. At the same time John M. Henry, now director of the Allegheny County Bureau of Elections, was taken off the commission as the other Democratic member, and the places were given to McCarthy and Mrs. Clark. At that time the Governor was flirting with the Democratic legislative bloc, managed by Lawrence.

Both new appointments are understood to have been recommended to the Governor by Judge Ralph H. Smith.

Youth Hurt in Leap During Fire at Home

When Harry Barrett, 16, was roused from sleep by shouts of "fire" he jumped from a second floor window of his home, 8 Private street, Homestead, today, police reported. He was taken to Homestead Hospital suffering from severe bruises and lacerations.

Whitaker Official Indicted in Theft

George A. Taylor, borough clerk of Whitaker, was indicted by the county grand jury on a charge of embezzlement today. The charge involves $153 alleged to have been taken from borough funds between April 8, 1930, and May 20, 1931. The prosecutor is Harry F. Brinker, president of Whitaker Council.

PAULINE FREDERICK

PAULINE NAPS, MISSES 'DATE'

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—It's getting so Philadelphia clubwomen can't be sure any longer whether actresses who accept lecture invitations will appear on schedule.

Last December it was Eva Le Gallienne, who stirred up a tempest in club circles when she failed to deliver a scheduled address before the Philadelphia Lecture Assembly.

Yesterday, the women of the Philadelphia Music Club sat around a table at their monthly luncheon, anticipating an address by Pauline Frederick, star of films and stage—but Miss Frederick, like Miss Le Gallienne, didn't show up.

The storm that developed over Miss Le Gallienne's non-appearance became a veritable verbal tornado when Ethel Barrymore appeared in Miss Le Gallienne's defense later and delivered a stinging speech to the clubwomen.

A newspaperman reached Miss Frederick by telephone at her hotel and asked why she failed to deliver the address. She said:

"Luncheon! Music Club? Oh, heavens! What time is it?"

Informed it was late afternoon, she said:

"I simply overslept. The maid shut the door of my room because I have a slight cold and she didn't want me disturbed. And I suppose I didn't hear the 'phone."

DEARBORN, Mich., Feb. 7.—(INS.)—Henry Ford's hotel today possesses a state license to sell liquor.

But guests will have to get along without whiskey or bring their own supplies.

Ford's opposition to "hard" liquor has become proverbial. Guests were startled recently when 3.2 beer was served to newspapermen at a luncheon given by Ford in the Dearborn Inn.

Roosevelt Takes Action In Army Contract Fee Grab Charge

A constantly-widening trail of graft charges, involving government contracts, led today to these developments:

1—President Roosevelt ordered a thorough investigation of War Department lobbying activities as grand jury indictments were reported to involve two high-ranking American Legion officials.

2—A "spoils conference" on air mail contracts under former Postmaster General Brown, in which a Pittsburgh firm took part, was revealed by a Senate committee.

3—"Slipshod auditing" was admitted before a House committee investigating charges of profiteering through Navy contracts.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—The Evening Star says today that indictment of at least three persons—two of them high in the ranks of the American Legion—will be asked of the federal grand jury by the government in connection with the alleged conspiracy to graft on the millions of dollars allotted for motorizing the Army.

As President Roosevelt today asked Attorney General Cummings to go to the bottom of the reported irregularities, a procession of Army officers and motor company representatives went into the grand jury room some blocks away.

The only name publicly mentioned by the War and Justice departments in the inquiry is that of Joseph Silverman, Jr., of New York, but the Star reports that evidence presented to the grand jury today is said to have incriminated a former high executive of the Legion, now practicing law here, and a legal associate.

NATIONAL GUARD LINK

An unnamed high officer of the National Guard also is reported by the Star to be involved in the alleged "ring," which, federal authorities believe were to share retainer fees and commissions for exerting what they are alleged to have claimed was "inside influence" at the War Department.

In sifting this phase of the case the grand jury today questioned Gen. George Leach, commander of the Militia Bureau, who is said by the Star to have given valuable information about the National Guard officer.

MOBS RENEW FIGHTING IN PARIS STREETS

Doumergue Called to Helm in Crisis In France

The riots continued, with mobs parading the boulevards.

Violence broke out in the Place de la Concorde, around the President's palace, around the Madeleine church, and down the Rue Royale leading in to the Place de la Concorde.

CROWDS CHARGED

In other open spaces of the city mobile guardsmen and police wrestled in hand to hand combat with the shouting civilians.

The list of injured, seriously and slightly, gained steadily throughout the day, and as night drew in, private cars were impressed into duty as ambulances to rush the wounded to hospitals.

The horses of the guards, many of them riderless, plunged madly through the confusion of the Place de la Concorde.

Every hallway and corner of the buildings surrounding the great square were packed by persons seeking shelter from the battling mobs and the police.

Upon first being asked to form a cabinet, Doumergue had refused. President Lebrun then sought Senator Louis Barthou, a former premier, for the post.

BARTHOU CALLED

M. Marthou had a long talk with President Lebrun and the two decided that, before M. Barthou would make a decision, another effort should be made to persuade Former President Doumergue to take the premiership.

Both felt he was the logical man to solve the crisis.

Doumergue, again consulted by telephone finally consented late this afternoon to leave his retirement in the South of France and come to Paris to talk things over.

From an estate valued at $125,000 Miss Margaret Reed, who lived in the exclusive Fifth avenue residential district, provided for the care of dumb animals in her will filed for probate today.

The will provided an income for life for Miss Reed's mother, Mary E. Reed, but the mother died after the will was made. Upon the mother's death the will stipulated that a brother, Joseph, in California, was to receive the income.

The Fidelity Trust Company, executor and trustee of the estate, was directed to distribute the estate among Pittsburgh institutions caring for dumb animals after the death of the brother.

Gladys R. Lowrie, of Sewickley, bequeathed $43,000 to two children, Gladys L. Baker and William A. Lowrie. Jacob Gerbel bequeathed $1,000 to a friend, Charles Steigerwald, of Coraopolis, and the remainder of a $9,600 estate to two step-brothers, Fred and William Retzler.

Tax Plan Cure, McNair Tells Hotel Strikers

Mayor McNair popped up today in the thick of the hotel employes' strike wits a solution—the single tax!

The Mayor tried to gett he William Penn Hotel strikers to remove the banners from the picketing women and, that failing, he tried to sell them his tax theories.

That, too, failed.

Six strike sympathiers were arrested during the day after they had extended their efforts to picketing the Pittsburgher Hotel and restaurants because, they complained, the Pittsburgher lent employes to the William Penn. Police halted the picketing there. The Mayor had a conference with three spokesmen for the strikers to convince them that it was a "disgrace" for women to wear the strike placards.

McNair delivered his tax speech. He told his audience if they were interested in bettering their conditions they should study the single tax and support him.

Police Capt. John Schnuhh said that Communists who have participated in other local strikes had taken over leadership of the hotel strike.

NRA TO MAKE WEIRTON POLL EVEN IF DENIED PAYROLL

STAND OF FIRM HEAD ON UNION VOTE WAITED

Weir's Return to City Expected to Decide U. S. Procedure

Refusal of the steel industry to co-operate with the federal government in determining the steel workers' attitude toward company unions will not interfere with President Roosevelt's plans to poll the workers, it was indicated today.

The National Labor Board will canvass the workers of the Weirton Steel Company as best it can if it fails to get a list of the 12,000 employes from the company.

An official of the board yesterday said in Washington that it could be done. Milton Handler, general counsel, said here the poll was hardly possible unless the payrolls are available, but indicated a resolve to carry out President Roosevelt's announced intention.

AWAIT WEIR'S ORDER

Absence of E. T. Weir, Weirton Steel chairman, from the city put off until later in the week the showdown on whether the company will co-operate with the government in polling the workers.

Earl F. Reed, counsel for the company, was asked by Handler at a conference yesterday whether the company would supply a list of the employes in its mills at Weirton and Clarksburg, W. Va., and Steubenville, O. Handler and James F. Dewey, Labor Department conciliator, were told the decision must await the return of Weir from New York.

Handler returned to Washington last night. Dewey remained here. The former was expected to return later in the week, and it was regarded probable that Weir would disclose the company's position by Saturday.

If the Labor Board is denied access to the payrolls, it could not resort to the courts to compel submission. Such action would be up to the Attorney General.

PLANS CONSIDERED

Lacking a list of employes, the Labor Board might obtain through the medium of mass meetings, petitions, or house-to-house canvass the views of the workers on the company union issue.

The Labor Board seeks their views to determine whether there should be another election of employe representatives in collective bargaining at the Weirton mills.

The company union held an election in December and the Weirton officials claimed more than 85 per cent of the workers voted, showing the majority of the employes were in favor of such a union, they said. The Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, however, charged the workers were coerced.

ASK PAYROLL LIST

After the two-hour conference with Reed yesterday, Handler issued a statement in which he said he and Dewey discussed with the steel company counsel various ways in which the wishes of the workers could be determined. He added:

"Specifically, we requested access to the payrolls of the company, since an entirely accurate check of the wishes of the employes is difficult and, in fact, hardly possible unless the payrolls are available to us. Mr. Reed informed us that Mr. Weir is out of town and that it would be necessary to discuss the matter with him and other officials of the company before reaching any decision.

"We are to have another conference later in the week, when Mr. Weir returns. We shall await this conference and continue with the other conferences and investigations which we have planned."

Before he left for Washington, Handler declared he had hopes of an "amicable agreement," but admitted he had nothing tangible upon which to base his hopes.

Dr. Henius warned the brewers "not to delude themselves into the belief that prohibitionism is dead." He said dry leaders are awaiting an opportunity to regain lost ground.

opened the door on the other side. He was moving quickly. I saw him reach in and then when we got near he closed the door."

County Detective Peter Connors told of finding in the Mull car several days later a pair of men's trousers, a pillow, notebook and a white rag.

TELL OF COLLECTION

From Miss Margaret Langhorst, an office worker, the prosecutor brought out that after the murder, Mrs. Mull received this telegram:

"Come at once, your father very low.
"MARSHALL FOURST."

Who Marshall Fourst is was not established.

Pruger brought out also that Mrs. Mull had told other workers she and her husband planned to move to Detroit, that furthermore she might have to leave her job because of her father's illness.

James D. Wilson, a Western Union manager, testified that the telegram had been sent through the North Side office. In the wire Mrs. Mull's name was misspelled, Moll.

Yesterday Pruger produced several witnesses who testified that Mull had worn a peaked cap when they saw him at his "Red Onion" cabin the day before Miss Schwickrath was slain.

MOTHER'S STORY RELATED

That the girl was a rival of Mrs. Mull for the affection of Mull was hinted by the testimony of Detective W. B. Harris.

Mull so loved Margaret, Harris said, that he introduced her to his 72-year-old mother as his wife and then borrowed $50 from the mother to buy the young girl clothes. Harris added:

"He said, 'I loved Margaret, and she needed clothes, so I wanted to borrow money for her.' The mother told me she gave Mull $50."

Then he testified Mull's wife told him that she did not care about the "other woman" in the least, "because she had friends of her own."

ROOSEVELT FOR INTEREST CUT

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—President Roosevelt will take steps in the near future to reduce interest rates on agriculture, real estate, railroads and all other loans outstanding, both private and nationals.

The method for effecting the desired results has not been worked out yet but Mr. Roosevelt has been studying ways and means.

The President feels that reduction of interest rates on mortgages, railroad bonds and all securities backed by property would increase the value of the loans by reducing fixed charges.

He feels that interest rates in the majority of cases have been too high and that in some cases these high interest rates have been responsible for receiverships.

In this connection it was made plain that the President feels such an interest reduction process would be a boon to hard-pressed American municipalities and railroads.

CALL CONSIDINE IN DEATH CASE

Robert Considine, 55, serving a life term in Western Penitentiary for robbery, was taken to Criminal Court under heavy guard today to testify in a murder case in which an inmate was fatally stabbed.

Internationally known as a master crook, Considine is spending his spare time at the penitentiary writing crime stories for magazines, he revealed on the witness stand. He has spent two-thirds of his life in prison.

He was the last witness called by the commonwealth in the trial of Lawrence Clark, charged with the slaying of Wayne C. Cobb, 35, once a student at Carnegie Tech.

Cobb was stabbed in the prison, September 19, last, and died September 30.

Considine testified he had heard Cobb threaten to kill Clark in a quarrel over another prisoner. The case was expected to reach the jury late today.

Realty Code Ready, Board Here Told

J. W. Cree, Jr., chairman of the code committee of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board, told members of the board yesterday that the code governing real estate is ready for submission to the NRA Administrator in Washington. The meeting was in the Keystone Athletic Club.

The code includes provisions for a minimum wage scale for all employes of $15 for a 40-hour week. Executives receiving more than $35 weekly are exempt.

JOHNSON ILL, QUIZ DELAYED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Because of Hugh S. Johnson, NRA Administrator being ill, Chairman Connery today postponed until tomorrow the opening before the House Labor Committee of hearings on his 30-hour week bill.

A crowd was disappointed. Johnson was to have been questioned about the employment problem.

Connery did not know when Johnson would appear. William Green, president of the American Federaton of Labor is to testify tomorrow.

At Johnson's hotel suite it was said the Administrator had a severe head cold.

C. of C. Head Offers Huge Housing Plan

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Henry I. Harriman, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, in an address here last night said a nationwide house building program, to add 50,000,000 to 75,000,000 rooms to America's homes through the use of private capital, would be the best thing that could be done to lift the country out of the depression.

Such a housing program, he said, could do for America now what the automobile's coming did in the last few decades.

RECOVERY UNITS FACE PROBE BY SENATE

Four Groups Asked to Supply Data on Officers, Costs

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The Senate sought information today concerning the operations of four of the administration's recovery units established during its recess.

Meanwhile Senator Nye, North Dakota, who, with Senators Borah, Idaho, and Dickinson, Iowa, all Republicans, have severely criticized the NRA for "favoring big business," pressed for adoption of his resolution requiring Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson report the business connections of:

1—All members of authorities administering codes.

2—Of all responsible NRA officials.

3—Of those officials who have quit the recovery administration.

Nye said these rosters would reveal to small business the extent of the major corporation's domination over codified industries.

The Senate has required the following emergency agencies to submit information on what authority they were established, copies of their articles of incorporation, their specific functions, money they have received and spent and the number of their personnel and their pay.

Federal Surplus Relief Corporation, Community Credit Corporation, Federal Emergency Housing Corporation and the Electric Home and Farm Authority.

Senator Steiwer (Rep.), of Oregon, author of the resolution, said he believed the Senate should have this information.

Air Mail 'Spoils' Parley Details Aired in Probe

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(INS.)—Details of the noted "spoils" conference in 1930 when air mail contracts were parceled out to big aviation companies which strongly opposed competitive bidding were revealed today to the Black (Senate) committee investigating air and ocean mail contracts.

Earl B. Wadsworth, now assistant superintendent of air mail service in the Postoffice Department and formerly superintendent of contract air mail service, identified a memorandum he wrote in May, 1930, to former Assistant Postmaster General W. Irving Glover, calling the conference at which the contracts were distributed.

CONTRACT AGREEMENT

With Brown presiding, spokesmen for the big companies invited to attend the closed meeting expressed aversion to "competitive bidding," the memorandum revealed.

Among the companies represented were Western Air Express, Stout Air Lines, Aviation Corporation of Delaware, United Aircraft and Transport Co., Eastern Air Transport, National Air Transport, and Pittsburgh Aviation Industries.

The final parcelling out of the air mail contracts was effected at a meeting presided over by former Assistant Secretary of Commerce William P. MacCracken, another memorandum written by Wadsworth revealed.

MacCracken and three aviation company officials have been ordered to appear before the Senate bar Friday to show cause why they should not be held in contempt for removing or destroying air mail records which had been subpenaed by the Black committee.

Navy Plane Profiteering Quiz Told of 'Errors'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(INS.)—Navy Department audits of aircraft manufacturing firms have been carried on in slipshod fashion, T. P. Ballenger, chief accountant of the Navy Supply Bureau, today admitted at a House Naval Affairs Sub-Committee hearing.

The committee is sifting charges of profiteering by aircraft companies through contracts with the Navy Department.

Ballenger, who assumed his position only six months ago, said that the audits, conducted in recent years, should have been more detailed.

The committee devled into the scant information acquired through these audits in regard to the operating of the Pratt-Whitney Company. The committee will check salaries paid the officers of the company and compare these amounts with the volume of business. In this way, the committee hopes to determine whether there has been profiteering. A similar proceedure will be taken by the committee with all other companies which have supplied the Navy with aircraft and equipment.

LEGION URGES COURT BUILDING

A resolution requesting County Commissioners to build a Juvenile Court building and detention home on the property owned by the county and occupied by the present detention home in Forbes street, was adopted at a meeting of the Allegheny County committee of the American Legion at a meeting in the Fort Pitt Hotel last night. Thomas A. Thornton, district commander, presented the petition.

The County Commissioners are to examine the plans for the proposed new home prepared by the Juvenile Court advisory committee.

Herriot Rescued From Paris Mob

PARIS, Feb. 7.—(INS.)—Former Premier Edouard Herriot, the newspaper Echo de Paris said today, was attacked by part of the angry mob as he was leaving the Chamber of Deputies during the height of last night's rioting.

He was rescued hurriedly by police and rushed away apparently unharmed in a police car.

Teacher Pay Cut Scheme Denounced

HARRISBURG, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—School districts which dismiss teachers and then re-employ them at lower salaries are held by Harris C. Arnold, deputy attorney general, to be violating the school code.

The schedule of minimum salaries and minimum increases has been established by the code and must be respected, he said in a formal opinion submitted to the Department of Public Instruction.

BAN ON MARKET POOLS LOOMS

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The Federal Trade Commission will regulate stock exchanges and market pools will be prohibited by terms of the Senate Banking Committee stringent market bills, Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, announced today.

Pecora, who was commisioned by the committee to apply final touches to the bill, preparatory to introduction in the Senate Friday, made public a number of problems with which the measure will be concerned.

Instead of licensing the exchanges, a system of registration will be established, Pecora asserted. The bill, he said, will deal with the following matters:

2—Regulation of margin trading, specialists, listing on the boards and publicity.

3—Establishment of a system of accounting requiring corporations that have stock in the exchanges to submit from time to time reports of condition, financial and otherwise.

McAdoo for Johnson In Senate Campaign

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Senator McAdoo (Dem.), of California, was said authoritatively today to agree with California Democratic representatives who have expressed hope that Senator Johnson (Rep.), of California, would be re-elected this fall.

McAdoo is known to have a high regard for his Republican colleague, who bolted Hoover and supported Roosevelt in 1932, and hopes he will remain in the Senate.

Merchant Praises Roosevelt Policies

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(INS.)—Praising the Roosevelt monetary policy and asserting bankers "know little about money," Gen. Robert E. Woods, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., told a House banking subcommittee today that business is steadily improving.

HOUSE ACTION CUTS INCOME TAX LOAD

Shift Lessens Burden On $8,000 to $25,000; Vote Copra Levy

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—The House Ways and Means Committee today revised the bracket and rates slightly in the new revenue bill to relieve somewhat the burden on incomes of between $8,000 and $25,000.

Brackets affecting such incomes were shifted.

Also shifted were some of those on incomes higher than $25,000, in order to keep the expected additional revenue at 300 million dollars.

Representative Samuel B. Hill (Dem.), Washington, said the committee probably would report the bill tomorrow, but that it would not be ready for House action until next week.

By 15 to 9, the committee sustained previous action in voting a 5-cent-a-pound tax on cocoanut and sesame oils.

The table of new surtax brackets and rates adopted today by the committee, beginning with 4 per cent on incomes over $4,000, follows:

$ 4,000	to $ 8,000	4	per cent
8,000	to 10,000	5	per cent
10,000	to 12,000	6	per cent

CHIEFS NAMED BY CONSUMERS

Temporary officers of the newly organized Consumers' League of Allegheny County were announced today at a luncheon meeting in the Chamber of Commerce.

Elected by delegates from 40 civic, social, and welfare groups in the county, the heads of the new organization are Mrs. W. M. Parrish, chairman; Mrs. Oliver Haller, vice chairman, and L. G. Conway, secretary.

On the executive committee are Mrs. Robert Cochrane, Harry Bostow, Bresci R. Leonard, Mrs. William Gardner, the Rev. P. W. Snyder, Mrs. Charles Reizenstein, Mrs. J. O. Miller, Miss Mary T. Horan, Miss Cora Jones, Dr. F. D. Tyson, Miss Rose Stein, Miss Esther Smith and Miss Helen Grimes.

The main speaker at the meeting was Dr. Paul H. Douglas, chief of the Bureau of Economic Education, NRA, who said the purpose of the Consumers' League is the protection of the public against unfair prices, and low quality of goods, and the providing of credit for worthy persons who are in need.

CITY GETS FIRST TVA POWER

TUPELO, Miss., Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Faces were wreathed in smiles here today as electricity from Muscle Shoals surged through transmission lines into the city.

There was no general celebration. At one minute past midnight the turn of a switch sent the Tennessee Valley Authority into the power business and fulfilled the first TVA contract for cheap hydro electric power.

Tupelo was the first municipality to apply for electrification on the scale conceived by engineers under the New Deal, and became the starting point for the social and industrial experiment of the TVA.

Woman Gets $13,000 For Broken Neck

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—For $13,000, attorneys announced today, Mrs. Lila Fein, wife of a Pittsburgh broker, has settled a $25,000 damage suit against a Chicago theater for a fractured vertebra.

Mrs. Fein now wears a neck brace. She claimed she was injured in a fall while attending a performance at the theater.

Authors Join in Riot Over Waldorf Strike

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—A heavy guard of police was posted around the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel today following a spectacular riot late last night between police, hotel detectives and a crowd of fashionably dressed men and women, many of them prominent in literary and social circles, who sought to swing public sympathy to the cause of striking waiters and kitchen helpers.

Among the strike sympathizers, police said, were Alexander Woolcott and Dorothy Parker, nationally-known writers; Robert Benchley, humorist and critic; Joseph McGoldrick, Julian Whittlesey, Sylvia Knox and Estelle Sterlarger, all known in literary circles, and Selden Rodman and Alfred M. Bingham, members of the staff of the magazine Common Sense.

Bingham is the son of former United States Senator Hiram Bingham, of Connecticut. Both Rodman and Bingham are former Yale men.

The riot began, police charged, when Rodman and Bingham led a party of men and women into the Empire dining room of the hotel, and boldly demanded that some 300 guests there leave the hotel as a protest over the plight of the strikers.

Bingham and others, it is claimed, flew to Rodman's rescue and a wild scene ensued with the orchestra vainly trying to drown out the sound of the battle by playing a snappy fox-trot.

At the height of the melee, Woolcott and Miss Parker, it is said, seated themselves on a table and let fly with a barrage of wisecracks.

U. S. Relies on Europe For Planes—Mitchell

International News Service.

MIDDLEBURG, Va., Feb. 7.—"If we are forced into war we would have to go to Europe to buy our airplanes," Brig. Gen. William E. Mitchell, retired, former chief of the Army Air Corps, stated today.

"All our aviation has gone to the stock market gamblers and to the profiteers."

Mitchell said this in commenting on a copyrighted International News dispatch from Washington reporting the House Military Affairs Committee has been told in secret session that the Army air service is not prepared for battle, Gen. Mitchell asserted:

"We won't have an adequate air service until we have a single department for aviation."

At present the federal government has three separate aviation regulatory units—for the Army, Navy and Commerce departments. Each operates independent of the other.

His charge that "all our aviation has gone to the stock market gamblers and to the profiteers" was prompted by a House committee's discourses of huge profits private airplane manufacturers have made on government contracts.

BRADDOCK BRIDE HELD WITH MATE IN BANK ROBBERY

YOUNG WIFE'S BROTHER, PAL LINKED

Maintains Raid Gave First Knowledge of Husband's Activities

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—While authorities prepared to seek an indictment against William Sutton, 32, alleged bank robber, his young wife, her brother and a friend were held in $10,000 bail each today as suspicious characters.

The girl, who said she was Irene Sadvary, of Braddock, Pa., before her elopement with Sutton to Elkton, Md., a year ago, was arrested with the fugitive from Sing Sing in a West Philadelphia apartment on Monday.

BBROTHER, FRIEND HELD

Held with her for further hearing next Wednesday were John Sadvary, 22, of 1130 Halkett avenue, Braddock, and his friend, David Getsie, 23, of 708 O'Connell boulevard, North Braddock.

They were arrested when they arrived at the Sutton apartment shortly after the raid by Philadelphia and New York police.

ADMITS ROBBERY

Police Capt. William Malone has said Sutton admitted participation in the holdup of a branch of the Corn Exchange National Bank and Trust Company here last month. His wife maintained she knew nothing of his activities, but she was accused as an accessory after the fact, as well as a suspicious character.

Her brother and his friend told officers they came here looking for work and denied knowing Sutton was sought by police or that he was an alleged bank robber.

DOCTORS FACING SOCIAL SERVICE

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Dr. James H. S. Bossard, professor of sociology at the University of Pennsylvania, warned today that refusal of the medical profession to socialize its service may mean riding "directly into the storm of state medicine."

He sounded the warning in an address for delivery at a joint meeting of the College of Physicians of Philadelphia and the American Academy of Political and Social Science. The conference discussed currents and counter-currents between the medical profession and the public.

Citing what he called a new social attitude toward health and health services, Dr. Bossard said it is pointing clearly toward consideration of health and adequate medical service as a social necessity and possibly as a social right.

'Street Singer's' Wife Wins Alimony

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Arthur Tracy, known on the radio as "The Street Singer," must pay his wife $100 a week alimony until a referee can decide what he should pay her pending trial of her suit for a separation, Supreme Court Justice McGeehan ruled today.

The singer's wife, Mrs. Beatrice Tracy, is asking a separation on charges of cruelty and $500 a week alimony and $7,500 counsel fees. Justice McGeehan also directed Tracy to pay his wife $500 toward counsel fees.

Weather Conditions.

A trough of low pressure developed over the Ohio Valley states during yesterday and last night, separating a high centered over the southeastern coast, from another center over Manitoba and Western Ontario, while a center of low pressure overlies New Mexico and Western Kansas, another center over the St. Lawrence Valley. This change in barometric pressure caused a rising temperature over the Ohio Valley states and southwestward to New Mexico, while over the southeastern states and north of the Great Lakes the temperature change was towards colder. Precipitation was light and was limited to light snow over the lake region and eastward.

River Conditions.

FAY CAN'T TAKE PART IN SHOW

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Poor health and matrimonial difficulties obviate any possibility Fay Webb Vallee soon will seek a theatrical career.

Through her lawyer, Ben Cohen, she so commented on the offer of George White, stage producer, for a part for her in his new "Scandals," which will be presented in New York in May.

In connection with the marital dispute between the couple, it was expected that a hearing on her plea for temporary alimony of $7,400 a month from Rudy Vallee, singer and orchestra leader, would be postponed again when it is called in Superior Court today.

The delay probably will be sought to await disposition of actions involving the couple in the New York courts.

Byrd's Flagship Leaves Antarctic

ABOARD S. S. JACOB RUPPERT, ANTARCTICA, Feb. 6.—(INS.)—(By Mackay radio. Delayed).—The Ruppert, flagship of the Byrd Antarctic expedition, cleared the Bay of Whales at 10:46 a. m. today, heading for New Zealand, leaving the expedition's Winter party behind.

The Ruppert will go either to Port Chalmers or Dunedin and there will be laid up for a year. Returning to Antarctica in December or January to pick up the men left in the frozen wastes. The S. S. Bear, of Oakland, remains with the expedition temporarily.

'DEATH PARTY' ROUND-UP ON

TITUSVILLE, Pa., Feb. 7.—(AP.)—A round-up of persons believed to have attended a Lincolnville party that ended in the death of Mrs. Mary Richards, 50-year-old divorcee, was started by officers today.

After a doctor's report that Mrs. Richards died of a fractured skull, police held her son, John Richards, 28, and Bert Davenport, 45, for questioning. It had been at first reported death was due to alcoholism.

Troopers said Mrs. Susie Price, at whose home the party took place, Richards and Davenport at first told them Mrs. Richards was hurt in a fall over a chair. Later, they said, the son told them there had been fighting and he remembered striking his mother.

Deputy Coroner O. H. Danner said the floor of the Price home was wet, apparently from the washing of bloodstains. An inquest will be held tomorrow.

Pitt Grad Killed At Shooting Gallery

CARMICHAELS, Pa., Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Officers say that a bullet from an accidentally discharged rifle in a shooting gallery caused the death of Eugene Yoders, 25, a University of Pittsburgh graduate employed as a state draftsman at Uniontown.

The rifle was fired by Edwin Phillips, 17, and the bullet entered Yoders' chest, the Coroner reported last night. Yoders leaves his wife and infant son.

DROVE HIT-RUN DEATH AUTO, YOUTH SAYS

Boy on Parole in Car Theft, Confesses Fatal Crash

A 17-year-old paroled youth admitted in Morals Court today he was the hit-run driver of a car that struck two women, fatally injuring one, in Aspinwall, two months ago.

Frank Skurski, of 164 Forty-third street, told Magistrate Howard B. McNutt he had stolen the car of Dr. E. E. Mayer from in front of the Wendover Apartments, Hobart street, December 8, and was making his getaway when he struck the women. He was making 75 miles an hour on the Freeport road at the time, he said.

The women were Mrs. Viola Cook, 52, of 121 Twenty-third street, Sharpsburg, and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Cecelia Cook, 28, same address, according to police. The former died the following day in Pittsburgh Hospital from a fractured skull and internal injuries. The younger woman was in the hospital for some time.

The youth, also confessed to the Magistrate he had stolen five automobiles. He was held for court and ordered turned over to the Coroner in connection with the woman's death.

Skurski is under a two-year parole for theft of cars, the Magistrate was informed.

Louis Kline, 28, of 8 Wellsford street, used-car garage proprietor, also on parole for purchasing stolen cars, was likewise held for court. Police testified Kline told them he had bought stolen tires from Skurski. It was Kline's arrest yesterday that led to the arrest of Skurski.

HIGHBALL DEATH LETTERS BARED

GREENWOOD, Miss., Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Love letters the state says Dr. Sarah Ruth Dean wrote to Dr. John Preston Kennedy before his death figured in the woman doctor's trial for murder today.

Dr. Dean is accused of giving Dr. Kennedy a poisoned highball which caused his death. The letters, signed "Ruth," were found in Dr. Kennedy's office, but were not definitely identified as coming from Dr. Dean when presented at the trial yesterday.

The state, which claims a love affair between the two preceded the alleged poisoning, planned to introduce specimens of the woman's signature to establish authorship of the letters.

District Attorney Arthur Jordan read one letter dated July 27, the day on which the state charges Dr. Dean gave Dr. Kennedy the poisoned drink. The letter said:

"My dear, sorry I missed you last night. Please call me when you get this. Am planning to leave Sunday and I want to turn over something to you. Best wishes and love. RUTH."

HIT-RUN VICTIM FOUND IN DAZE

Found wandering dazed in Plainview avenue by the crew of a police scout car early today, Martin Stumpfel, 48, of 135 Point View road, Brentwood, was taken to the South Side Hospital with a possible fractured skull, while police sought to determine how he came by his injuries.

Police were investigating the story told by Stumpfel that he was struck by a hit-and-run driver at Ross street and Fourth avenue shortly before last midnight. He also told police that $108 was missing from his pocket. The spot where he was found is nearly five miles from the downtown district.

KILLER SHRIEKS SUICIDE THREAT

International News Service.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 7—A close guard was maintained today over Theodore Mathers, 19-year-old embalming student and alleged trigger man in the $10 murder of the Rev. Gaylord V. Saunders, to prevent him from committing suicide in jail here.

The beardless youth, suffering from a disease of the heart expected to kill him within three years, screamed for an overdose of medicine "to end it all." He has to take a strong stimulant as medicine constantly. Mathers shrieked:

"I don't believe I did wrong in killing Saunders. He tried to kill me. I'd do it again!"

He held out his wrist, displaying a scar.

"That's why I killed him. He attacked me with a butcher knife. He threatened to kill all of us. He was crazy."

Noted Rabbi Dies On Ocean Liner

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Rabbi Hyman Enelow, noted Jewish leader, died today aboard the liner Empress of Austria off the Carnary Islands, it was announced by Canadian Pacific Steamship Company officials. He was 56.

Since 1912 Rabbi Enelow had been rabbi of Temple Emanu-El, one of the largest congregations in New York City. He had been a vice president of the Central Conference of American Rabbis for 10 years.

Woman Fare Flees Attack on Taxicab

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Hurling bricks and stones, a crowd of about 50 striking taxicab drivers today injured a hack driver and caused his woman passenger to flee in terror.

Two of the malcontents were arrested and charged with malicious mischief.

Parents Blamed For Lies Told By Children

Seeking to keep the youngsters on the straight path, the parents keep too constant check on them, the Western Reserve University professor explained, adding:

"They put the youngsters on the witness stand and make them testify against themselves. And soon, if the children are not feebleminded, they start lying. The trouble lies in the feeling of insecurity a child has about parental understanding."

The psychologist is attending a three-day institute on parent-child relationships.

KILLER BLAMES RADIO MUSIC

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—From his bed in the psychopathic ward of the General hospital here, Clarence Walter today had blamed radio music for the outburst in which he killed one man and wounded another with a jackknife Monday in a broadcasting room of station KHJ. He told doctors:

"All night long I listened to the radio in my home at Santa Ana."

The man, described by his brother, Frank Walter, as "quite crazy five years ago," stabbed to death Edwin Wolverton, 21, of Grand Junction, Col., and seriously injured Warren Fehlman, of Los Angeles, who tried to overpower him.

PITTSBURGHER DIES IN CHAIR

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Albert Bruno, of Pittsburgh, was executed at Ohio Penitentiary here last night for the murder of John L. McLaughlin, a Toledo hotel clerk.

Bruno was the second man to die for the crime, Frank Vacchiano, 25, of Dayton, having been electrocuted December 29, last.

Bruno went to his death protesting:

"I'm not a murderer; I couldn't even kill a chicken."

Bruno held an attorney responsible for his predicament, saying:

"He threw away my life for a miserable five hundred dollars."

'DADDY' DELAYS DOT'S WEDDING

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—A trifle late, but sartorially elegant, Edward W. (Daddy) Browning arrived at the church in time to see his adopted daughter, Dorothy (Sunshine) Browning, 17, married yesterday to Clarence B. Hood, Dunn (N. C.) laundry proprietor.

In addition to the diamond ring, Browning presented his adopted daughter with an imported limousine, done in tan Following the ceremony, the couple stepped into their new car and rode uptown to a night club, where arrangements had been made for a wedding party.

MARY AND DOUG STILL IN LOVE, SAYS SCHENCK

Actress Hopes Mate Will Woo Her Again, Producer Asserts

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—A possibility of a reconciliation between Mary Pickford and Douglast Fairbanks, Sr., was seen here today by Joseph M. Schenck, motion picture producer. He said:

"There is no question in my mind but that Mary and Doug are still very much in love with each other.

"When I talked to Miss Pickford several days ago in New York and delivered a message to her from Doug, she told me she felt she was the aggrieved party.

"She told me if Doug would woo her all over again there was every possibility their difficulties could be patched up and their marriage resumed without a divorce.

"Fairbanks did not say to me directly they would become reconciled, but from what he told me he gave me the feeling that he wanted to try it all over again with Miss Pickford."

Yesterday Schenck indicated he saw no possibility of a reconciliation.

While he was in Europe, said Schenck, there was no intimation that Lord Ashley intended naming Fairbanks in a divorce suit against Lady Ashley, formerly known to the London stage as Sylvia Hawkes. Notice of the suit was served yesterday on Lady Ashley and Fairbanks.

Lady Ashley, Cinderella Of Stage, in New Role

LONDON, Feb. 7.—(Universal.)—No Cinderella ever had a more rapid and thriumphant rise from poverty to luxury than Sylvia Hawkes, who as Lady Ashley was cast today in an "eternal triangle" role in a London divorce drama and the world's headlines.

Sylvia Hawkes was "Cinderella" to London newspapers on February 3, 1927, when she became the bride of Lord Ashley, heir of the Earl of Shaftesbury, at St. Paul's, Knightbridge, London.

She was only five years removed from the squalor of an English "pub," and was then an actress in "The Whole Town's Talking."

She was 20 and her lord was 26. At 15 she had left the "pub" operated by her former stable-hand-father to be a dressmakers' mannequin. Her beauty attracted attention and she was taken into a musical comedy chorus.

She set the whole town talking before she ever appeared in a play of that name by doing a scene in the "Midnight Follies" clad in what observers thought was a scanty undergarment.

FAMILY OPPOSITION

On the morning of the wedding day, Lord and Lady Shaftesbury left their Elizabethan manor house, stately old St. Giles, in a limousine that roared along the road 120 miles to London. They reached St. Paul's Church just as their son and their unwanted daughter-in-law were leaving—man and wife.

The Countess of Shaftesbury, lady of the bedchamber to Queen Mary, never had seen the bride until that moment. Her husband was in a towering rage.

A short time after the marriage it was noted that while Lord Ashley and his bride were strolling in Hyde Park, the royal limousine happened to roll by and Her Majesty the Queen, leading forward, nodded to them.

After that the ex-Follies girl, the pub-keeper's daughter, was accepted by society, but not for long.

U. S. Board Accuses Rayon Companies

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—The Federal Trade Commission today issued a formal complaint against 10 rayon yarn companies, manufacturers of practically all the rayon yarn in the country, charging them with "combining and conspiring to force a price fixing monopoly in the sale of their product."

The companies are required to file an answer within 30 days to show why the commission should not issue an order requiring them to cease the alleged practices.

Store Owner Held For Slot Machines

Charged with possession of gambling devices, Julius Andras, alleged proprietor of a confectionery store at 1500 Terrace street, North Braddock, will be given a hearing before Justice of the Peace Charles E. Hawkins, of North Braddock, tonight.

County Detectives Albert Shedlock and John Carmichael raided the store and confiscated two slot machines, they said in an information filed against Andras.

M'NAIR THREAT MAY DELAY METER TAX

Mayor McNair today threatened to send the Kane meter tax ordinance back to Council for an explanation of its provisions.

The bill which places a $2 tax on meters of utility companies was passed in Council and lies on his desk. He said:

"The ordinance should be sent back to Council and clarified. No one knows what it means now. I am sure I don't."

'SPEEDOMETER' TAX'

The Mayor said he would tell a lumbermen's convention in Webster Hall this afternoon that the ordinance places a tax on speedometers of trucks.

McNair also holds 3,100 individuals owning water meters in the city should pay the $2 tax, but the law department holds the ordinance does not apply to them.

SEEKS COMMITTEE AID

In the meantime, McNair has arranged a meeting of the Democratic City Committee through John J. Murray, city chairman, at which he will attempt to enlist support of the Democratic bloc in Council as a veto minority. The time of the meeting has not been announced.

Councilman John J. Kane has issued a statement denying that the ordinance passed by Council taxes consumers who own meters. He said:

"This ordinance expressly places the tax on the utility companies and on them only. No consumer who owns his meter need fear that he will be subjected to the tax, whether he owns an electric, water or any other kind of meter."

SEEKS PROTESTS

The Mayor, who has disagreed with the Law Department recently about ground rents, and with William A. Magee's statement in Council on the illegality of $6,000 exemption on new homes, is positive on the effect of the meter tax. He said:

"I am of the opinion that all these meters owned by 3,100 people will have to be taxed. I'll send them notice now to be ready to pay as soon as the bill is signed. I'll tell them the bill will be signed in 10 days unless they come in and protest. They'll be in and protest—plenty."

JOHNSTON JOB DECISION NEAR

A drive to oust Leslie M. Johnston, the city's new Public Works Director, from a second position he holds is scheduled to reach a crisis tomorrow night at the annual meeting of stockholders of the Keystone Drilling Company, according to one faction of the stockholders.

Johnston for two years has been president and general manager of the company, which has headquarters in Beaver Falls. A group led by W. J. Sterrett and M. R. Glover is gathering proxies and at tomorrow's scheduled meeting in Beaver Falls will, according to their announcement, attempt to install a new set of directors opposed to Johnston.

A protective committee" has been formed and has mailed circulars to stockholders asking support. The announcement contends that Johnston has received in salary $22,000 in 23 months, that his present salary is $666 per month.

As the city's public works director, Johnston receives $8,000 yearly.

Johnson declined to comment on the corporation meeting.

PARLEY ON CAB FARE SLATED

The possibility of cheaper taxicab fares in Pittsburgh was to be discussed before Council this afternoon.

Representatives of the Zone Cab Company, of Cleveland, and the Parmelee System, operating here, were summoned yesterday by Council to appear at the hearing.

The Zone company, it is expected, will present arguments for the admission of its cabs to the city. Of a lighter type than the Parmelee, the Zone cabs operate on a fare far below the present Pittsburgh rates.

The question of whether the Parmelee rates can be reduced probably will be raised.

Hornbostel Sees Humor in Lineup For Art Unit

All the artists proposed as members of the City Art Commission have a good sense of humor, at least according to Henry Hornbostel.

Omitting a self-portrait, Hornbostel, an architect, gave Council a brief laudatory sketch of the characters of the two other architects proposed for the commission, Charles M. Stotz and Robert Schmertz; of Painter E. M. Ashe and Sculptor Anthony Vittor.,

Councilman William A. Magee seemed to want the sketch to prove the artists were "eminent in their professions." The two laymen proposed are M. L. Benedum and S. L. Benedito.

A resolution submitting the seven names will be presented in Council.

Reports of Vare Illness Held False

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Reports in Philadelphia that William S. Vare, Republican national committeeman for Pennsylvania, was seriously ill were denied last night in Florida, where he had been spending part of the winter.

Sanitation Chief Position Approved

Creation of a position of superintendent-engineer of the Bureau of Sanitation has been affirmatively recommended by Council in finance committee. The engineer probably would have much to say about the proposed city incineration plans.

ELECTION TRIAL NEARS JURY

The case of five officials of the election board of the Nineteenth District, Fourth Ward, on trial accused of vote frauds at the general election, November 8, 1932, went to the Federal Court this afternoon.

The defendants took the stand and made a general denial of all charges.

The government rested its case late yesterday after calling 90 witnesses, 79 of them voters in the district. They testified voting straight Democrat or Socialist tickets, which number, the government contends, is more than recorded in the official tabulation.

The defendants are Joseph Tortorelli, judge; Malachi Tiernan and Irvin Braun, inspectors, and John F. McNally and Bernard Grossman, clerks.

Maurice A. Nernberg, handwriting expert, a government witness, yesterday showed the jury a large number of ballots which he said bore different marks, contending cross marks were made by more than one person.

7 VOTE SUITS DISMISSED

Court orders dismissing seven minor election contests, aftermaths of the voting last November, were filed late yesterday by Judges Frank P. Patterson, Elder W. Marshall and George V. Moore. The judges still have under consideration motions to quash contests of the vote for Sheriff in 25 districts, and are to resume on Friday the hearing in the Braddock burgess contest.

The county grand jury returned an indictment late yesterday against the election board of the First District of West Homestead, charging violation of the election laws. Those indicted were Andrew Foulds, judge; Anna Guthrie and W. A. Steimer, inspectors; Pearl Steimer and Maud Richards, clerks.

Minor contests, which the judges dismissed, include:

Contest of election of W. H. McClain, Joseph Huck, Michael Deliman and Benjamin Jackson to Council of Rankin; Thomas J. Tierney as burgess of Rankin; W. J. McBride as tax collector of Rankin; Herbert C. Hess as tax collector of West Deer Township; Emil Mura and J. A. Perrone as school directors of Rankin; Frank J. Gerger, Jr., and William Leech as Councilmen, First Ward, McKees Rocks, and W. J. Holohan, Jr., as auditor of Rankin, all dismissed.

SMITH BUDGET SAVING HIT

Assistant City Solicitor Thomas M. Benner has delivered a knockout to the idea of returning $750,000 to the sinking fund this year, as proposed by Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, the Mayor's budget adviser. The idea, which formed a large part of Mrs. Smith's budget-balancing program, cannot be carried out legally, Benner stated.

The report of Mrs. Smith and Auditor M. C. Conick on city finances has been published in pamphlet form by a group of citizens pleased with the results of the Smith-Conick investigation.

In its final form, the estimated economies were reduced by $40,000 as the result of an error in the figures for the Department of Public Safety.

though temporarily it spit, sputtered and jolted us badly."

He says we should repair the old American economic structure, that has carried us so far, instead of scrapping it.

THERE IS no danger of scrapping that structure, unless temporarily. On earth there are no sudden changes.

The French revolution, which was to make God, capitalists, royalty and rank unnecessary, gave way to Napoleon, some kings, Napoleon Third, a "bourgeloise" republic, and now to thoroughly organized capitalism.

NATIONS OUTGROW methods, but do it slowly. They do not scrap them. Russia will have its old-fashioned ways back again, with capitalism and profit and selfishness and titles, but great improvement over the czar's day.

We shall have back again our government by intelligent, benevolent, organized money, but chastened, more intelligent, more genuinely benevolent than hitherto.

"STONE WALLS do not a prison make," you all know that, "nor iron bars a cage," under certain conditions.

That youth, beauty and even diamonds do not make happiness, you learn from a young woman, a "Follies girl" found dead, sitting in a hotel, registered under a false name.

She had nine diamond rings on her fingers, two hundred and eighty dollars in loose change in her handbag. Her lips were burned with poison and those burned lips will never tell.

CITY EFFICIENCY AIM OF MAGEE

An efficiency survey of the manner of conducting city business has been suggested by Councilman William A. Magee as a substitute for a proposed $20,000 audit of city departments.

When the subject of the audit came up in Finance Committee yesterday, Magee said:

"I'm for an efficiency survey of the present rather than an audit of the past. The investigation I have in mind is rather an engineering than an accounting proposition. Accounting should be a by-product of efficiency—not vice versa."

Magee said he thought money would be more advantageously expended in finding how to save money in the future than in uncovering mistakes of the past.

The audit, originally presented by Councilman Robert Garland, was referred to the budget committee.

Democrats Honor McCall at Banquet

Police Magistrate Charles J. McCall was honored last night at a dinner tendered him by the Third Ward Democratic Club in McCreery's dining room. About 400 attended. Magistrate McCall heads the organiation.

ATTORNEY OUT FOR ASSEMBLY

Attorney S. V. Albo today announced as a candidate for Legislative nomination in the Twelfth District. This is the district formerly represented by Judge M. A. Musmanno, with whom Albo formerly was associated in law practice. In announcing his platform, Albo said:

Mr. Albo

"I shall champion and support all legislation directed to the abolition of distress, destitution and the abuse of power; all legislation which shall tend to ease the burden of existence for all, the very old and the very young; all legislation which shall bring us closer to the achievement of economic security and which shall absolutely assure to labor at all times a fair return under just conditions for its honest toil."

Albo, who resides in Dormont, is a graduate of Allegheny High School and the University of Pittsburgh. He was admitted to the bar in 1926, and immediately began an association with Judge Musmanno which ended when the latter went on the bench.

Officers of all branches of the service will attend in uniform.

Captain, Crew Lost As Boat Explodes

HAMBURG, Germany, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—The captain and the crew of four were lost when the German tanker Stormvogel exploded Monday in the North Sea with a cargo of gasoline aboard, it was learned today.

Dutch vessels which hurried to the scene found only a few drifting planks. The Stormvogel was bound from Amsterdam to Stettin, Germany.

McNair's First Veto On $1,250 Sprayer

Mayor McNair has vetoed his first bill—for a $1,250 power sprayer for the City Planning Department. In his veto message the Mayor said that in the present economic situation it would be better to spend the money for wages for men to do the work by hand.

EYNON ENTERS CONTEST FOR GOVERNOR

Benjamin G. Eynon, deposed deputy secretary of revenue, announced himself a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor last night in a speech before the Pittsburgh Chapter of the Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association in the Adolph Blattner Building, 3129 Forbes street.

Eynon was discharged August 24, 1932, following charges of maladministration in the State Bureau of Motor Vehicles, of which he was once registrar. Dr. Clyde King, secretary of revenue, made the charges.

VOLPE TAGS RECALLED

He is said to have issued low-numbered automobile license plates to the late Arthur, James and John Volpe. The brothers were slain by gang gunmen in a Wylie avenue cafe.

Mayor William N. McNair also spoke at the meeting attended by more than 1,000 persons. He stated that the taxes on gasoline and motor trucks are too high.

SCHNADER IN RACE

HARRISBURG, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Friends of Attorney General William A. Schnader have served notice in all quarters of the capitol that he is definitely a candidate for Governor.

While Schnader is known to be considering trying for the Republican nomination, and has authorized no one to speak for him officially, the discussion of his candidacy has changed in the past few days from the status of cautious gossip into one of confident certainty.

4 ASPIRANTS IN EAST

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—As the political spotlight was focussed today on the race for the Republican gubernatorial nomination the names of four Philadelphians were injected as starters in the contest.

Mayor J. Hampton Moore was one of the four Philadelphians.

The three others from this city, named in the Philadelphia Public Ledger in a copyrighted article, are George Horace Lorimer, editor of the Saturday Evening Post; Herbert J. Tily, department store president, and President Judge Harry S. McDevitt, of Common Pleas Court.

The service will commemorate the blowing up of the battleship Maine in Havana harbor, February 15, 1898.

Davis Denies Pact To Aid Pinchot And Reed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(Universal.)—Senator James J. Davis (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, today indicated he was not interested in making the fight for the governorship of that state this fall. He said cryptically:

"I have five years to serve as Senator under my present term."

Davis denied participating in conferences at which it was suggested he resign his seat in the Senate to pave the way for Gov. Gifford Pinchot to go to the Senate for the remainder of Davis' term.

Such a move would clear the Pinchot obstacle in the way of re-election of Senator David A. Reed (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, next fall, it was said.

COYNE SCORED BY BONNIWELL

Municipal Court Judge Eugene C. Bonniwell, of Philadelphia, struck out at the Vare and Coyne factions last night at a meeting of the Allied Boards of Trade in the Congress of Women's Clubs.

Judge Bonniwell, who has announced his intention of running for Governor or United States Senator on the Democratic ticket, said the voters should "wipe out the gangs of Coyne and Vare in one fell blow."

Mayor McNair looked in at the meeting. He left before he was introduced. John M. Henry attended and so did others who are known to oppose the state Democratic leadership of David L. Lawrence and Joseph F. Guffey.

President W. G. Negley presided. Other speakers included Prof. Marion K. McKay, University of Pittsburgh economist; Dr. A. L. Lewin and Attorney E. H. Wicks.

SAINT'S BONES FOUND AT 'U'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—An inventory of relics in Georgetown University archives resulted today in the finding of bones believed there to be of three early Catholic saints who suffered martyrdom 16 centuries or more ago. Records revealed they had been given to the keeping of the college nearly 100 years ago by Pope Gregory XVI.

The bones, identified as of St. Vincentius, St. Aelius and St. Theophilus, were found in one of the sacred vaults in the original wooden cases in which they were sent from Rome. At the direction of Dr. Coleman Nevils, S. J., president of the university, the bones have been placed in a newly completed relic room under a chapel in the senior's dormitory.

TAILORETTE CURTAIN Curtains

$1 Pr.

Our poor copy-writer didn't anticipate trouble over advertising the truth about these. She remembered a sale last year when 1.59 was considered a phenomenally low price. She knew prices had risen since. She knew the manufacturer made no inexpensive curtains, that these were actual reductions of regular stock in order to inventory with cash instead of stock on hand. But what a time she had convincing one of our shoppers!

It was only after Gimbels most hardened shopper had gone from one end of town to the other to look at Tailorette curtains that she gave in. They were the nationally advertised curtains one saw in all the best magazines. They were beautifully fine mercerized French marquisette. They did have the uniquely woven and handsome border patterns (made on a patented machine only by Tailorette) that sold elsewhere at 1.59 and more. Every one was 70 inches wide overall and a good 2¼ yards long. And so while she marveled she okayed the truth of all the harassed writer had written. "You'll have to tell them all ecru fades a little with repeated washing" was the only thing she could think of against them.

ARAK WILTON RUGS . . . 59.50

Half New Patterns, Half Discontinued—

Today's Standard Price of New Patterns, 84.50

Truthfully these are not the heaviest, the thickest, the best Wiltons made. However, members of the Carpet Institute must submit patterns and weaves with the proposed selling price to the Institute for examination before they can be marketed. When you see a rug bearing this Institute label you are assured of its being standard quality at that price. In this case, a heavy Wilton weave of first quality all-wool yarn (not worsted, however), seamless, in Persian and Chinese patterns judged satisfactory adaptations of famous old carpets, and "listed" at 84.50. We're allowed to sell them for less because half, but only half, are in discontinued designs. They were good patterns six months ago. We don't think you'll find them bad now. In any case, these are superior Wiltons for the price. And really lovely! That's the truth, too, as you'll agree when you see them.

DALADIER AND CABINET QUIT IN FRENCH RIOTING; MOBS IN STREETS

"Resign! Resign!"

Thousands were jammed into the square in front of the bourse. Trading had to be suspended owing to their deafening cries of:

"Assassin!"

Daladier announced his decision to withdraw from the government after a night-long conference with President Lebrun while police and city officials checked the toll of mad mob violence.

1,000 WOUNDED

In seven hours of violent rioting last night at least six persons were killed. Estimates of the number of wounded run more than 1,000.

The Monarchist newspaper Action Francaise places the number of dead at 50. Some were shot, others were cut down by sabers and some were trampled as officers, firing from the hip, drove the mob, numbering thousands, down the street.

Andre Bardon, under-secretary in charge of fine arts, resigned in protest against troops firing into the crowds.

The final moments of the Chamber's session last night passed under the protection of machine guns, mounted on the Chamber's steps, the muzzles sweeping the angry crowd.

Rioting had spread today to the provincial cities. At Lille, Nantes and Nancy, reports here said, police were called to disperse mobs.

Men and women by the thousand, hooting Daladier, choked the main streets of Lyons. There were manifestations, too, in other cities as veterans protested the dismissal of the Paris police prefect, Jean Chiappe.

There were numerous opinions as to the actual cause of the outbreaks here and in other cities. Some said the rioters were furious at the government over the Stavisky pawnshop scandal, others that the people were generally restive under financial and economic pressure. Royalists, always hostile to the Republican regime, were active in the rioting.

Not since the bloody revolution of 1870 has Paris seen such disorders as raged for seven hours last night.

MACHINE GUNS RATTLE

Thousands of Parisiens, fighting and shouting, made up the mob. They vented their anger and fury with firearms, rocks and the torch.

They fired pistols pointblank into the ranks of charging police.

The magnificent Place de la Concorde, where once the guillotine stood, marked the worst of the rioting. Royalists led charge after charge, and stated at the end they would start all over again today.

The hours between 7 p. m. and midnight saw the wildest disorder and bloodshed. At 7 o'clock the mob of many hundreds led by royalists smashed police lines at the bridgehead leading to the Chamber of Deputies.

At 7:15 p. m., the machine guns mounted on the Chamber steps began spitting fire and lead. Behind those guns, in the Chamber, the deputies were still in session.

The fire from the machine guns whined over the heads of the mob. Many bullets flattened themselves harmlessly against the walls of the Hotel Crillon. One bullet killed a French maid. Another dropped a man dead.

The mob moved forward, then back time after time, beating like waves against a breakwater. The sabers and bullets of police seemed only to add to their fury.

MOB DRIVEN BACK

Near midnight came the third and bloodiest of the encounters. Police, firing from the hip, drove the throng, men and women alike—many frightened now, some hysterical—across the Place de la Concorde and up the Rue Royale.

Many fell, struck by bullets. Some were women. All were caught under the feet of their terror-stricken companions.

Hundreds, crushed against the barred door of the fashionable Hotel Crillon, pounded and pleaded for admittance. Finally, they were let in. In the richly furnished salons they found refuge.

Thousands of others were trapped in a crush of terrified humanity before the Madeleine church.

The ground floor of the Ministry of Marine in the Rue Royale was wrecked. The great windows were smashed. Lighted rolls of paper—improvised torches—were tossed inside. The ministry blazed half an hour. Smoke, billowing from the shattered windows, added to the terror of the night.

AMERICANS PERILED

The mob also left untouched the American embassy nearby. Several Americans, including three officials of the embassy, were endangered by bullets. These included J. Theodore Marriner, Robert C. Pell, and S. Pinkney Tuck, of the embassy staff, and Mrs. Gustave Porges, Vida Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jaffe, Mrs. Jane Ladds and Mrs. Bessie Burr, all of New York.

O. W. Phillips, of Greenwich, Conn., of the sports staff of the Washington Herald, almost had his automobile burned by the mob. He waved his passport and the police charged to the rescue.

Pell, of the embassy staff, and Harold Williamson, embassy secretary, were caught in the crowd that was jammed against the Madeleine Church, but escaped.

Richard Massock, an Associated Press staff man, was slightly hurt in the hand. He said it was hard to tell what struck him—possibly a bullet or a flying iron missile.

OFFICIALS BEATEN

Numerous French officials were among those beaten and injured. Senator Gaston Menier was kicked and beaten. His condition is serious. Former Premier Edouard Herriot narrowly missed the same treatment.

Director Marchand, of the municipal police, was wounded. Xavier Guichard, police chief, was injured. Half a dozen municipal counselors were clubbed.

Daladier issued a statement declaring:

"Certain political leagues have repeatedly excited riots and tried to attack by force the Republican regime.

"Bands armed with revolvers attacked the police and the garde mobile.

"They opened fire on the defenders of order. Numerous police were wounded. The proof is clear through the identity of demonstrators that it was really an attempt by arms against the safety of the state."

Hospitals were full of injured and wounded, excepting the American. Among those taken to hospitals was Roger Thibaud, son of the famous violinist, Jacques Thibaud. He was knocked unconscious in the rioting.

Havana Bombing Marks New Strike

HAVANA, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—A huge bomb set off at dawn today badly damaged showrooms of the Cuban Electric Company on Galiano street but was the sole disorder in connection with a called general strike which scarcely affected the capital.

Stavisky Fraud Direct Cause of French Rioting

International News Service.

PARIS, Feb. 7. — Although France's economic situation lay in the background, the immediate cause of the Paris revolutionary riots was the Stavisky pawnshop crash, which resulted in a loss of $40,000,000 to the French public and later was revealed as involving the highest politicians and government officials.

Serge Alexander Stavisky, Russian adventurer, sold $40,000,000 worth of bonds based upon inadequate security held by the Bayonne municipal pawnshop. Although he had been under indictment for years, Stavisky, through alleged political favoritism, was enabled to continue his operations.

The fraud was disclosed early in December. Stavisky disappeared. Later the police found him in a northern border town, shot dead in a lonely cabin. Police officially declared him a suicide, but the public, inflamed by the press, was inclined to believe he was "executed" to cover up high authorities involved.

The Chautemps Radical Socialist government was overthrown on the issue. Premier Daladier, although of the same party as Chautemps, organized a quite different government and promised a thorough investigation of the whole affair.

The feeling prevailed, however, that action had been taken too late, and that the Radical Socialists should not be intrusted with the task of "cleaning house."

YANKEE TELLS OF PARIS RIOT

(Editor's Note—John Wolfe, a New York exporter, with offices in Paris, was caught in the swirling mobs that rioted through the streets of Paris last night. In the following story Wolfe tells his impressions of what he saw and what happened to him during one of the most dramatic nights in the history of the French capital.)

By JOHN WOLFE

PARIS, Feb. 7.—If you can imagine what Hell is like then you have some idea of what happened to me just before midnight last night when the police began firing in the Place de la Concorde.

I first thought the shots were blanks. Then I saw people fall, screaming, dying. I realized it was not a joke.

I started to run. The police knocked me down. They beat me with clubs. I shouted:

"I am an American."

The reply was:

"That's what they all say."

I was knocked down and beaten again. I was thrown by a policeman into a group of others who were wounded and was beaten again.

A doctor came along and examined me. He took me to the hospital with a dozen others who had been injured.

Students, Police Clash in Spain

MADRID, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—A captain of the Spanish Assault Guards was shot and seriously wounded today and several persons were injured in a clash between Leftist members of the Students' Federation and police.

French Claimants To Throne Silent

BRUSSELS, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—The Duc de Guise, 60-year-old claimant of the Bourbon throne of France, who is here in exile, refused today to comment upon the situation in France.

Another claimant to the throne of France is Prince Louis Napoleon, 20, who lives in Switzerland with his mother, Clementine.

Each is regarded by various sections of the Royalist party, which has participated in the riotings in Paris, as the rightful ruler of France.

Paris 'Phone Girls Remain at Posts

PARIS, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—The telephone switchboard girls in Paris stuck to their posts today working calmly and rapidly as the city rioted.

Theirs was the duty to help keep the world informed of the crisis while all the world tried to talk to them at once. The result was a delay in international telephone calls but, late this afternoon, there was no operation of censorship.

Nazi Papers Shun Paris Riot Comment

BERLIN, Feb. 7.—(INS.)—German newspapers today displayed prominently news of the Paris riots but reserved editorial comment.

Government officials and Nazi leaders pointed to the events in the French capital as confirming the weakness and eventual death of the parliamentary system in Europe.

AMERICAN HURT IN PARIS RIOT

International News Service.

PARIS, Feb. 7.—Robert Pell, press attache of the American embassy, was among those injured in the Place de la Concorde rioting, it was disclosed today, while the American consulate was asked to search for two New Yorkers reported missing after the fighting.

Pell was struck over the head with a night stick by a policeman who encountered him as he was leaving the embassy, located directly off the Place de la Concorde.

John Wolfe, a New Yorker, who was missing overnight was located today in Laennec hospital. He had been severely beaten, but his condition was not regarded as critical. His injuries were received, it was stated, at the hands of the police during the rioting in the Place de la Concorde. Briton Busch, a travel agent from New York, was still missing.

A bullet grazed the leg of Mrs. Gustave Porges, American wife of a prominent member of Paris society, as she was sitting in the lobby of the Crillon Hotel, directly across the street from the American embassy and a favorite residence of Americans.

HOOKED RUG PATTERN 635

Fascinating Needlework

In every collection of antique hooked rugs, cats, dogs and lambs are bound to find a place. Though a lamb is not exactly a household pet, it seems to add a cozy touch to a home. Certainly this lamb looks as if it were ready to fit comfortably into any room. It could be done in white or a light gray or tan, which can be set off effectively with a mottled background. A rug of any desired size can be made as the corners are adjustable and can even be omitted if desired and used on a chair back set.

Pattern 635 contains a transfer pattern of a lamb 21 inches long and four corners; complete directions and color schemes for a hooked rug.

Send 10 cents for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

2 WIDOWS CLAIM INSURANCE

International News Service.

NORFOLK, Va., Feb. 7.—A problem worthy of the wisdom of Solomon confronts Federal Judge Luther B. Way as he attempts to unravel the posthumous marital tangle left by Arthur Lee Sealey 15 years after his death.

Two widows, neither of whom knew of the other's existence, are suing for the Government insurance of Sealey, who served in the Navy.

Wife No. 2, Mrs. Amy Marie Sealey, who claims she married Sealey 18 years ago, already has collected $8,000 on an insurance policy and an additional $5,000 in widow's compensation. Insurance amounting to $4,000 is still due. Wife No. 1, Mrs. Nellie V. Sealey, has produced a marriage certificate showing she married Sealey prior to the other ceremony.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair
—With—
Patricia Pitt

There'll be a wedding tonight, but it will be attended by only members of the two families because of the recent death of the bride's father, the late Moses B. Suydam.

Catherine Suydam, daughter of Mrs. Moses B. Suydam, of Pembroke place, will become Mrs. James McCutcheon tonight at 7 o'clock in the Suydam family home with the Rev. Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr officiating.

After the ceremony, the McCutcheons will leave for a West Indies cruise, and will be at home in the Arlington Apartments upon their return. Mr. McCutcheon is the son of Mrs. Thomas G. McCutcheon.

Brilliant Wedding Season Forecast

Ever since the glamorous holiday season—the gayest we've had in years—there's been proof that romance is coming to the fore, for we've had interesting betrothal announcement after betrothal announcement.

And those who enjoy nothing so much as a wedding — and who doesn't?—are anticipating a brilliant bridal season this spring and June.

Today boasts news of another plighting of troth. The John Loudon Hardies, of Forbes street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy Elizabeth Hardie, to Dr. Stuart Jamison Horner, son of Dr. and Mrs. Harry Jamison Horner, of Valmont street.

Dorothy is a graduate of Winchester School here at home, and of Ogontz School for Girls. Her fiance attended Mercersburg Academy, and is a graduate of the school of dentistry, University of Pittsburgh.

Stage and Play Party To Be Omitted Tonight

For the first time in ages, there'll be no entertainment for the actors-for-the-night after the stage and play program of three one-act plays this evening.

Or at least no entertainment has been planned yet. But of course it's highly possible that there'll be something impromptu.

It's interesting to watch a Stage and Play audience arriving—there are the smart young things, their married sisters and their husbands, their mothers and their grandmothers. There's always a representation, too, of Pittsburgh's university circles.

By the way, any one interested in the plays Booth Tarkington's "Trysting Place," "Copy," a newspaper sketch; and Lady Gregory's "Workhouse Ward," may attend—the admission fee's reasonable.

Burnette E. Thomas With Sports Party

Burnette E. Thomas, daughter of the P. C. Thomases, of Edgerton place, spent the past week-end at the Hotel Bellevue, Intervale, N. H., with a winter sports party from Bradford Junior College, Bradford, Mass. Burnette's a freshman at Bradford.

Before the single hound trials at the Westmoreland Polo Club, Greensburg, sponsored by the Western Pennsylvania Hunts, Miss Margaret Coulter, master of fox hounds of the Westmoreland Hunt, entertained judges and some of the out-of-town folks at luncheon in her home. After the trials, there was a tea in the clubhouse. And some of the guests stayed on for dinner.

Calvary Parish Masquers to Give Play

The Masquers at Calvary Parish are presenting, as their third production of the current season, "Here Today," by George Oppenheimer and George S. Kaufmann. The play will be given in the theater of the Calvary Parish House, Shady avenue, the evenings of February 12 and 13, at 8:30 o'clock.

The action of the play occurs in Nassau, and concerns antics of Mary Hilliard and Stanley Dale in their effort to assist a friend to win the hand of a Back-Bay debutante, in spite of a petulant, society-minded mother, a younger brother, and a staid insurance broker from Beacon Hill.

Past Matrons Giving Party This Evening

The past matrons of Bellefield Chapter No. 227, Order of the Eastern Star, will sponsor a card party this evening in the Eastern Star Temple, South Highland avenue, for the benefit of the debt fund. The chairman is Mrs. Agnes R. Machesney and the vice chairman, Mrs. Edna Bergman.

HER BETROTHAL ANNOUNCED AT SUPPER-DANCE

Pastor Officates At Daughter's Marriage

The father of the bride officiated at the marriage on Saturday evening of Miss Ruth Ann Travis and John Clinton Tinstman, of Tarentum Heights. Mrs. Tinstman is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Albert Kirkby Travis, of Chislett street. The Rev. Travis is minister at the Morningside Methodist Episcopal Church where the ceremony took place at 5 o'clock.

Mrs. Tinstman

The bride wore a gown of old rose lace with matching accessories and a shoulder spray of pink roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Roberta H. Shoff, as maid of honor wore peach crepe with matching accessories and a shoulder corsage of tea roses. Henry Appel served as the best man. Guests included members of the two families.

Mrs. Tinstman has just completed her A. B. degree course at Allegheny College, Meadville, from where she will be graduated in June. She is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta and Kappa Delta Epsilon. The bridegroom is a senior at Allegheny College and is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

There was a dinner in the Travis home after the wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Tinstman will be at home in Boileau place, Meadville.

Gibson Girls, National Leaders, To Be Belles of League Ball

By BESS FURMAN
Associated Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Three 1901-1905 Gibson girls, pompadours and all—Eleanor Roosevelt, Mary Harriman and Isabella Selmes — will be belles of the Junior League Ball here Friday night.

Their names now are Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the President; Mrs. Charles Cary Rumsey, head of the Consumers Advisory Board of NRA, and Mrs. John C. Greenway, Representative from Arizona.

But for one night they are going to turn the clock back to the days when they were debutantes in New York City, and Mary Harriman started the Junior League, which the other two quickly joined.

Mrs. Rumsey will wear to the ball a gown she wore in 1901, a creation all silver shimmer, tulle and pink rosebuds.

Mrs. Roosevelt is having a copy of a gown of that period made, in blue.

Mrs. Greenway will receive from her cousin, Mrs. John C. Breckinridge in Maine, a dress of gray silk, with irises embroidered in natural colors, of the correct year.

Mrs. Roosevelt confessed today that she had had an awful time trying to make her hair go pompadour again.

She answered:

"I never wore a rat."

Mrs. Rumsey told the story of how she started the Junior League.

"I had been in college under the influence of such men as Dewey. Eighty girls were coming out that year, and I felt they should begin to do something for their neighbors.

"Now, by jove, they're beginning to do things for themselves, starting study classes and building clubhouses. I wish they'd get back to the spirit of 1901!

"Instead they're building big clubhouses where they go to swim and manicure their nails —and it keeps out girls who want to belong and do something for others."

Grace M. Junker To Be Married On Friday

On Friday evening Miss Grace Mary Junker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Junker, of Cologne street, South Side, and Thomas A. Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Robinson, of Eccles street, will be married at 7:30 o'clock in the Evangelical Lutheran Church, Stewart avenue.

Officiating will be the Rev. John Wannemacher. The bride will be given in marriage by her father, and her sister, Miss Ruth Junker, will be maid of honor.

Catholic Council Plans Lincoln's Birthday Party

Lincoln's Birthday will be celebrated at the Council House of the Pittsburgh Council of Catholic Women on Saturday afternoon with a benefit card party. Mrs. M. A. Bittner is general chairman.

Three Sisters Taking Cruise To Indies

Mr. and Mrs. Sol Prince and Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Prince, of Pottsville, Pa., and their sister, Miss Ruth Lieberman, of Hobart street, Squirrel Hill, will sail Saturday afternoon on the Pan-America for a cruise to Havana, Nassau, Cuba and Miami, Fla.

They will spend some time in Miami before returning home. Mrs. Sol Prince, Mrs. I. W. Prince and Miss Lieberman are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lieberman, of Hobart street.

St. Lawrence Players Giving 3-Act Comedy

"Broken Dishes," a three-act comedy by Martin Flavin, will be given in the Peabody High School auditorium tomorrow evening, by the St. Lawrence Players under the direction of Peggy Dougherty and Norman Porter. Between acts Clyde Schaffer will sing, and Miss Norma Shea will dance.

Dietetic Association Dinner This Evening

A dinner meeting will be held tonight at the Hofbrau by the Western Pennsylvania Dietetic Association. Miss Ethel Gibson will speak on "Visual Education in Nutrition."

Foster Music Foundation Planned

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

A letter has gone out from the Outlook Alliance to presidents of clubs throughout the district inviting them to participate in the Alliance's plans for establishing the Stephens Collins Foster Scholarship Foundation for Music. The foundation will have its inception during American music week (February 13 to 20), when on Thursday two musical programs will be given by the Alliance at the Congress of Clubs.

The first program is scheduled for 2:30 in the afternoon and the second for 7:45 in the evening, different artists appearing on each. A special dinner will be served at Congress House for anyone wishing to hear both programs. Dr. Harvey B. Gaul, Post Gazette music critic, will speak and Mrs. Marion Foster Welch and Mrs. Jessie Rose, daughter and granddaughter of Foster, will be honor guests.

The Congress, the Bellevue Home and Hospital Club, the Woman's Club of the City of Pittsburgh, the Forum and the Buhl Foundation have already joined the movement. Miss Matilda Orr Hays is honorary chairman; Mrs. S. J. Corbett, president of the Alliance, is general chairman; and Mrs. G. W. Grier, vice chairman, and the advisory board includes Mrs. John S. Sloan, Mrs. Walter R. Fleming, Mrs. George J. Campbell and Mrs. Corbett. A board of directors will be formed later, consisting of representatives from the contributing clubs.

The Alliance is having a benefit bridge and candy sale in the Oppenheim-Collins auditorium on Friday afternoon with Mrs. H. K. Brady, chairman of the ways and means committee, in charge.

25 Will Usher At Hadassah Luncheon

Twenty-five ushers, many of them new members who affiliated with Hadassah only last week at the chapter's bridge luncheon, will greet 500 guests at the donor luncheon being held tomorrow in the Schenley Hotel.

The donor luncheon is Hadassah's annual major fund-raising project for the Hadassah Medical Organization in Palestine, which need is especially urgent this year, owing to the influx of more than 8,000 German Jewish refugees into Palestine.

Speaking at the luncheon will be Dr. Abram Leon Sachar, historian, biographer and educator, who will discuss "The Diplomatic Adventures of Theodore Herzl." A recital by Elsa Baklor, soprano, accompanied by Earl Mitchel, is a second program feature.

Sodality's Pre-Lenten Dance Patrons Named

Patrons for the Resurrection Sodality's pre-lenten dance, which will be held tomorrow in Knights of Columbus Hall, Fifth and Bellefield avenue, will be Mr. and Mrs. Joseph G. Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Rauch, Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Fagan, Joseph F. Zitelli, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice W. Rihn, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Beinhauer, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. George B. Wessa, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip McGee, L. J. Zirelli, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Schwan, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Kane, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Duchene, Mr. and Mrs. W. Devine, Dr. and Mrs. C. P. MacDonald, Dr. and Mrs. J. O. Fitch, Dr. and Mrs. Paul J. Lilly.

Miss Natalie Schwan is general chairman, having as her aids Miss Anna Hillgrove, Miss Frieda Truxell, Miss Ruth Murphy, Miss Irene Barr, Miss Grace Devine, Miss Nell Ross, Miss Bernita O'Donnell, Miss Irene Yoest, Miss Jane Hudgins and Miss Helen Harkins, and Miss Jane Hillgrove.

Welsh Theater Party To Honor Rae Samuels

Honoring Rae Samuels, who is at the Pitt Theater this week, the Women's Welsh Club of Pittsburgh is having a theater party there this afternoon. Miss Samuels is Welsh herself and a member of the Women's Welsh Club of Cleveland.

She has furnished a room at the Welsh home for the Aged at Rocky River in memory of her father and mother and on her appearances in Cleveland she always invites residents of the home to attend a performance. She makes a personal visit to the home, too, entertaining those who are unable to get to the theater.

North Side Chapter Giving Social Affairs

Social affairs planned by North Side Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, are a card party at the home of Mrs. Louise Schaefer, Waldorf street, on Saturday, a covered dish dinner and valentine party at Malta Hall on February 15, a dance and card party at Malta Hall on March 3, and a card party and luncheon at Spear's on March 6.

Miss Ora Mae Miller Weds Robert W. Dally

Announcement is made by Dr. and Mrs. Joseph R. N. Miller, of Carnegie, of the marriage of their daughter, Miss Ora Mae Miller, to Robert Wallace Dally, son of Mrs. Sarah R. Dally, of Dinsmore avenue, Crafton, which was solemnized February 2. After a short honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Dally will reside in Carnegie.

The Lee Club of the Y. M. & W. H. A. is giving a Valentine's dance the evening of February 14 in Cocoanut Grove. Saul Frankel and Charles Merwitzer are in charge of reservations.

Parent-Teacher Groups Meeting This Evening

Today's Parent-Teacher Association meetings are: Hillsdale tonight with Dr. Herbert Spencer speaking on "Progressive Education" and Miss Mabel King singing; Shaler, also at 8 o'clock, with Attorney A. C. Beck speaking; Glenshaw, in the Glenshaw Valley Church, with a founders' day pageant as program, and Wyland, which will have an evening of music at the home of Dr. R. R. Galen, Allison Park Heights.

Charles H. Lehmann, of McCann's, addressed the Perrysville Association and a pageant was given by the school children yesterday. Founders' day was celebrated last night by the Highland Association, two pageants and violin music comprising the program and Ingram Association had a mothers' night celebration at which the fathers were guests.

A somewhat novel program including a pageant has been arranged by the Bane Association for its meeting tomorrow afternoon, another meeting of tomorrow being that of the Lee Association which will have a founders' day-candle lighting ceremony.

Listed for Friday are meetings of the Kelton Avenue, Emsworth, Glenshaw and Samuel Hamilton units. At the Kelton meeting W. P. Allen will speak, C. Warren Kinder will sing and Mrs. C. A. Lawrence will read. A stunt by mothers of fourth-grade pupils, games and a recreation period will mark the Emsworth meeting and a founders' day pageant will feature that to be held by the Glenshaw organization. The Samuel Hamilton unit's affair is a manufacturers' and distributors' bazar and country dance.

Gossipy Chat

By NANCY JANE

The Lamont H. Buttons have decorative little maps, postcard size, to direct their friends to their summer home, a log cabin off the old Butler road.

A forest, "Green Mansions," surrounds this cabin, built in the manner of Eighteenth Century American pioneers' homes, on land which belonged to Mrs. Button's family since her great-great-grandfather bought the town of Harmony in 1815.

And trains have come in with a bang—or to be more exact, with a swish, this season. These deb-age modern young athletes do find them hard to manage, but what's a little trouble when the mode is so picturesque?

* * *

* * *

And by the way, these trailing gowns and the long fitted evening wraps the young things wear over them are making girls look amazingly tall and slender.

* * *

Haven't seen any of the girls wearing that boon to girls too tall for their favorite boy friends —low-heeled evening slippers, just out. But one of our young brides this past fall, wore very low-heeled white slippers at her wedding.

THROUGH THE SPYGLASS

Viewing the New

You little shoppers who want to learn the names of the shops whose items are listed in this column day by day . . . call GRANT 6500 . . . and ASK FOR THE SPYGLASS. Or send in a stamped self-addressed envelope for your reply. THE SPYGLASS is always on the alert, peering out new "finds" . . . and you will be answered promptly!

* * *

We consider it quite a feather in our cap to have found this marvelous French dressing which sells for 25c (a 6 oz. jar) . . . which never becomes rancid . . . which goes twice as far as the usual already-made-up gluey stuff (which you couldn't GET us to eat!) This new type is SO good that mothers of small children who refuse to eat lettuce simply LAP it up after a liberal dousing with this new dressing. Excellent mixed with cream cheese too. Seven fine recipes complete with every jar.

* * *

Got the jitters! . . . got the D. T's, or if you want to be smart and gay and dizzy, you WILL get them. They're bracelets! Fashioned from metal links with little men or girls dangling from them (made of metal and beads). Sort of silly, foolish, and altogether fun. For 55c. (Colors.)

* * *

Just brushing the cobwebs away! One of the stores has brought out some new hairbrushes which should be nominated to the hall of fame!

The "why" of it being that . . . . they have genuine ebony backs, pure bristles, come in all shapes and styles, and should be sold for far more than the price of 85c (which is what buys them now!) Giving your raving tresses 50 strokes every night will be easy with one of these!

* * *

Ladies of the evening will want these evening slips! They were just coming out of their boxes when we dashed up, notebook in hand and jotted down these words for you:

Brassiere tops . . . all made of white crepe . . . with adjustable straps . . . and the price of $1.95 which SHOULD be much higher! Values with a capital letter, these . . . and watch tomorrow's column for further news regarding some fine undies which will be great Valentines!

* * *

Untidy creature that you are . . . you've dropped cigarette ashes over your frock and burnt a teeny hole in it! Or . . . maybe in your hostess' best table cloth. Or even the fond swain's coat sleeve!

BUT . . . with one secluded spot we know about putting on a special these days (just to keep up their spirits because things are S-L-O-W) your little burnt places can be rewoven for only $2 (it's usually $3.50). This means on ANY kind of fabric, too.

* * *

And so . . . we sing praises unto the new liquid tissue cream which waves a wand over your face with delightful results, and is unequalled by any other cosmetic of its kind. NOT a vanishing cream, little ones, but a real honest-to-goodness tissue builder which may be used during the daytime. In fact, it's a godsend for chapped ankles on cold days . . . will not become oily and grease up your hose. $1.10 the 6 oz. bottle.

* * *

A kitchen garden in the best manner of an English cottage! Three pots . . . one of English mint (the better to make your juleps!) . . . one of chives . . . one of parsley! And all three of them for $1 (35c each). There's only one place where you can get them in town . . . but every housewife who likes her "yarbs" fresh all winter, should get them.

SOAP AND WATER FASHIONS

The little girl in the lead wears a play frock of sprig-printed fast color cotton, collared in fluted lawn. The runner-up has on a plain color frock trimmed with rows of rick-rack braid and a crisp white collar.

Both the young gents in the sketch are wearing jaunty shorts with cotton jersey jumpers in sporting stripes. The Scotch socks are smart, too.

The older little girl above has a few grown-up touches in her frock, which is printed cotton, cut with slenderizing pleats over the bodice and down the skirt front. The lawn collars and cuffs are a bit frilly.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

IT IS A BREAK that the younger generation these days are provided with clothes that have their utilitarian virtues hidden by good styling. Gone are the mournful institution plaids, warranted to show neither soil nor beauty, replaced by non-shrinking, non-fading prints and plaids of cheerful colors in fabrics that dote on being laundered often.

* * *

AND THE FUNNY-LOOKING knickerbockers, which, with shirt blouses that tucked into them, ginger colored ribbed stockings and heavy shoes, made the Penrod costume of ten years ago are also obselete. Shorts and jerseys, golf stockings and scuffers have replaced them for knockabout duty; decent long trousers with well-fitted jackets are held in readiness for more formal appearance.

* * *

IT IS NOW POSSIBLE for a busy mother to prance through the juvenile style sections picking up with a minimum of time and suspicion swell clothes for her growing family that only need to be combined with clean faces and well-brushed hair to provide her with a creditable brood.

MRS. BERGDOLL DEFENDS SON

International News Service

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 7.—Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, exiled millionaire draft dodger, was the victim of suspicions that he was a German spy and was therefore rejected when he tried to enlist as a United States Army flier during the World War.

This revelation was made here today by Bergdoll's 73-year-old mother, Mrs. Emma Bergdoll, who has petitioned President Roosevelt for a pardon for her son.

Said the white-haired mother who lives in the hope that her son and his family may be permitted to return to the United States from Germany:

"Grover never feared anything.

"Danger always appealed to him. Long before he faced the draft he volunteered to serve the United States in aviation. He was one of the first fliers in this section and he was a good pilot.

"My boy always bore a passionate love for the United States. Grover has not renounced his allegiance to this country. He still is an American and would serve the colors today if war endangered our country."

Mrs. Wilson Quits Jewelry Business

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, widow of the wartime President, has retired as sole owner of Galt & Brother, reputed to be the oldest jewelry firm in the country. She turned over the name and good will to the employes.

The concern was established in 1802 by James Galt in Alexandria, Va., which was then part of the District of Columbia.

Man, Protecting Girl, Beaten by Annoyers

Police today searched for two young men who dragged John Caskowski, 26, of 808 Selby way, from his automobile at Eighth and Carson streets, South Side, last night, and attacked him when he attempted to aid a girl they were disturbing.

Caskowski came to the rescue of the young woman after she had been insulted by her annoyers. He suffered a broken nose and hand injury in the melee, according to police. The girl, unknown to Caskowski, and his attackers disappeared.

Smart aTilored Lines for Daytime Wear

Pattern 1767

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

Tailored frocks are in the limelight for daytime wear. This is a stunning model to wear now under a coat, and later, without a coat it makes a smart street dress. Its chic lines give a slim figure—particularly the vertical lines of the bodice and skirt seaming, and the snappy pleats. Note, too, how the sleeves repeat the trig button trim. The soft, rolled collar which introduces contrast, is flattering to every woman. This frock would be effective in sheer wool and bengaline or satin trim, or fashioned of a new heavy falling crepe, or wool-like cotton.

Pattern 1767 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 16 takes $2\frac{5}{8}$ yards 54-inch fabric and $\frac{7}{8}$ yard 39-inch contrasting. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send 15 CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

THE NEW SPRING, 1934 EDITION OF THE PATTERN BOOK IS NOW READY! All the best spring styles for adults and children in an interesting, helpful book. Send for your copy and be chic this spring. PRICE OF BOOK 15 CENTS. BOOK AND PATTERN TOGETHER 25 CENTS.

Address orders to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

1.—Enclose 15 cents in coins.
2.—Write clearly NUMBERS of patterns and SIZE wanted.
3.—Write or print your NAME and ADDRESS plainly.
4.—If you want SUN-TELEGRAPH Style Book send 10c extra.

NO MAIL COST ON BONUS

Veterans' posts and other groups aiding in the filing of veterans' state bonus applications today were advised that it is not necessary to pay postage in submitting the forms to Harrisburg.

Lieut. J. Guy Griffith, state department of military affairs representative, said the forms can be bundled and sent collect through the American Railways Express. The express firm will call for the packages when notified to collect them, he said.

It was pointed out that many posts were expending as high as 60 cents daily, although the bonus act provided that no expense was to be incurred by the groups.

Veterans filling out applications at the post homes or at the American Legion county committee's special headquarters in the Sun-Telegraph's downtown office, Fifth avenue and Market street, merely deposit their blanks with the officials. No charge is made, the affidavit also being without charge.

Members of SATC Denied State Bonus

HARRISBURG, Feb. 7.—Members of the Student Army Training Corps who sought to file bonus applications today were being shown a provision of the bonus act that specifically cites them as not being eligible to collect a bonus unless they were assigned to some other branch of the Army service.

Hundreds of youths enlisted in the Army as members of the SATC groups at various colleges. Considered part of the Regular Army, they were given preliminary training and many of them had been transferred to officers training and other army training at the time the armistice was signed.

Only those transferred will be able to collect the bonus, although all have been eligible to benefit extended veterans by the federal government, including war risk and other types of veterans' insurance.

JUNIOR PATROL

There is progress all the time, fellows!

Even while times are hard, as they are now, men keep on trying to make the world an easier place in which to live—and a more pleasant place. They know how to make the light of a star turn on motors and lights for a great city. They know how to heat their homes by heating the walls instead of the air in the rooms.

Our new automobiles are "streamlined," which means that they are so designed that they slip through the air more easily. The air, you know, holds a car or a train back—the motor has to push the car through the air, just the way a boat pushes itself through the water of the sea. Now men are figuring out ways to make the air resistance less.

A new captain today is Lawrence Neiman, of 834 Adelaide street, Pittsburgh. He sends in 10 pledges, and has been elected. We hope his patrol has a good time helping others.

Now here is a letter from June Rose Degnan, of 854 Inwood street, East End. She writes:

"I have started a Junior Patrol Club. There are 15 members in it. We meet every Friday night. We voted tonight for a captain and I was elected. I am sending 14 pledges. One of my members already belongs to the Junior Patrol."

Okay, June, and we are glad to hear from you. We are sure your patrol is going to be a big success. Write again often and let us know what you are doing. Your patrol should have a plan to do things and to play games at every meeting.

Another new captain heard from today is Margaret Castlaw, of 432 Figg avenue, Johnstown, Pa. She has 15 members in her club, too.

We have pledges and a letter from both Harold and Robert Ridley, of Hartwood Farm, R. F. D. No. 2, Sharpsburg. They write to say that they are going to keep the Junior Patrol pledges extra well, and we hope they will start a Junior Patrol soon.

Drug Store Blaze Damages 3 Places

The Young Drug Company, Melwood and Center avenues, was damaged by fire of undetermined origin shortly before last midnight. The blaze started in the basement of the one-story brick building and burned through to the first floor. The O. K. Grocery and Quality Cleaning and Dyeing Company, both one-story, adjoining buildings, were damaged by smoke and water. Damages to the drug company was estimated at $1,000.

PREPAREDNESS VITAL, HARRIS CONTENDS

Thorough military preparedness is essential to the United States' well-being believes State Senator Frank J. Harris, for although in his opinion there will be no "next war," nevertheless in case of such an eventuality the country should be ready for immediate action, is his firm contention.

Declaring the poisonous gases and death-dealing devices used in the World War, horrible as the results they produced, are indicative only of what modern science can and will do, Senator Harris said:

"The terrible picture of what a next war would be like will be sufficient to deter all nations from any declaration of war. So much in the way of deathly gases and devices has been produced by modern science, and so much more can be produced, that any country would hesitate—would not even dare—to declare war. Rather, I think, every effort would be made to adjust all differences."

With preparedness as its keynote, the series of uncensored World War pictures being published daily and Sunday in the Sun-Telegraph was commended by the Senator. He said:

"They are definite evidences of the horrors of war. Bringing to the mind of everyone the great necessity for the promotion of peace, they also emphasize the decided necessity of a strong national defense.

"While it is the hope of everyone, of course, that war will never again be declared, the United States should be prepared properly in the event war actually is declared. These pictures graphically depict the terrors of the battlefield and the horrors of war-time."

NEED STRONG FORCES

A strong air force and Navy are essential to the protection of this country and its inhabitants, Maj. W. T. Rees, chief clerk of the County Commissioners' office, asserted, lauding the Sun-Telegraph pictures. Maj. Rees, who served in France during the World War and saw, never to forget, horrors such as those depicted, said:

"There can be no question but that the Sun-Telegraph's publication of World War pictures will have a definite effect on strengthening our national defense. I think everything of that kind published for the information of the public will offset the possibility of war.

"We should have a strong air force and Navy. The trend of the times favors air without a doubt, and adequate naval protection must be maintained."

PRAISED BY VETERANS

Among notionally-known figures to acclaim the photographs, five full pages of which will be published in next Sunday's Sun-Telegraph from Floyd Gibbons' collection, is Col. Hugh Scott, medical director at the Edward Hines Memorial Hospital for Disabled Veterans, Maywood, Ill. He declared:

"There is hardly a veteran under my care who has not remarked about the pictures. The horrors they so graphically depict are nothing compared to the memories they evoke.

"They serve a good purpose and should result in action—action in the form of building airplanes, erecting anti-aircraft fighting machinery or digging poison gas basements. We cannot ignore war."

JAP SEES U. S. READY FOR WAR

TOKIO, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Japan's neighbors, America, Russia and China, "knowing Japan is likely to be confronted with various international difficulties in November, 1935, are steadily preparing for war," was the statement attributed today to Maj. Gen. Eiki Tojo, chief of the war office's military investigation bureau.

The General was so quoted in an interview which appeared in the newspaper Yorozu. Gen. Tojo's bureau is in charge of the war office press contacts. The General was quoted as saying:

'Japan's desire for expansion on the eastern Asiatic continent, manifested in her Manchurian policy, has been her unalterable policy since her foundation.

"Japan should maintain strong pressure on the continent. Only thus can she keep at bay the Soviets' attempts to advance into the Orient.

AUTO INJURY VICTIM DIES

Mrs. Louise Rosa, 77, of 12 Soffel street, Mt. Washington, died last night in Mercy Hospital from pneumonia superinduced by injuries suffered January 5, when she was struck by an automobile at Southern avenue and Soffel street, according to the Coroner's report.

Raymond Phillips, 18, of 25 Ralston place, Mt. Lebanon, the driver, was ordered to post bond pending an inquest, deputy coroners said.

Two men were injured when an automobile crashed into two other machines and then into a tire shop at 1529 West Liberty avenue, last night.

J. E. Bash, 33, of 1301 Piermont avenue, Dormont, suffered lacerations on the head and Joseph Weisberg, of 1007 Mirror avenue, a possible skull fracture when Bash's machine crashed into the latter's car after sidewiping another driven by Verne Johnston, of 1439 Tolma avenue, according to a police report. Both were taken to South Side Hospital.

LEAGUE SCORES RELIEF BRIEF

Charges of waste, inefficiency in relief distribution were hurled in a letter sent to the State Emergency Relief Board and 75 other social, civic and labor groups by the League for Social Justice, made public today.

The present arrangement of paying one month's rent only upon receipt of a final eviction notice, was described as a "vicious practice," and the payment of rent for those on relief roles who are unable to pay it was urged.

The letter laid inefficiency and waste directly at the door of the State Relief Board. Relief workers were inaccurate and inefficient because they were underpaid and overworked, the letter charged, and the board was blamed for giving them more cases than they possibly could investigate thoroughly.

The letter also advocated cash relief in the place of food orders.

Runaway Youth Captured on Bus

City detectives went to the Greyhound Bus Depot on Liberty avenue early today to pick up a New York youth reported as a runaway only to learn that Blairsville (Pa.) police had taken him from a bus as it stopped there last night.

The youth, Robert McCarthy, 16, whose father operates the McCarthy Detective Agency in New York, was placed on a bus returning to New York, which he was said to have left yesterday morning. His father had reported to state police that he had boarded a bus bound for Pittsburgh.

Mormon Head

MORMONS HERE WAIT GRANT

Heber J. Grant, president of the Church of Latter-Day Saints, will make his second official visit to Pittsburgh Friday when he will speak at a special meeting of Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania district Mormons at the Pittsburgh Chapel, 4928 Wallingford street.

Mr. Grant has been president of the Mormons since 1919, the church numbering three-quarters of a million members. Accompanying him to Pittsburgh Friday will be Don B. Colton, former United States Congressman from Utah, who now is president of the Eastern States Mission of the church.

St. Bede's Group Gives Party Friday

MUSIC

Reisman Orchestra With George Gershwin and James Melton

Syria Mosque

There was a fair-sized audience to greet the Reisman Symphonic Orchestra and George Gershwin in Syria Mosque last night. James Melton, popular radio tenor, sang two groups of popular melodies and reaped the best of the applause.

Mr. Lissfelt

The orchestra was under the leadership of Charles Previn and made irresistible dance music. Previn obviously knows Gershwin's every intention, for he makes the music as elastic as if he alone were playing.

We recently reviewed the concerto, the "Rhapsody in Blue" and the "American in Paris" when played by our Pittsburgh Symphony Society some weeks ago and our impressions of those scores remain unchanged. Of Gershwin's popular melodies much can be said in their favor, for they have vitality, grace and insinuating tunes that are bound to be loved by the masses who long for dancing and lighter songs.

Last night's program brought "Swanee," "Do It Again," "Lady Be Good," Strike Up the Band," "Fascinating Rhythm," "Man I Love," "Liza" and "I Got Rhythm."

James Melton has a beautiful tenor voice and a most engaging personality. He sang Osacar Fox's "Hills of Home," Guion's "Home On the Range," Robinson's "Carry Me Back to the Lone Prairie," and some Negro melodies, "Sometimes I Feel Like a Motherless Child," "Gwine to Hebb'n" and "Shortnin' Bread." He has a flair for the American folk and cowboy song and should be a fine propaganda to make these songs better known.

The Tuesday Musical Club presented yesterday afternoon what I believe to be its most important program of the year, the composer's program. Here members show what original works they have recently written and the results are out of the humdrum of music club offerings.

The general tendency of this yead's music is lyrical and sane melody. Mrs. Harnish fell under the spell of Debusy and Mrs. Stempel is likely to remain the most original of the group, for in all recent compositions from her pen there is a decided individuality.

Others write nicely moving melodies but are apt to remain distant to newer problems of modern composition. I should suggest at least another of this type of program annually.

DICK POWELL -:- 'Lavender, Old Lace' -:- ON RADIO

Several New Programs Scheduled

Dick Powell, the scene of whose first major success was a Pittsburgh theater platform—the first milestone in an amazing rise to nation-wide fame as a screen star—breaks into a new medium tonight as one of the stellar lights in a new aerial show.

This master of ceremonies extraordinary will be featured with Ted Fiorito and his orchestra and a number of soloists, harmony-makers and novelty outfits under the banner of a ciggie sponsor over a coast-to-coast CBS chain,, including WJAS, at 10 p. m.

The programs, originating on the West Coast and scheduled weekly, are slated for rebroadcasting to the Hawaiian Islands.

* * *

A second premiere brings music of a "familiar" type in response to public demand in "Lavender and Old Lace," presented over WCAE at 7 p. m. by the sponsors of the popular Sunday night feature, "Album of Familiar Music."

As in the Sunday show, Frank Munn heads the roster of artists, supported by Gustave Haenschen's orchestra.

ABOUT MONEY

Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, goes on CBS-WJAS for 30 minutes tonight to explain, according to the network's announcement, "the importance and probable effects of recent legislation by Congress."

While his topic has not been announced, it is expected the Senator will deal with the progress of national recovery under the NRA and the history-making monetary legislation just enacted.

Local Highlights on WJAS Tonight

Jimmy DePalma, romantic tenor, returns to the air after a two-week absence with a quarter-hour program at 6:15.

Three acts you may enjoy—Jeanne Dix's early evening songs; Paul Gannon at 6:45 and Barnyard Frolics at 8.

GLOBE TROTTING

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, Ladies and Gentlemen:

After those "Liar's Conests" one doesn't know what to expect from the Globe Trotter. With that in mind I pass on this story from James Stephenson about the immigrant couple, newly married, who, a few days after the ceremony appeared all in a huff in front of the marriage license clerk. Throwing down the license on his desk they announced forcefully "We quit."

The last report from Jack Daub informs Dave Freid, of East Pittsburgh, that an 1834 half dollar in good condition is worth 60c and that an 1841 half dime is worth 10 cents.

Mrs. Kane, North Side—U. S. cents dated 1818-1822 are worth 10 cents each. A Canadian cent dated 1899 is worth one cent, and the six dollar bill dated July, 1776, issued in Philadelphia is worth $25 to $50.

Here's one that personal experience of some one can answer. Mrs. Media Lutz has a canary bird 15 years old. What is its expectancy of life?

C. H. Kilgore sends an impression of the coins he wants identified. He places the coin beneath a paper and rubs a pencil over it. The markings show the design, date and condition of the coin.

Hall's Junior Patrol On WCAE Today

Junior, Spike, Snuggins and Butch, winsome characters of Quinn Hall's Junior Patrol Comic Strip, and the Junior Patrol Ensemble are heard over WCAE this afternoon at 4:45 in a program of music and drama.

The Trained Seals of the Sun-Telegraph sports department will be heard on WCAE tonight at 6 instead of Thursday night at 7. Lew Raymond, local boxing promoter, and Harry Keck, sports editor of the Sun-Telegraph, will discuss the Teddy Yarosz-Jimmy Smith bout and other fistic matters of interest.

The Globe Trotter is heard over WCAE at 12:15 and 2:15 p. m.

Soft Pedal Applied on Liquor

By AIRCASTER

The Federal Radio Commission is keeping one ear tuned to the ether and the other to the ground, while awaiting results of its recent warning that liquor broadcasts must be handled with "due regard for public sensibilities."

Harold A. Lafount, a member of the commission, declared that no hard and fast rule governing this type of advertising could be laid down in advance.

"We will not hesitate to act if offensive liquor broadcasting is permitted by any radio station," he added.

"We are not trying to dodge the issue. But the courts have held that the commission has no power of censorship.

The issues dumped on the commission's doorstep by prohibition repeal are extremely complicated, both from a legal and from an administrative standpoint, Lafount explained.

A liquor advertisement that might arouse great popular criticism in one community easily could be received without offense in another community.

* * *

HOW ABOUT KIDS?

"Some of the liquor manufacturers, sensible of the fact that many persons do not want their children listening in on sales talks for gin and whisky, have adopted the device of broadcasting after 10:30 p. m. But though children in the eastern states are abed by then, juveniles of the west coast are just sitting down to dinner," Lafount pointed out.

It is impossible to broadcast into wet states without at the same time broadcasting into dry states.

If the public objects to the manner in which liquor advertising is done over the radio, then hearings will be held to determine whether a renewal of broadcasting licenses involving the stations in question would be in the public interest.

Gold's dearer, dollars are cheaper—and merchandise will be higher.

While our winter stocks remain you can have a grand time for yourself at prices considerably under what you'll pay when the stabilized-dollar gets working throughout the textile industry.

So, if your husband's overcoat will need replacing next year, and you need new furs—or shoes for the baby—or new linens for the table, maybe you'd better come down to Harris' and get straight on these things now before the fireworks start.

Another thing—our winter garments are greatly reduced now and so you'll save double—on the dollar and on the garments themselves.

And remember always—at Harris' you have your choice of three ways to buy:

1. BEFORE you use the article (commonly called "cash").
2. AFTER you use the article (popularly called the "regular monthly charge").
3. WHILE you use the article (known as the "Harris Budget Charge") which is offered exclusively by Harris Stores Company in Pittsburgh. [Our 75-store buying affiliation makes it possible to grant the courtesy of extended payments, without charging you anything beyond our regular cash prices.]).

C'mup-n-see-us-sometime—before that bold, bad boogyman's 59.06 sends textiles up, up, up.

NOTE: Silks and rayons especially have not shared the general commodity price rise—and are due for a big swing upward.

Man About Town

They are shushing the condition of J. P. Morgan, whose ticker is limping. His sec'y, constantly with the financier, carries potent heart revivers . . . When the west coast gazettes print anything on the Rudy Vallee-Fay Webb farce (which is seldom and very little) it is all pro-Mrs. V . . . Richard Roark Bradford, whose dad wrote the "Green Pastures" tome, and John Held, Jr.'s, daughter Judy, have phffft . . . The line to which Noel Coward objected in "As Thousands Cheer" has been omitted. "It is unfair," complained the champ heckler. "I may have been undignified in the press, but never in my work!" . . . The Tommy Manville, Jrs., who reconciled recently, were at it again over the week-end—decision reserved.

The St. Moritz Hotel will feature a menu for dogs! But you must hire a room . . . Postmaster Jim Farley's personal organization is now set—to get the Governorship—when Gov. Lehman Morgenthau's job in Washington . . . The Ward Wilsons anticipate a blessed adventure . . . Susan Glaspell, the writer, is picketing with the Brevoort Hotel waiters, and she charges the papers with ignoring that strike for "sinister reasons" . . . The startling news of First Grade Detective Broderick's demotion (perhaps to Staten Island) in uniform is swell news to the baddies who fear his fearlessness and his deadly accuracy with a gat . . . Look at his record!!!!!

Jesse Lasky tried the Casino de Paree stunt at the Folies Bergere (the Fulton Theater) years ago. In 28 weeks they dropped $800,000 . . . What theater hasn't had a winning week since an evangelist registered a new low there? . . . Hiram Bloomingdale, the dep't store man, has written nine plays, one of which is being produced now . . . The newsreels are welcome to this tip: Margaret Huff, debutante dotter of the President of the Third Ave. Railway, hatches tropical fish in a shop window at No. 647 W. 125th St. each morning and congests traffic . . . Larry Fay's widow, Evelyn Crowell, has gone British. But he's so rich! . . . Elliott Roosevelt's MGM salary will be $500 per week when he resigns from that aircraft line.

Ken Strong is rumored as football mentor at N. Y. U. . . . Inez King, of Hal Sherman's act, and Y. Stern, the president of the Casino deepee, are on fire . . . Mike Fiaschetti, the detective, who was elevated to a deputy of the markets, has resigned his connction with the Fusion Club, as per the Mayor's suggestions about officials having "political" links . . . The Charles Chases are asunder . . . Jack Warner is nursing a sour for newspaper reviewers and won't invite them to previews . . . Ann Sothern, who is really Harriet Lake, and Roger Pryor are dueting . . . Sylvia Sydney is back in circulation—because the B. P. Schulbergs have decided against a divorce.

Add Cinderella tales: Charlotte Homan stepped from ushering in a Loew's theater to the front line of Ziegfeld beauties at the Winter Garden . . . The Mills-Donahue romance is also off! . . . Dorothy Fitzgibbons returned from London to re-heat the ashes with her food merchant . . . It's a girl over at the Stuarts of Stuart and Lash of the music halls

Baron Deuth (with that monocle at the St. Moritz), who is a reporter for foreign rags, will wed for the 5th time . . . A Kentucky gal . . . Senator McNaboe is in the Albany legislature saddle—taking no orders from the Democrats, who are 26 in number. The Repubs have 25 . . . His vote sways more laws! And is he having himself a time? Of course, he's looking for a job, when his term ends . . . They tell me that E. Cantor, after "Roman Scandals" was done, gave away 15 Gs in tips to all connected in the studio . . . Judith Allen, who divorced her wrestler, and Joey Ray, the canary, have it bad . . . They will hatchet and hack to pieces every speakeasy beginning this week. Thank me for the warning.

Arthur Murray has just discovered that Broadway has more critics than the Cherry Sisters had at their best . . . Stage Comedy Well Done As Film

By MICHAEL SHAW

We have enjoyed four very fine pictures in the last month or so: "Berkeley Square," "Queen Christina," "I Am Suzanne" and "Three-Cornered Moon." By no means the least of these is "Three-Cornered Moon," and if you haven't seen it already we urge you to make a trip to the Davis while there is still time.

This comedy, which can only be described as "mad," is the most amusing screen adventure since "Million Dollar Legs." It's all about an extremely odd family, the Rimplegars of Brooklyn, and their reactions to the depression.

The story would be spoiled in the retelling. Suffice it to say that Mary Boland is at her best as the Rimplegar mater familias, and that Claudette Colbert, Pittsburgh's Hardie Albright, and a half dozen other splendid players do right by a most unusual script.

The work of youthful Gertrude Tonkonogy, "Three-Cornered Moon" is in somewhat the same mood as that old fantastic farce of Harry Wagstaff Gribble's, "March Hares." Nearly everybody has seen "March Hares" in some little theater or other, although Broadway never cared much for it.

"Three-Cornered Moon" is paralleling its career to some extent. It was a very mild success in New York, but the amateurs have taken it whole-heartedly to their bosom. In fact, Pittsburgh saw it on the stage in a non-professional production before ever the movie came round.

The exhibitors, to be sure, are about five months late with the screen version. There seemed to be a feeling that it would not make any money. Well, we don't know how it is doing in the Davis, but we have yet to find anyone who saw it and wasn't enthusiastic about it.

* * *

Pittsburgh's little Jackie Heller will be seen and heard on the Stanley stage when Ben Bernie and all the lads fulfill their local engagement beginning Friday, February 23. Warners announce that Eddie Cantor and Joe Penner will play the Stanley in the near future.

* * *

The local revival of stage shows recently prompted Al Kaye, who introduced such shows to Pittsburgh, in the Aldine, to reminisce with Jerry Mayhall, former Stanley producer, on the present big shots who were "nobodies" when they played in town a few years ago.

For instance, a short while after the Aldine had popularized these adjuncts to the regular motion picture, a short, foreign-looking young man appeared after the last show and asked hesitantly if Kaye needed a "fiddle player."

He was so persistent that Kaye agreed to listen to him.

The "fiddle player" began playing and didn't complete his tryout until 3:30 in the morning, when he was hired as second violinist in the Aldine band. His name was—and is—Dave Rubinoff.

* * *

Then there was the heavyweight acrobatic dancer by the name of Kate Smith, who asked Producer Mayhall before one supper-time performance at the Stanley if she might sing instead of dance. Kate lamented:

"Slinging all this weight around is a grind, and unless I get some rest I won't be able to go on in the evening show."

Mayhall protested that he had hired her to dance, not sing, but finally weakened.

And after the show, he was reprimanded by the "powers" for allowing this deviation from contract.

* * *

On the Enright stage it was the custom for a so-called "personality girl" to sing cute little love songs to Dick Powell. At one time the regular "Miss Personality" was unable to appear, and another was engaged to fill out her term. After the first show with the hurriedly-procured substitute, it was complained that she couldn't even speak English. You've guessed it—she was Lyda Roberti.

* * *

At one time during the '28-'29 season, Joe Penner was the headliner in the Enright. He felt that his act needed a little bolstering, so he asked for a $300 addition to his $600 weekly salary and brought on three New Yorkers he knew. The $300 was split among Hal Leroy, Sylvia Froos and Oscar Raglin.

Today Penner is said to be making between $3,500 and $4,000 a week, Hal Leroy about $900, Sylvia Froos about $750 and Oscar Raglin about $500.

* * *

"Eskimo" is another in that series of native-cast films which include "Goona-Goona" and "Igloo."

During the "shooting" "Eskimo" in the frozen North, Director W. S. Van Dyke was constantly faced with what seemed insurmountable obstacles. For instance, the glare of the ice igloos, affecting the cameras, had to be dulled by the application of pink paint, a sight which surprised and amused the natives.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

The seat sale for "Ten-Minute Alibi," last subscription play of the season, coming to the Nixon next week, will open tomorrow morning. Still playing in London after more than 400 performances, this melodrama has just completed three months in New York. It comes with the New York cast intact.

* * *

Stage and Play Society will give three one-act plays at 8:30 o'clock this evening in the Twentieth Century Club, its second production this season. The plays are Booth Tarkington's "Trysting Place," "Copy," a newspaper story, and Lady Gregory's "The Workhouse Ward." The performance is open to the public.

* * *

The cast for "The Alarm Clock," to be given by the Resurrection Players in the the Brookline Public School, Tuesday, February 13, includes Margaret McDonough and Robert Buckley, in the leading roles, supported by Betty Clair, Margaret Moorhead, Rosanna Dugan, Irene Wehner, Maurice Roland, John Quinn, Carl Flecker, John Connors, Paul Hogan and Fred Neiman. Regis Manning is the director.

Lloyd Urged to Have Son In His Next Film

By HARRISON CARROLL.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 7.—A group of Harold Lloyd's friends are trying to sell him an idea, and, if you fans take it up, he may consent. They want the comedian to let his 3-year-old son play Harold as a boy in "The Cat's Paw."

The script of the picture calls for a 6-year-old youngster, but this is easily altered and Harold, Jr., is fully able to say the required lines and do the necessary acting. The boy already has appeared in thousands of feet of film. Harold has been photographing him ever since he was a baby.

Harold, Jr.

Friends argue that the motion picture public would be much interested in seeing the Lloyd heir. Harold is wavering, but he and Mildred David don't want to appear to commercialize their family life.

Also, as Harold puts it:

"If you use the boy, you'll have to find parts for the two girls, or there'll be a revolution at my house."

* * *

What are said to be the only films ever made of dope manufacture on the large scale have fallen into the hands of Walter Futter, Hollywood producer, and he is considering building a feature picture around them. The scenes were surreptitiously photographed in a certain oriental country and were then brought into the United States. They have been stolen once and recovered. Futter would call his picture "The Kingdom of Evil."

* * *

The Trigger mind of Lupe Velez works even when she is upside down. They had the peppery actress hanging by her knees from a cross-bar on the set of "Hollywood Party." There was some minor difficulty with the camera and the take was delayed.

Getting redder every second, Lupe shouted: "Hurry up there, I'm not Tarzan, I'm only his mate!"

Miss Velez

When Henry B. Walthall came up for the part of a union telegrapher in Marion Davies' new picture, "Operator 13," they asked him if he knew the Morse code.

Did you know that Alice White never wore stockings on the screen until recently, and then only because a scene required her to take money from her garter.?

Powell Long In Movies

There haven't been many stars who have been on the screen consistently for more than 10 years, but William Powell's film career has lasted 13. It began in 1921 after 10 years of stage work. His first film work was in "Sherlock Holmes," with John Barrymore. Since then he has appeared in 45 pictures, the latest of which is "Fashions of 1934."

Only Richard Barthelmess has a record exceeding Powell's, as far as feature pictures are concerned. Barthelmess has been on the screen for 15 years and has had more than 50 starring parts. Powell's 10 years on the stage, however, give him the edge on Dick as far as total length of service to the thespian art is concerned. After his struggle to get through dramatic school in New York on money borrowed from an aunt, he finally got started on Broadway and appeared in such plays as "Within the Law," "Going Up" and "Spanish Love."

His screen career received its sharpest impetus after he appeared in "The Bright Shawl" with Dick Barthelmess. The two have been close friends since.

Odds and Ends

SOME OF the loudest and most unexpected raspberries of the season have gone to Katharine Hepburn in "The Lake." I was on the coast when the play opened and I never did have the opportunity to run over to see it. But it seems to me that Katie couldn't have been quite as bad as the critics said.

This success business is a funny gag. In a recent interview with the charming Irene Kuhn, Walter Huston made the statement that "in Hollywood, you're only as good as your last picture." Quite true, Mr. Huston—but why confine the thought to Hollywood? It seems to me that, all through life, you're only as good as the last thing you can do.

Onl ya few weeks before she appeared in person in "The Lake," the Hepburn gal was the sensation of New York in the picture version of "Little Women." Huge crowds fought to see the film, and Katie—as we used to know her in the good old days—was praised to the heavens.

She was as good as Garbo. Go on, she was better than Garbo! She was bigger than Mae West—in the box office, I mean. Who was the top screen lassie of the nation? Who was the greatest actress of them all? Who could do no wrong? Nobody but Katie Hepburn.

Then—boom! "The Lake" opens, and Katharine is seen on the stage. And what happens then? Oh my, oh my!

I learn from the papers that Miss Hepburn is "little more than an amateur." She is, I find out, "just an average actress who has a lot to learn." Katharine, I discover, "needs a lot of stage experience before she can hope to be anything better than a fair performer."

Now I don't enter into any defense of Miss Hepburn. In the first place, I didn't see the play. And in the second place, she doesn't need me. But it does seem as though the boys have gone a trifle out of their way to be nasty. It looks to me as though they sat back and said:

"So you're Hepburn, eh? You went from Broadway to the coast and became the head dame in pictures, did you? You're a great actress, are you? Well, come on and show us. And if you're not better than good, look out for yourself!"

That's all very well, and I suppose it's part of the theory that all's fair in love, war and the theatrical business. But, if the girl is nervous or the role is not exactly fitted to her requirements, it's a pretty tough break for her.

And I believe that that is exactly what happened. You can kid the movies all you wish, but nobody can hit the heights as Hepburn did without having something. Her performances in "A Bill of Divorcement" and "Little Women" were screen masterpieces. No actress who ever lived could have done any better.

No. I don't believe that Miss Hepburn is "little better than an amateur," I rather feel that Katie was riding too high and too fast—and that this minor fall was a natural thing. It happens to empires, to vast businesses and—apparently—to motion picture stars, too.

When you ride too high, always look out for that fall. It never fails. Which is why I'm often happy that I'm just an average guy—and will never ride too high. . .

"YOUR recent article," writes George Kay Hamlin, a brother, "concerning the untimely death of Arthur Kay Hamlin, who was fatally injured at Loew's Valencia Theater, in Jamaica, L. I., a few weeks ago, was incorrect in several details.

"Arthur had finished his act. While he was bowing at the footlights, the stage hands so placed a piano that, when he turned to exit, he ran into the piano. This caused internal injuries that necessitated an emergency operation. The operation, however, failed to save his life.

"We (his family) realize that nothing can bring him back to us, and that he has gone beyond the scope of newspaper articles. But, in fairness to him, we felt you would wish a correct version of the facts as they are herewith given."

Thank you, Mr. Hamlin. If my earlier article caused the family any unhappiness, I am deeply sorry. . .

* * *

JUST TWO weeks ago today, in this space, I asked the two major broadcasting chains to cease giving totally free shows to the public—and to charge a 10-cent admission fee, which would be donated to worthy charities the nation over.

The article was merely a suggestion, and I did not intend to mention the matter again. I must now take some additional space, however, to thank the many good people who wrote in to volunteer their services for such a worthy cause—and to tell them that they will certainly be called upon when and if the major chains get wise to themselves.

I see that the Actors' Equity Association has taken up the matter, and I think that Eddie Dowling will have something to say about it within a short time. I haven't much faith in Equity, which is always about five years behind the time. But I do feel that Dowling, a powerful figure who is close to the President and who does not hesitate to express an opinion, will accomplish some good before long.

At any rate, thanks for your interest. If anything comes of my suggestion, all well and good. If not—well, the major chains can never say they weren't shown the light . . . .

BREWERY GETS RECEIVERS

The Oil City Brewing Company, of Oil City, was placed in receivership yesterday by the Federal District Court, on petition of the Superior Paper Products Company. Stanley E. Nash, Eli E. Reich and J. R. Patrick were appointed receivers by Julge R. M. Gibson, who set their bond at $25,000.

The Superior concern, saying the brewing company owes it $3,246, declared the company has $668,000 assets, greatly in excess of its liabilities, but is unable to meet maturing obligations.

The receivership is the second for a brewing concern in two weeks, the court having named receivers for one in Braddock, January 23.

SLOT MACHINES' OWNER HUNTED

City detectives today continued their search for the owner of 26 slot machines and 10 gaming boards confiscated in a garage at 6117 Broad street late yesterday.

Detective Inspector Frank R. Boyd reported finding the slot machines crated on the second floor. Jack Nuskay, said to be the owner of the garage, told Boyd the floor was rented to a man named Mayer last October.

Mayer said the crates contained sewing machines and parts, according to Nuskay's story to Boyd.

Democrats May Make Change in Slate

By MARK SHIELDS

One change impends in the Democratic "harmony" slate, indorsement of which will be asked Saturday at the state committee meeting in Harrisburg.

Mr. Shields

It involves the retirement of Thomas Kennedy, of Hazelton, secretary of the United Mine Workers of America, as a tentative candidate for lieutenant governor.

Should the change be made it is probable that the regulars, led by Joseph F. Guffey, David L. Lawrence and State Chairman Warren Van Dyke, will use Representative Norbert J. Fitzgerald, of Erie, as a replacement for Kennedy.

Mr. Guffey and Mr. Lawrence wished to have Kennedy on their slate. They admit that he would be a powerful magnet to the mine vote, especially in the event Gov. Pinchot should be the Republican candidate for the Senate. Democrats not affiliated with the slate makers have said previously that Kennedy in potential votes was the strongest man on the ticket.

* * *

Mine Union Duties Too Severe for Candidacy

As a reason for the possible withdrawal of Mr. Kennedy's name, it is explained that the miners are facing some labor difficulties, and that the time of every national official may be required for union affairs.

As Lieutenant Governor, Mr. Kennedy, should he be elected, would have to spend most of next winter in Harrisburg presiding over the Senate. Furthermore, he would be kept on the jump between now and May 15, primary day, campaigning, and would have to take to the stump again late in the summer for the general election campaign.

A veteran of the Legislature, Mr. Fitzgerald has been identified with all of the social legislation program which has become a part of the Democratic party's yet unwritten platform.

He was fighting for minimum hour and wage legislation at a time when Democrats were scarce articles in Harrisburg. He drove a bill embodying these provisions through the House in the recent special session, but it died in the Senate.

Some speculation has been heard that the miners did not care to take such a prominent part in factional politics as to have one of their own officials put forward as the candidate of a group. That probably is not a tenable explanation, and the one before cited is reasonable.

* * *

Miners Often Active In Political Affairs

The miners have found is necessary to be active in politics. For example, in 1930, when Judge Charles D. Copeland, of Westmoreland County, now an aspirant for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, was espousing the Brown-Davis ticket in the Republican primary, so was Patrick T. Fagan, head of the Mine Workers in the Pittsburgh district, and now spoken of as a Democratic candidate for the State Senate against Senator Joseph G. Armstrong.

Both positions may seem anomalous in the light of recent developments, and so may the position of George H. Earle, enrolled as a Republican, but backed by the Guffey-Lawrence-Van Dyke group for Governor. However, there has been a strange flux in politics in the past four years, starting with the confusion over the state ticket four years ago and the national ticket in 1932.

Without converts the Democratic party could not expect to get anywhere, nor has any previous party which attempted to grow from nothing to a place of power.

Former Congressman Thomas W. Phillips, of Butler, within the past few days has told friends that he will have petitions circulated to place him on the ballot as a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination. Circulation of the petitions will begin on February 14, the earliest legal date, or shortly thereafter.

* * *

Phillips Not to Join With Other Aspirants

In starting his campaign Mr. Phillips will seek affiliation with no other candidates for state office. He will be in the position of welcoming assistance from any factional source, taking the same ground that Senator David A. Reed has as a candidate for the United States Senate.

As the campaign develops, if Mr. Phillips goes through to the finish—and his friends assert that he certainly will—it is possible that his candidacy and that of some other Republicans may coalesce. This, however, will be a natural development, if it occurs, according to Mr. Phillips, and will form no part of a preconceived plan.

It appears reasonably certain that there will be no relationship between the candidacy of Mr. Phillips and Gov. Pinchot, the latter running for the Senate. The Governor will have a full ticket, but advance strategy contemplates no overtures to Mr. Phillips, who probably would not entertain them if they were made.

The Pinchot ticket has, so far, attained nothing of form or substance except for one place. Superior Court Judge Frank M. Trexler will be supported for renomination and election. Judge Trexler has served on the Superior Court bench since 1913, and the Pinchot forces are proceeding on the principle of retaining experienced judges.

Before he leaves for Florida, early next week, Mr. Pinchot is expected to fill the vacancy existing on the Allegheny County Common Pleas Court bench. He is reported still to be listening to suggestions from his friends in this county, having come to no conclusions on the subject.

Demand for Taxation Relief Spreads Over Nation

METROPOLITAN DISTRICT NEWS

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1934

24-HOUR WEEK TO CONTINUE ON CWA WORK

NATION-WIDE DEMAND FOR TAX RELIEF

States Join Penna. In War On Waste By Governments

(Today's article, the twenty-seventh of a series, indicates nationwide movement now under way to reduce taxes through elimination of waste and duplication in governmental operation.)

Like Pittsburgh, every large city in the country, and like Pennsylvania, virtually every state in the Union, today has in progress an active campaign to bring about reduction in taxes through elimination of waste and duplication in governmental agencies.

The campaign being conducted by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in this district has reached the point where a concerted move is under way throughout the entire commonwealth to force much-needed changes in the State Constitution to bring about relief from the heavy tax burden.

And in New York Gov. Herbert H. Lehman has made his position clear in advocating abolition of many of the many local governments. When Gov. Lehman called the State Legislature into session last month, he devoted a major portion of his annual message to the topic of overgovernment and overtaxation.

TOO MANY LAYERS

In showing the Legislature its duty, Gov. Lehman declared:

"We find that the state has parceled out its sovereignty to an astonishing number of local units, each maintaining a set of officials and each vested with power to raise money by taxation. Its citizens reside under too many layers of government and each layer costs too much money."

Tuesday night Gov. Lehman will speak over a coast to coast network, discussing "The State and Local Government." His address will be the first in a series to be delivered each Tuesday night under the auspices of the Committee on Civic Education by Radio of the National Advisory Council on Radio in Education and the American Political Science Association. The general subject of the series is review of local government.

MORGENTHAU FOR CHANGE

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., has also declared himself in favor of changes in local governmental bodies. He recently said in a radio address:

"Our present governmental organization is an inheritance. It was much the same in the eighteenth century as it is today. The township organization was probably necessary in our grandfather's day. It is not necessary today."

F. N. Fletcher, director of the Nevada Taxpayers' Association, recently said:

"Hundreds of thousands of dollars may be saved by drastic economy on the part of responsible officials, dollars that must otherwise be borrowed and later repaid by a tax-burdened people. Public officials must face the facts and act in their public capacity as they would act in their private business if confronted with similar conditions. We must have more efficiency in governmental operation."

EDUCATOR SPEAKS

Prof. A. R. Hatton, of Northwestern University, a recognized authority on state and municipal government, says:

"The cry for governmental economy rising in the United States in ever increasing volume is a natural and justifiable result of the most severe and long continued economic depression in American history. Indeed, it is proper in times like these that the question should be raised as to the necessity of each governmental service and each item of governmental expenditure. We have a right to hope from such a public attitude for better government practices and more efficient and responsible government."

The Arizona Taxpayers' Magazine recently stated:

"The way to decrease the cost of government is to simplify our organization, consolidate our overlapping units, modernize our operating methods, and curtail functions and services by eliminating all useless and unnecessary activities."

In Pennsylvania dozens of prominent citizens are advocating drastic changes in governmental structure to bring about reduced taxes. Plans are under way for a convention in Harrisburg next month to be attended by representatives of several hundred tax associations to discuss a program.

GARAGE OWNERS JOIN MOVE FOR SALES TAX

Evils of Income Levy Pointed Out by Association

Directors of the Greater Pittsburgh Garage Association, an organization representing 300 parking and service garages in Allegheny County, today joined the ranks of the numerous organizations here indorsing the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's campaign for enactment by Congress of a manufacturers' sales tax to replace the income tax.

In a resolution unanimously adopted, the association reiterated its wholehearted support of the program of President Roosevelt and the Congress "to establish a basis for permanent recovery and economic stability beneficial to all of the people," and urged enactment of the manufacturers' sales tax for the reasons:

"1—An income tax discourages industrial and commercial enterprise, lessens employment of labor and thereby reduces payrolls and purchasing power.

"2—That as against an income tax a manufacturers' sales tax, as has been adequately demonstrated in other countries, will produce a larger national revenue with a minimum of disturbance to the economic structure of the nation and without interference with individual welfare and convenience; that such a tax while producing a greater revenue, would be less expensive to administer and more equitable in its incidence."

Announcing the decision of the directors, William Fisher, president of the association, said:

"We heartily indorse the manufacturers' sales tax because it is more equitable than the income tax. The citizen pays in small amounts distributed throughout the year, rather than a large sum annually. If earning power is decreased and purchasing power is diminished the amount of taxes he pays is less.

"This tax would be practically painless. At least that is the way it has worked out in Canada for the past 13 years. It should work here better because our population is greater.

"In Canada the plain necessities of life, such as food and clothing, are exempt from taxation. This would be a greater blessing to every man and woman in the United States."

COUNTY TO KEEP ON PRESENT SCHEDULE

Two Shifts to Get Three Days Each Week

The 24-hour work week for CWA employes will continue in Allegheny County after the present federal ban on longer hours is lifted, according to James L. Stuart, local CWA administrator.

Where possible, he declared, two shifts of workers will be employed for three days each.

NO CITY PROBE

If union methods are unfair, he asserted, it is a matter for the state or the federal labor boards to investigate.

William S. Voorsanger, commander of the Pittsburgh City Post of the American Legion, yesterday suggested to Stuart that union officials here sign an agreement settling a just amount to be deducted from wages of union men on CWA jobs in payment of back dues.

Stuart pronounced the plan "ideal," but indicated he would take no steps to promote a conference with union leaders. Voorsanger's visit to the CWA office was in the interests of Frank Mallon, of 5802 Kirkwood street, union bricklayer, who accused the CWA of discriminating against him because he was in arrears of union dues.

WORK MAY CONTINUE

Stuart is to confer with George P. Mills, head of the County Emergency Relief Association, and a representative of the State-Federal Employment Bureau this afternoon, to consider a further lessening of the local relief burden when the CWA drive is resumed.

Though 26,000 are now on the county's CWA payroll, Mills said only 9,000 cases have been taken off the welfare list as a result of the CWA. In a recent letter to Mills, Eric H. Biddle, state relief head, announced his disappointment at the poor showing here.

Biddle today promised to investigate a protest by the Pittsburgh Chapter, American Institute of Architects, that architects and draughtsmen are paid less than skilled labor, and that PWA regulations are violated here by employing CWA architects and engineers to prepare plans for projects on which the work will be done by the Public Works Administration.

Ambridge CWA Official Quits Post Under Fire

AMBRIDGE, Pa., Feb. 7.—A. W. Johns, former borough manager of Ambridge, had quit as CWA supervisor today on the heels of criticism by his superior that the work here was only "35 per cent efficient."

Some of the 600 men employed in leveling a hill for a borough athletic field had protested against working conditions. Burgess P. J. Caul asked Eric F. Biddle, state CWA administrator, to investigate.

Biddle assigned Frank Hart, Beaver County CWA representative, to conduct the probe. The latter charged inefficiency and Johns resigned.

H. L. Goerman, a member of the Beaver County Federal Re-Employment Board, today made known he had protested to the federal authorities against "politics" in employment of men. The ones who needed the work most were unable to obtain it, he asserted.

Britten Favors Taxing Sales, Not Incomes

Illinois Congressman Outlines Fairness Of Plan

By FRED A. BRITTEN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The Ways and Means Committee is now considering various methods to raise an additional three or four hundred million dollars through income tax collections and just where the ax will fall, no one can at this time determine.

The business and earning public of the country is now being overwhelmed with a conglomerated exaggeration of nuisance and confiscatory taxes which should be repealed rather than augmented. It is truly hard for me to understand just why the present administration with its tremendous majority in the House and Senate does not indorse a manufacturers' sale tax of 2¼ per cent or 2½ per cent on the sale of every article sold in the United States by a large manufacturer or producer thereof, excepting food-stuffs, ordinary clothing, school books and books of religious reading and materials manufactured exclusively for use in houses of worship.

A tax of this kind would provide between four hundred million and five hundred million dollars in revenue and would make unnecessary any increase in income tax rates, but on the contrary, might cause a reduction in said rates and do away with many of the nuisance and stamp taxes now in force.

A manufacturers' sales tax would have a wholesome effect upon industry generally, would definitely provide for a balanced budget and maintain an air of confidence throughout the United States such as has not prevailed during the past three years.

Mae and Kate Have Accustomed Us To Large Figures

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

OMAHA, Feb. 7.—Just read where the French are going to revolute over a little trimming out of sixty million dollars.

Small sums like that don't bother us over here. Kate Smith and Mae West got us used to big figures.

Say, if we have an item less than a thousand million we throw it back into the pond.

You've got to be in debt these days to have any financial standing.

If a man says, "I don't owe anybody a cent in this world," that ain't so good. Then we know nobody will trust him.

We've got to fix the future so that no orator can get up and talk about a grateful posterity. It looks like we've done it.

BUSCH TO WED WIFE 3RD TIME

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—U. B. Busch, film executive, and Moscelyne Perreault Pobanz, movie actress, will be married Friday for the third time, they had said today, because of a misunderstanding over a final decree of divorce from his former wife.

The marriage for the third time, the couple said, is to insure the validity of their series of marriages, the first of which occurred November 1, 1930, in Ensenada, Mexico.

Also on Friday, Busch, a member of the noted Anheuser-Busch family, is scheduled to appear in superior court to defend an action brought by his first wife, Aileen Percy, former film actress, who seeks to have increased Busch's allowance for support of their son.

DARING CANADIAN STUDIES GERMS ON DEVIL'S ISLAND

Noted Surgeon Now Spying on Tropical Diseases

By GORDON SINCLAIR

CHAPTER VII

CAYENNE, FRENCH GUIANA.—Because 30 per cent of the black, yellow and brown home towners of French Guiana have leprosy and 18 per cent have its twin horror, elephantiasis, the fever-infested interior of this "Land of Do Without" will soon have a Canadian public health officer.

He's Dr. Charles Williams, who graduated from McGill in 1931 with two degrees, a three-year scholarship entitling him to explore the tropics for the bad bugs that some day get us all, and a deep curiosity about that awful swelling that makes men and women look like balloons.

Dr. Williams, during his three years, has spied out the equatorial belt line from Brazil to Bangkok and from Bolivia to Bombay. He admits that he likes it.

For the past two years he's been nosing around in ratty little hospitals and poor houses, deeply steeped in despair. He's jumped where excitement promised, but is getting a bit weary of all that now.

For instance, when Columbia and Peru had a recent war which made the rest of us yawn, Dr. Williams was high up the Amazon. He thought one warring side or the other might want a spare surgeon, and since he'd had lots of experience sewing up emergency cases at Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal, he got an airplane and zoomed off for war.

Corps Captain

The Columbians promptly made him a captain in the naval medical corps, fitted him up with enough gold braid for a Bulgarian duke and gave him a sword. He brought along his own knives, saws, scalpels and other surgical gew gaws, laid in a lot of needles and thread and looked for action.

Three Columbian cruisers steamed against the enemy. Shore batteries roared out. The cruisers uncorked broadsides, but most of their shells were squibs. The Peruvians, on shore, spent about $200,000 worth of shells without making a single hit and that was the end of that. Dr. Williams didn't have even one patient with a sliver in his hand.

The navy then went back to its dock and stayed there five months. Dr. Williams looked swell in his gold braid, but that wasn't quite his idea of a good time, so he quit. Promptly the Columbians sent him a bill for the use of his gay uniform and sword.

Search for Microbes

Then the doctor, his scholarship now run out, went to Dutch Guiana, spent a few months in a military hospital, then hiked back to Brazil. Looking through a microscope, he thought he had found a new and fiendish-looking parasite. It looked to me like a particularly man-hungry king cobra.

Then he went around trapping these internal sea serpents in all sorts of peculiar corners of the human frame. You'd be amazed. Hearing that French Guiana had the biggest crop of barrel-shaped legs in South America, he came up here a few months ago, filled test tubes with his little playmates, and shipped them off to Montreal, London, Baltimore and Berlin.

Since French Guiana has an export tax on everything leaving the country, officials charged the doctor a half dollar a tube on these slippery worms and and labelled them "Natural products of the country."

Meantime, the Cubans had started to blow each other up and Williams thought there might be a bit of surgical sewing to do among the rebels or the loyalists or whoever seemed to need a patch-up man. He flew up to Havana, but couldn't get to first base. They had 10 doctors for every wounded man and didn't want him.

OUTCAST SONS OF FRANCE . . . CONVICTS WORKING IN FRENCH GUIANA LUMBER YARD

Elephantiasis in Prison Colony Takes Toll

and resumed his war on bugs. Official France began to take notice. He treated several convicts with great success, took over some of the hygienic department and finally, when the interior health post opened, he got the job. I asked:

"But why? Why bury yourself among monkeys and half-breeds and the scum an riff raff of Fance? Why spend your life among exiles and thieves and traitorous villians?"

"Why to do something for humanity; for my fellow man. That's the real aim of any physician."

"Pardon me if I make a noise like a cynical old spoiled sport, doctor, but what's the real reason?"

He grinned and said:

"Well, there are three reasons. I want to stay away from Montreal five years. I've stayed three now, but the boredom of doing nothing except act like a tourist drives me wild. I want to do some more research in this elephantiasis thing because I have hit something new and I want to get back some of the money I've thrown around. This two-year Guiana contract will achieve all three."

During his three years under the Southern Cross, Dr. Williams has rather lost faith in the grand and glorious American dollar, too. About a year ago he sold two articles to a magazine and got a New York check for $100. He was in Demerara then and could have got 31 pounds for his check. But he put it in his wallet. Next time he needed cash, he burned up when they only offered him 21 pounds. He decided to hang on for the inevitable upturn in the dollar. Meantime, the bank went blooey. The stamp on the check, however, is still good.

Friend Finds Man Dead of Gun Wound

A bullet wound in the head, the body of Raleigh Johnson, 72, a Negro, was found in bed in his home at 2235 Bedford avenue, last night, police reported. The body, a revolver lying nearby, was discovered by a friend.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Feb. 7. To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

You know a couple of days ago, I said that what our Treasurer, Mr. Morgenthou, needed when he went out with this two billion to gamble with these money exchange "gyps," was not a pack of professors, but a Chinese.

Will Rogers

Well, I got a mighty nice wire from Mr. Morgenthou, and he agreed with me, and appointed me a committee of one to dig up the Chinese, so I am in the market now for a keen minded Chinese, kind of a cross between Confusius, Alexander Hamilton and Barney Baruch. So if you see me dashing into laundries and chop suey joints, you will know I am working for the government.

Yours, WILL.

OPPOSE SCHOOL CONSOLIDATION

HARRISBURG, Feb. 7. (AP)—The Pennsylvania Association of School Board Secretaries here adopted a resolution opposing the consolidation of school districts.

Dr. James N. Rule, superintendent of public instruction, advocates cutting the districts in the state from 2,500 to 500.

The association's annual convenvention closed last night after the delegates heard speakers stress the necessity of "constructive economy" in the administration of school affairs.

These officers were elected:

F. C. E. Mihlhouse, of Pottstown, president; Mrs. Helen K. Thompson, of Greenville, vice president; Mary E. Robbins, of Sunbury, secretary, and Willis H. Lady, of Biglerville, treasurer.

Harold F. Kratz, of Norristown, and H. W. Hoover, of Polk, were named to the executive committee.

Dr. George D. Strayer, professor of education of the Columbia University Teachers' College, told the convention schools cannot depend on the local property tax alone for income.

Natural Gas Sales Conference Subject

The future market of various gas appliances and the development of domestic, commercial and industrial gas consumption were discussed yesterday by executives from six states at the opening of the two-day Natural Gas Sales Conference in the William Penn Hotel.

S. B. Severson, Republic Light, Heat and Power Company, Buffalo, N. Y.; F. B. Jones, Equitable Gas Company, Pittsburgh; B. H. Gardner, Columbia Engineering and Management Corporation, Columbus, O., and E. E. McCormick, sales manager of the People's Natural Gas Company, presides at the conference sessions.

Two Traffic Court Jobs for Democrats

Two Republicans were out and two Democrats were in at Traffic Court today.

Notices signed by Mayor McNair relieved Miss Bertha Johnston, of the Fourteenth Ward, clerk, and James McClymonds, Eleventh Ward, cashier, of their jobs.

Conductor Tumbles Off Train in Tunnel

Albert C. Moffitt, 58, Pennsylvania Railroad conductor, was in the Allegheny General Hospital today, after falling off the 5:15 p. m. local train to Monongahela last night in the Fourth avenue tunnel.

Trains on the Panhandle and Monongahela divisions were held up nearly half an hour due to the accident, delaying hundreds of home-bound workers.

DIXIE BISCUITS RECIPE HAS INTERESTING HISTORY

VandergriftWoman's Formula Dates Back to '65

Aren't you often curious when using some other woman's recipe as to what story clings about it, what its history is? There's quite a romance connected with different foods and Mrs. James Craig King, of Vandergrift, for one, would like all housewives to know the background of her Dixie biscuits, included in the group of $1 prize winners, today. She writes:

"I am sending a recipe that has been used as far back as 1865. In those good old days it appeared on the table on special occasions and was a favorite with the old housewives. Especially was it used to serve the minister when he called. This good man came about 5 in the evening, on the same day each month, and remained for dinner, invariably praising the Dixie biscuits."

Prudence Penny, as you'd expect, believes in such stories, for they make foods such a personal part of our life. If you have recipes which you especially liked and which you consider almost "one of the family," send them in to Prudence Penny, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. Ten $1 prizes, one $5 prize are awarded daily. No recipes will be returned.

Five Dollar Prize Winner

MRS. D. E. NEVIN
247 Thorn street, Sewickley.
TOMATO MOUSSE

One-half box gelatine.
One-half cup cold water.
One pint tomatoes.
One tablespoon grated onion.
One-half teaspoon celery seed.
Two bay leaves.
One-half teaspoon paprika.
Two whole cloves.
One teaspoon salt.
One teaspoon tarragon vinegar.
One teaspoon lemon juice.
One tablespoon chopped capers and parsley.
One-half pint of cream whipped.

Soak gelatine in water, strain tomatoes through sieve and add onion, spices and paprika. Bring to boil and add gelatine. Strain and add salt, vinegar, lemon juice, capers and parsley. Cool. When it begins to thicken add the whipped cream, turn into mold. Nuts and celery can be added. This makes enough for six or eight servings.

Ten $1 Prize Winners

109 Broadway, Brownsville.
ENDIVE AS VEGETABLE DISH

Two pounds endive.
One-half cup flour.
One-half cup vinegar.
Six slices bacon.
Salt, pepper to taste.

Wash and drain endive, place in a large vegetable dish. Next, fry the bacon, which has been cut into small pieces, add flour and brown, add enough water to this to make a thick paste or gravy. When thick, add vinegar, salt, pepper and pour over the endive and serve.

MRS. GEORGE WARDLE,
1819 Baille avenue, McKeesport.
FRILLED PAPER CUP TEA CAKES

One egg.
Three-fourths cup sugar.
Two tablespoons butter, melted.
One and one-half squares chocolate melted.
One cup pastry flour.
Two teaspoons baking powder.
One-half teaspoon salt.
Two-thirds cup milk.

Separate egg. Beat yolk well. Add sugar slowly, continue to beat. Add melted butter and chocolate. Sift flour, baking powder and salt and add alternately with milk. Fold in stiffly beaten egg white. Partly fill the paper cups, set each one in muffin tin, and bake in moderate oven at 350 degrees F. for 15 minutes. Decorate with nuts or cherries on white frosting. When used for children's party, decorate with small mound of confectioner's sugar icing on which has been placed an animal cracker. Makes 32 very small cakes.

MRS. A. A. SAUL
445 Marshall avenue.
STUFFED PORK CHOPS

Four extra thick chops.
One cup diced raw carrots.
One-half cup diced raw turnips.
One-half cup diced celery.
One teaspoon salt.
One cup tomato juice.

Have butcher slit chops lengthwise to make pockets for the dressing. Mix together the vegetables and stuff them into chops, fastening edges together with toothpick or string. Rub with salt and brown in hot frying pan. Add tomato juice, cover, and cook very slowly for about one hour. Add more liquid if large amount of gravy is desired.

MRS. JAMES CRAIG KING
106 Fifteenth street, Vandergrift.
DIXIE BISCUIT

Two eggs.
Two cups milk.
One teaspoon salt.
Three pints flour.
Five tablespoons of butter and lard mixed.
One heaping tablespoon sugar.
One yeast cake.

At 10 a. m. melt butter and lard. Add milk, salt, sugar, and heat to lukewarm. Dissolve yeast in a little cold milk and add. Beat eggs well and add. Sift flour twice and add, stirring until very spoonful. Cover and keep in warm place and rise until it puffs. Then mix lightly and roll one-fourth inch thick. Cut in two slices. Put a smaller one on top of each large one. Let rise until light, about one hour and one-half, and bake 10 to 15 minutes in a moderate oven. These are good served with tea.

MISS HELEN CIGANOVIC,
7 Second street, Youngwood.
SERBIAN NUT ROLL.

Two cakes yeast.
One and one-half tablespoons salt.
Two cups sugar.
Eight eggs or 16 egg yolks.
Two cups butter or other shortening.
Rind and juice of one lemon.
Four cups milk.
Flour to make a soft dough.

To lukewarm milk add sugar and salt. Add the yeast, which has been dissolved in a little milk, add shortening, eggs, lemon rind and juice. Mix thoroughly and gradually add flour and knead to a smooth, moist dough (that is a dough that feels moist but still doesn't cling to fingers while kneading). Next cover and put in a warm place to rise to double bulk. In the meantime boil two cups of milk to which have been added four cups of ground (not chopped) English walnuts, one bar of milk chocolate, rind of one lemon, two teaspoons lemon juice and four tablespoons honey, until thick and put to cool. When the dough has sufficiently risen cut into several pieces and allow to stand for 10 minutes, as dough is easier to handle after it sets.

Then on a well floured cloth roll out each piece separately, until about 30 inches long and 12 inches wide. Lightly dough can be pulled into shape with hands instead of using rolling pin. Spread nut mixture over it, dripping honey over the top and adding a few raisins, if desired. Roll one end half way, as for jelly roll, then the other, till they meet. Flap edges over and press together. Place in buttered pan and allow to rise for 45 minutes. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) for one hour or until delicately browned. Remove from oven and brush with butter.

CLARA C. SHIOLI,
1141½ Church street, Turtle Creek.
ITALIAN ROASTED PEPPERS

Wash and dry six firm green peppers. Place in moderate oven. When the skins begin to wrinkle and the peppers are softened a little remove from the oven. Cut into narrow strips. Season with salt. Pour enough olive oil to moisten the peppers. If preferred sprinkle a few of the seeds on the peppers which help to retain their flavor. Serve warm.

MRS. M. A. SHIRING
914 Airbrake avenue, Wilmerding.
CODFISH LOAF

Soak one-half package of codfish in cold water three hours before using. Put into a saucepan with one and a half cups of diced raw potatoes. Simmer 20 minutes, drain off water and beat light with a wire potato masher. Melt three tablespoons of cooking fat or butter in a frying pan. Add one and one-half cups of onions, sliced quite fine. Cook until brown. Add to codfish in saucepan, mixed together with two teaspoons of lemon juice, one teaspoon dry mustard, a little pepper, salt if needed. Put into buttered casserole and bake in hot oven 20 minutes. Serve with white of egg sauce. Serves five.

MISS LA RUE TONE
7109 McClure avenue, Swissvale.
RAVIOLAS WITH STUFFED ROUND STEAK AND TOMATO SAUCE
Raviola Dough

Four cups flour.
Four eggs.
One tablespoon olive oil.
Lukewarm water enough to soften dough.

Mix flour, oil and eggs to make a paste. Add the water to soften dough and knead. Roll as for noodles.

Filling

Two pounds Italian smearcase.
Three eggs.
Two tablespoons parsley, chopped fine.
Four tablespoons cheese (Italian, grated).
Salt and pepper to taste.
One-half teaspoon sugar.

Sauce and Meat

Pound steak. Add salt and pepper. Spread meat with lard. Add chopped parsley, a few slices of bacon, bread crumbs to cover steak, two tablespoons Italian cheese, a sprig of garlic cut fine, one hard cooked egg, sliced thinly, and five or six raisins. Roll and tie together with string.

Brown meat in one heaping tablespoon of lard. Strain one large can of Italian tomatoes and pour over meat with one-half pint water, one can tomato paste, a little parsley, one carrot, and salt and pepper to taste. Cook on slow fire two hours. Serve sauce over raviolas and slice meat.

MRS. W. C. MANN,
212 Greenwood avenue, Emsworth.
WALNUT DIVINITY FUDGE

Two cups sugar.
One-half cup water.
One-half cup light corn syrup.
One teaspoon vanilla.
One egg white.
One cup walnut meats.

Boil water, sugar and syrup until syrup forms a ball when tried in cold water.

Beat egg white until stiff and add slowly one-half cup of syrup. Beat constantly. Cook remainder until it forms a hard ball when tried in cold water. Add slowly to first mixture. Beat until stiff. Add vanilla and walnuts. Turn into buttered pans and cut when cold.

MRS. AGNES L. LOTZ,
519 Oakwood street.
RASPBERRY CUP CUSTARD

Two cups fresh or canned berries.
One cup water.
One cup sugar.

Cook a few minutes together, then rub through a sieve. Let cool. Now place three eggs in a mixing bowl, beat well and add one cup milk and the raspberries. Pour into custard cups which have been lightly rubbed with shortening. Set the cups in a pan of warm water and bake in a slow oven until firm in the center. Serve with top milk or cream.

MARTIN SEES IDEALISM GAIN

In Pittsburgh for a three-day lecture engagement, Dr. Everett Dean Martin, director of the People's Forum of Cooper Union in New York, will speak tonight at the Y. M. & W. H. A. on "Marx, the Principle of a Planned Society."

Mr. Martin, who is a nationally known psychologist and author, said today that the United States is rapidly turning from the materialism of the past several years to an enlightened intellectualism.

He asserted:

"It will be an honest idealism, not sentimental, not highbrow."

Values since the war and through the ensuing false prosperity were based on immediate gain and shallow thinking, he declared, whereas the present generation has more regard for logic and ideas.

Indications of a revival of culture are seen, he said, in increased attendance at lectures in Cooper Union, where crowds are the largest in the institute's history.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Heart Disease Is Most Common of Ailments

In the latest health report of New York City are found astonishing and gratifying figures. Great progress has been made in combatting diphtheria and tuberculosis. The lowest death rate in the history of the city is reported. But what is most discouraging is the increase in cases of chronic heart disease.

Dr. Copeland

Heart disease is the most common and serious of ailments. It outranks tuberculosis, pneumonia and cancer, causing one death in every six. I doubt if we can hope to lower this figure until all are impressed with the absolute necessity of giving proper care to the heart.

The heart is often compared to a machine. It resembles a machine in many respects but differs from the man-made device in that it must go on and on, never stopping its work. When it requires repairs it cannot be stopped for the necessary adjustments. This is out of the question with a human heart.

But we can help the heart adjust itself to the burdens placed upon it. We can avoid undue strain and avoid unnecessary wear and tear by preventing excessive fatigue and exhaustion. We can respect our hearts and bear in mind constantly that they have certain definite limitations. This is especially important if the heart is diseased and incapable of carrying undue burdens.

One of the best ways to insure a strong and sturdy heart is to prevent infections and those diseases that lead to chronic heart disease. Such infections as acute rheumatic fever, diphtheria, scarlet fever, tonsilitis and pneumonia, are the heart's greatest enemies. No matter how slight the attack from one of these diseases, the damage to the heart may be great.

As I have mentioned, overstrain is dangerous and should always be avoided. When engaged in fatiguing and strenuous work bear in mind you are doing something that may lead to permanent damage to the heart. Regular hours of sleep, proper nourishment and plenty of fresh air and sunlight, are essential to good heart health.

Overweight is another menace to the health of the heart. It can be prevented. Please remember that overweight is a stumbling block to health. The obese person succumbs to many infectious diseases and in many ways subjects his heart to undue strain.

I cannot overemphasize the importance of early recognition of heart disease. The earlier it is recognized the sooner and more certain the cure. Little can be expected from treatment unless it is supervised by a physician. He will prescribe the necessary medicine, outline a schedule of living and plan a diet necessary for prompt cure.

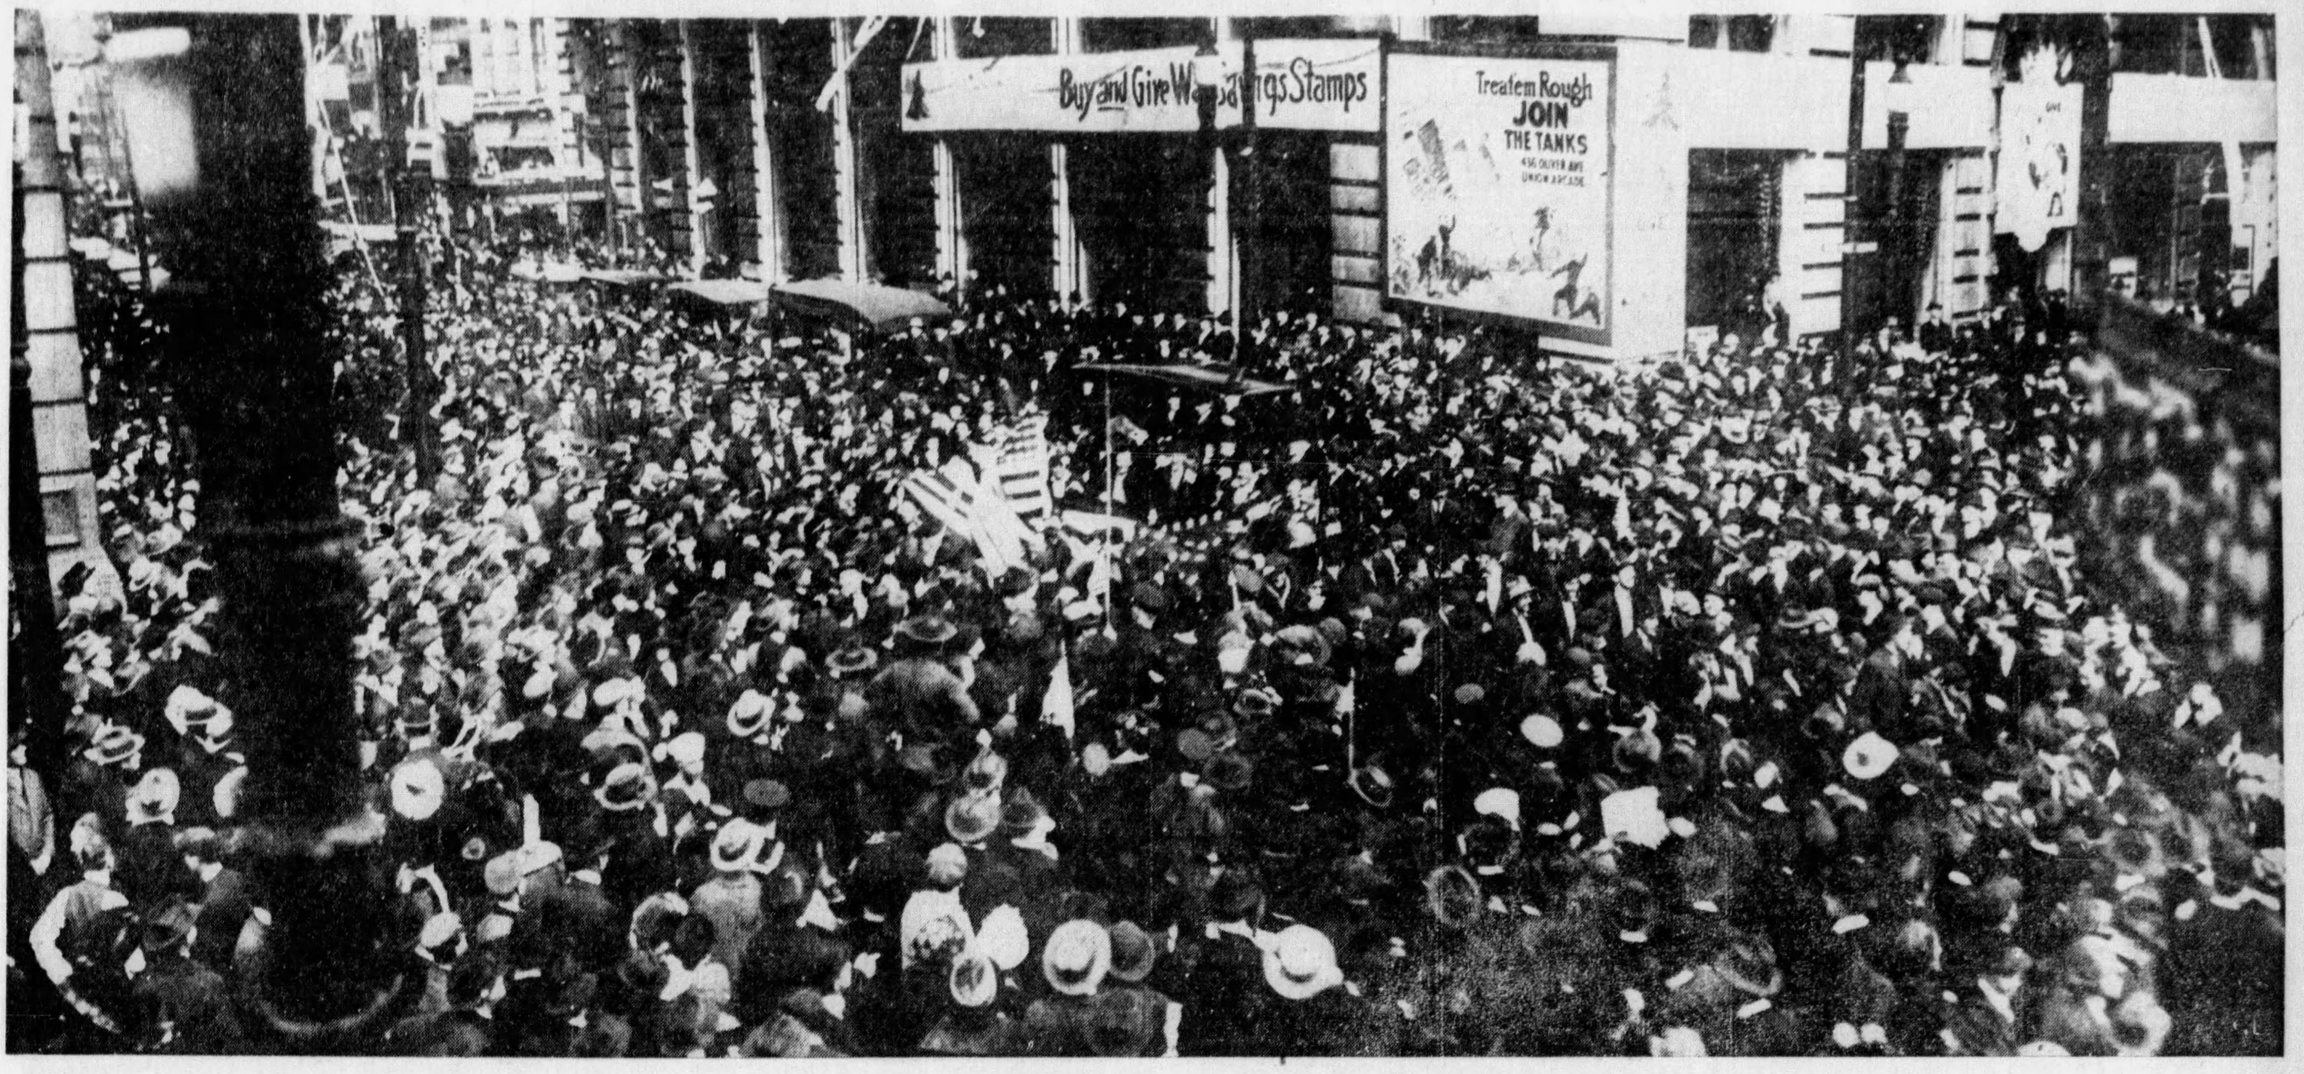
'THE WAR AT HOME:' PITTSBURGH'S PATRIOTIC HYSTERIA



A downtown corner in Pittsburgh in 1918—Fifth avenue and Wood street—as the endless drives for money to finance America's Armies abroad went on through Liberty Bonds and War Stamps. Notice the signs. This is a Frank Bingaman picture.

The shadow of War on a vine-covered Pittsburgh church as khaki-clad volunteers marched to and fro as a nation hurriedly prepared itself for battle in a foreign land. Notice how the children are attracted by the tramp of 'big soldier men.'

AMBULANCE DRIVER

'Mid blinding rain this inky night,
Loud bursting shells each foot of road,
Thy Light, O Christ, will guide me right
To save this gasping, dying load.

Their shattered limbs have followed Thee;
Their wounded hands have done Thy work;
They bled, O God, to set men free;
They fought the fight; they did not shirk.

'American Army an Improvisation'—Ludendorff

"The American Army," said Ludendorff in his "Memoirs" of the World War, "was an improvisation, but it was a good one."

The German Field Marshal meant only to pay us compliments—a compliment to the manner in which our officers put millions of men into the distant fray, and a compliment to the spirit and gallantry of our "doughboys" and marines.

But in reality GEN. LUDENDORFF'S WORDS WERE A TERRIBLE CRITICISM.

America, suddenly engulfed in war, had to improvise an army because we were a NATION UNPREPARED.

And improvisation for a few months of warfare cost us far more dearly than a whole century of preparedness could have cost.

It cost us thousands of brave lives, sacrificed in fields of carnage.

It cost us days and nights of anxiety and heartbreaks in tens of thousands of homes.

It cost us billions in treasure—a debt that will not be paid off forty years from now.

Never again must America be caught in such peril.

We must keep foreign wars out of America, and America out of foreign wars.

PREPAREDNESS must be the watchword of the Republic—now and for all time.

A touching farewell: a grandmother at the Point sending off her grandson, her only support, to do his bit for the flag. This is from Frank Bingaman's war photo collection.

CHATEAU THIERRY

O God how vast
The distance seems to loom
'Twixt these heroic men and me
High Priests of Liberty!
Unarmed, yet unafraid,
Alas! I have no part,
But stand aside
With lacerated heart
To watch the tide
Undaunted, undismayed,
Go rushing past
Amid volcanic gloom
Unto their crimson Calvary
To set their brothers free.

SKILLET SISTERS

:-: Glances Into the Realms of Domesticity and Romance :-:

By MARION BRUNOT

Women's Work in the Home Has Pleasant Features

You don't agree with me on the "back-to-the-home" movement.

You're ag'in it hard. For you've had your fingers burned too often on the oven door. Too much scrubbing fluid has gotten in under your finger nails. And you are dead set on getting out from under the home roof.

It is all right for the skillet sister inclination, when it's only a fad. But when it has lasted too long! That's a different song, and "Annie doesn't live there any more."

Dear Miss Brunot:

Your articles interest me.

A "back-to-the-home" movement may be the smart thing right now for the deb of the "speakeasy era," but if you ask me, she is just about three years behind the times. The real "back-to-the-home" movement for most of us started with the crash of '29—and there was nothing optional about it.

SPIRITS DEPRESSED

True, plenty of us are doing our own work, but not because we want to. Just put a few of those new "deflated" dollars in our pockets, and watch us go—and not homeward.

No, Miss Brunot, most of us have seen too much of that "Home, Sweet Home" stuff in the past few years. We're tired of looking at the same four walls that need papering so badly; we're tired of seeing the same people with the same expressions. Our nerves are jumpy, our bodies undernourished, our clothes "out-dated." We want a change—a new hat, a new car, a new man—we want to go places and do things.

I'll admit there is a decided change in clothes and furniture, but this change isn't so suggestive of a "back-to-the-home" movement, as it is a result of an unsatisfied longing for romance, glamour, and beauty—all the things that we have missed and yearned for during the past few years. Our souls have been as starved as our bodies—our spirits as depressed as our pocketbooks! Instead of a change from speakeasy to home, the change will be from a world of realism to a world of romanticism—which change is already reflected in our plays and novels.

NECESSITIES OF LIFE

Marriages may increase in the next few years, but it won't be because the days of prohibition are over, but because Jack has a few more shekels in his pocket, or because Mary has a decent place to entertain her boy friend. Food, shelter, and clothing are the three necessities of life, according to my geography—and no one is thinking of love when he is cold, hungry and broke!

Some, like your friend, may be doing their own housework despite the fact that they are financially able to have a maid. This may be because it is a "novelty," or it may be because they happen to be the "old-fashioned-home-lovin'" type who have just discovered that they would rather cook a meal than play a game of bridge. These misfits you will find in any group. But I'd gamble that the majority of girls would go back to their old jobs tomorrow—if they had the chance.

Your friend will find, too, that a certain amount of entertaining is necessary—and what woman can do all her housework and take care of her own children, and still retain that "I-just-left-the-beauty-shop" look at the end of the day? How can she be a cheerful companion and an entertaining hostess? Gradually she will find herself slipping, and soon hubby will be offering excuses about the "extra" work at the office—and while she is tucking "precious" in bed, fond hubby will be stepping out with "the blonde" that he met at the last party.

And if there is any "back-to-the-home" movement, it will be about 3 a. m. in the morning!

E. D. S.

HAS PLEASANT FEATURES

Your last few years have made you a pessimist, sister. Home work has its good features as well as have office duties. Of course the handsome guy doesn't drop in for a flirtation and a possible church-aisle walker. Neither do you pick up that delectable morsel of scandal that trickles into every floor of a business block.

I did not write my "back-to-the-home" column for the single girl who is aching to get away from baking Sunday cakes for her parents, but rather for the young married woman who has but one thought, and that is getting on with her man. And I still insist the trekking in at the front door and the staying in the kitchen is being more than re-awakened. It is a steady parade, I say.

Marketing is being done by way of the back seat of the family car, and by the housewife.

Cook books are good sale.

And even if you are hoping for the Cinderella act, and listening in for the Prince Charming, remember the pie pan is always a tender thought in a man's emotions.

And that the boy friend's alimentary canal is within S. O. S. reach of his heart.

Men More Confident Than Women in Love, Fay King Finds

By FAY KING

Where love is concerned, men have the utmost confidence in their charms and powers to win any woman.

But even the youngest and prettiest girl doubts her ability to hold the man she loves, and, by telling him he no longer loves her, anticipates the time when he may tire of her.

She fears impossible rivals, while a man seldom fears any rival however young or better looking.

A man may tell a woman constantly how much he loves her, but let one goodby kiss be too hastily given, or, worse still, forgotten in a hurry, and she is convinced love has ended.

But if a woman tells a man that she hates him, he believes she is only stalling to lead him on.

Madge Arranges to Steer Veritzen Off Track

Noel's pessimistic observation concerning the likelihood of his father's holding up the wedding for an investigation of the reason why Avis Arlen was not a bridesmaid, stayed persistently with me. It lingered like a stinging gnat in my memory, not only during the drive that returned Mary and Noel to the farm house, still unmarried despite the elopement which their aversion to Avis Arlen's presence at their wedding had led them to attempt, but during the ensuing long hours before dawn.

Lillian and I had shared the vigil over Avis Arlen, which we had agreed to keep after the girl's last spectacular attempt to break up the wedding. As it turned out, neither of us was needed. Under the influence of the powerful sedative which Katherine had given her, the girl slept soundly without awakening, without moving. But neither Lillian nor I relaxed in the endeavor to keep my promise to Noel and Mary—that Avis should not be more than one foot away from one of us, or from Harry Underwood, until the wedding was over and the happy pair safely gone from the farm house.

I had taken the first two hours of the vigil and Lillian the next two, but when I lay down in Lillian's room in an attempt to get the sleep I so sorely needed, I found that I was far too excited for even a semblance of slumber. I lay awake, staring into the darkness, while over and over two queries beat upon my brain.

PREPARE FOR EXPLANATION

What would Philip Veritzen do when he found out that his wishes had been flouted, and that Avis was not to be a member of the wedding procession?

Was there any way in which he could be persuaded that the reason Avis was planning to give him was an authentic one?

It was dawn at last, and the end of my two hours rest period, before I found the solution. When I came back to my own room to relieve Lillian I beckoned her into the hall, keeping an eye through the door upon the still sleeping girl.

"I'm afraid you'll have to be the divinely appointed goat today," I whispered.

"Guilty as charged, m'lord!" she said with a little shrug. "Also present without voting. What's the big idea?"

"I want you to take Philip Veritzen to one side as soon as he arrives today. Exercise all your well-known charm; play the tune of your old friendship for him for all it is worth, and prepare him for Avis' explanation as to why she does not wish to be a bridesmaid. Noel is afraid his father will upset everything if he finds that his wishes have been flouted."

PLEASANT RELIEF

"Nice tall order you've given me," Lillian drawled. "Why don't you assign me to go out and twist the tail of the Bengal tiger in the zoo? I'd about as lief take on one job as the other. But never shall it be said that the gallant Underwoods flinched from a call to duty, and we have one card that I think may turn the trick."

She paused, and I looked hopefully at her.

"Phil hates a scene as much as the devil is supposed to hate holy water," she said. "So if we can keep the knowledge of the change in the arrangements from him until about the time of the ceremony, we'll have nothing much to fear. He may feel like biting holes in the atmosphere, but he'll content himself with chewing on the wedding cake."

"I knew you'd solve the problem," I said, with the first relaxation of tension I had felt for hours. "But do you think you can keep her away from Philip Veritzen until the time for the wedding?"

"I won't need to," she said, with assurance. "You've already put the fear of God most effectively into that young woman. When she awakens, give another twist to the vise and make her understand that she is to let no one, especially her mother and Philip Veritzen, guess that she is not to be a bridesmaid.

I did not feel the need of sleep after that. The relief from anxiety was a greater tonic than any amount of sleep could have afforded. When Lillian came to relieve my vigil over Avis next time, I bathed and dressed for the day's manifold duties.

Correct Manners

Towels Are Supplied by the Host

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you kindly advise me about visiting a friend or relative and taking your own towels to use while in the home.

Is it considered an insult to the hostess to take your own towels along to use while a guest in the home of a friend or relative? N

We shouldn't think of taking our own towels with us when we go a-visiting. If we do, our hostess will certainly "wonder" about us. She would certainly resent this, and I doubt if even a vast sense of humor would be able to meet this situation. If she were a very understanding person, she wouldn't necessarily be "insulted," but if she weren't an especially understanding person, she certainly might be. She would think either of two things: "Has this guest ever been a visitor before?", or "What does she think is the matter with my guest towels?"

By Any Other Name

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please tell me the proper way of announcing or telling my friends that I changed my name? N.

The best form would, I think be to write notes to your friends, rather than making this announcement in a formal way. Your note might be worded rather like this:

Dear Bob:

I want you to know that I have changed my name, legally, and that I am now to be Robert Armstrong, instead of Robert Knowland. I hope that you approve of this new name and that you won't find the use of the new name difficult!

All good wishes to you, and I hope to see you soon.

Faithfully, and by the new name,

Robert Armstrong.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Keeping the Line of Communication Open

Many bridge players bid their hands with meticulous accuracy, but some of these same players fail to study the play long enough not to be guilty of careless faults that bring defeat to what should have been absolutely certain contracts. It cannot be too strongly stressed that every Declarer, after the Opening lead is made should make a thorough study of his combined holdings and determine, first, if the contract can be made and, second, the line of play that should be adopted to bring about the best results.

South, Dealer.

North and South vulnerable.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♡	Pass	3 ♡ (1)	Pass
4 ♠ (2)	Pass	4 ♡ (3)	Pass
6 NT (4)	Pass	6 ♡	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—This is an overbid, the only justification being that North knows that his partner's trump suit must be shaky.

2—This is, to all intents and purposes, a Forcing bid. North has given a Jump Raise to South's first bid suit and hence the bid of another suit requires a further response.

4—South has a very strong hand with 5½ honor-tricks and a knowledge that he has a fit with his partner in the trump suit. This is the conventional showing of three Aces and the King of a bid suit.

The Opening lead was the Queen of diamonds, which, with West's holding, was a perfectly natural choice. As a matter of fact, it happens that a club lead would have brought defeat to the contract unless the trump finesse had been taken. With the diamond lead, however, South should have seen that the Slam was assured if the trumps broke 2-2, as a club discard was certain on one of the spades, even if the Queen of spades was in the West hand. If a trump trick must be lost, then the spade finesse must work; otherwise the contract cannot be made.

South, in this instance, failed to consider the number of entries required in the Dummy in case he was faced with the necessity of a spade finesse. Thus, after taking the first trick with the diamond Ace, he led a small heart from his hand and played the Ace from Dummy. The correct play would have been to first lead the King of hearts and then lead a small heart to the Ace. The spade finesse could then have been tried immediately when East failed to follow to the second trump lead. However, South still had a chance to repair his error. When East failed to follow to the second heart, he should have played the nine from his own hand in order to leave two re-entries to the Dummy. Instead, he played the King, and this killed all further possibilities.

South had failed to realize that he would now have to use the last trump in the Dummy in order to attempt the spade finesse. The club discard on the fourth spade was of no use any more as there was no trump left in the Dummy to take care of the Declarer's losing club.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Many women use dry, compact rouge because it is easier to apply. When they experiment with cream rouge they get into difficulties. That is because they haven't discovered the right technique. Never apply an oily blush in one good sized spot and then try to spread it. It almost can't be done; certainly the results aren't any too good. Put it on in small dots not more than half an inch away from each other. The coloring is pretty well distributed then, a little friction blends and extends it.

Brushing the hair will make it look well groomed. It removes dust and to a certain extent aids the growth because it gives a pull to the hair roots that stimulates circulation. But violent brushing may act as a disturbing influence to the scalp. Heads should not be curried. The hair brush that is not kept scrupulously clean is a danger. It should be washed twice a week, dipped in a mild ammonia rinse, and it should be kept in some sort of box or wrapping that will protect it from dust.

Blue eye shadows have gone into eclipse. There's a marked tendency now toward a blue-green which is more green than blue and, strangely enough, suits blondes, brunettes and the betwixt-and-between. Glittering shadows are enticing for evening, make eyes look come-hither and dewy. There's gold for blondes, bronze for the dark-eyed beauties, silver for the white-haired contingent. It is a fascinating pastime to play with lid lacquer. A happy choice does do wonderful things to a woman's countenance.

If you loved the richest man in Egypt could you become an Oriental wife?

NO GIRL could ask for a nobler lover. Physically splendid, handsome of face, thoroughly educated in Western ways—only his love making was Oriental, in its masterfulness and fire.

Eila loved him long before she ever knew who or what he was—a fabulously rich son of the desert, chieftain of wild, fighting tribes, different in race and faith and in his conception of what a wife's place ought to be.

How could she, an American girl, consent to an Oriental marriage, to live by Oriental standards? Yet her love for him was so great, so great . . . What did happen?

Good Slate for Pirates Old Ring Debate Revived Strain On Tilden Seen

The tougher the job and the longer the wait, the greater the glory and the satisfaction when the goal is finally reached. So Dr. H. C. Carlson and his Pitt basketball stars may well feel proud and elated following their success in defeating Duquesne University last night, 31 to 29, for the first time in five meetings after three years of trying. The final turning of the tables on the Dukes, probably meaning a tie for the city title, speaks volumes for the spirit of the Panthers, and for the inspirational as well as the technical side of Dr. Carlson's coaching. Four straight defeats by one opponent would have caused many a team to lose heart, but they only made Pitt fight all the harder. Stopping Notre Dame after 23 straight wins, coasting over West Virginia and Wash Jeff and then beating Duquesne, is playing a lot of great basketball in a little more than two weeks.

Dr. H. C. Carlson

Even if they fail to capture the title for the third straight season, the Dukes can view their record with pride. It was a notable achievement to win eight out of 10 games from Pitt and Carnegie since being admitted to local major competition. No team can win all the time. Incidentally, the Duke-Pitt series has set somewhat of a record for close rivalry in the fact that the last four games between the teams were decided by margins that totaled only five points, and the difference in total scoring in the four contests was only one point, 110 to 109, in favor of Duquesne. The complete five-game series record is, Duquesne, 138; Pitt, 130. They don't come much closer.

SCHEDULE FOR 1934 BEST BUCS EVER HAD

With Pennsylvania opened to Sunday ball, President John A. Heydler was privileged to go about his schedule-making for 1934 free from the obstacles that encumbered him in the past and forced him to do a lot of juggling with the playing dates of the Pirates and Phillies. As a result, the National League schedule he turned out, and which was made public today, is one of perfect balance and fairness, with all clubs getting the same number of Saturdays and Sundays at home, and other parts of the program evened up in ideal fashion.

As for the Pittsburgh club's bookings, the schedule is easily the best the Pirates ever had, particularly because it eliminates the harmful Saturday and Sunday night railroad rides involved in making double jumps to and from other cities to play Sunday games. For the first time within the memory of veteran fans, the Bucs will get only two holidays at home, instead of three, Memorial Day being lost, with a reduction to 12 Saturdays, but that was made necessary by the new conditions and is more than offset by the fact that the fans will get a chance to see the Rovers at home on 12 Sundays.

HOME ON FORBES FIELD'S SILVER JUBILEE

Another pleasing feature of the distribution of dates by President Heydler is that the Pittsburgh club is given a game at home with another probable pennant contender, the strong and colorful Chicago Cubs, on Saturday, June 30. That will be the twenty-fifth anniversary of the dedication of Forbes Field, and the schedule makes possible a special program and a big day for the Silver Jubilee of the Oakland ball park. Booking the Cubs for that occasion is a fitting arrangement, as it was the Chicago club that assisted the Pirates to open Forbes Field on June 30, 1909, when Ed Reulbach defeated Vic Willis in a pitchers' battle, 3 to 2.

John A. Heydler

The Cincinnati Reds will be the the visiting attraction in Pittsburgh's first Sunday game on April 29, and also on the Fourth of July, with St. Louis playing here on Labor Day and the Bucs appearing in Chicago on Memorial Day. At no time will the Pirates visit any city for only a single game, and the only instance in which another club will come here for just one contest will be the visit of the Reds on September 21.

The Bucs will have a chance to get a flying start in the fact that after their first six games on the road they will be privileged to play 22 straight contests on their own grounds, meeting all of the seven other clubs, or 22 games at home out of the first 28, which offsets the playing of 22 games abroad out of the first 25.

ANOTHER CLAIM FOR FIGHTERS OF OLD

The difference between the fight critics who insist that the ring stars of yesteryear were superior to the titleholders of the present-day, and those who uphold the moderns, is that the former class has seen the best of both eras in action, while the younger observers have seen only the newcomers and are not qualified to make comparisons. Reviving the old debate, Joe Vila, who has been covering fights for 45 years, says you can't find a man in the heavyweight division who would have had a chance against Jim Jeffries, or a heavyweight or light-heavy who could have held his own with Bob Fitzsimmons.

Continuing, the veteran argues that Fitzsimmons, Stanley Ketchel, Tommy Ryan or the original Jack Dempsey would have subdued Vince Dundee with alacrity; that there isn't a doubt Joe Walcott would have stopped Jimmy McLarnin in jig-time; that it's a question how Barney Ross would have fared against Jack McAuliffe, Kid Lavigne or Joe Gans; that Kid Chocolate can't be imagined in the ring with George Dixon or Terry McGovern, and that America never has seen a bantamweight champion the equal of Jimmy Barry.

THREE SETS PROPER LIMIT FOR TILDEN

Though duly impressed by the remarkable endurance and skill that Bill Tilden has shown at the age of 42 in his professional tennis tour with Ellsworth Vines, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, who is conceded to know a thing or two about the net game, thinks Big Bill is in danger of breaking himself down and hastening the end of his career. In the opinion of Mrs. Moody, Tilden should not play more than three sets in any match on his tour. She came to that conclusion after watching Bill and his youthful opponent perform in San Francisco.

Helen Wills Moody.

Mrs. Moody holds that with Tilden traveling constantly and playing almost every night, the strain is too heavy on him. She remarks that the players compete at a terrific pace, that that sort of tennis is too strenuous for anyone, and out of reason for a man of Tilden's age. Three sets, she contends, would be more logical. Professional tennis matches interest Mrs. Moody, and she holds no brief against the pro player, but she will remain an amateur.

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The induction of Sunday baseball into Pennsylvania has given the 1934 Pirate schedule a complexion far different from that of any playing chart Pittsburgh has owned since the city gained its National League franchise almost 50 years ago.

The schedule of the senior major circuit, published today, reveals that the Cincinnati Reds will be the opponent of the Pirates on Sunday, April 29, the date of the first Sunday contest in Pittsburgh. Twelve Sunday games are listed for Forbes Field, home of the Buccos.

One of the important changes wrought by the passage of the Sunday sports bill has to do with holiday games. Owing to the fact that Sunday baseball was not permitted in this state, the schedulemakers through the years had granted Pittsburgh the favor of staging home games on three big holiday dates — Memorial Day, July 4 and Labor Day. The tradition will be broken this year when the Pirates move into Chicago for the Memorial Day games. The other two holidays remain on the Buccos' home card.

CUBS DRAW GOOD DATES

The Pirates will start the 1934 season on the official opening date, Tuesday, April 17, in St. Louis, where the Cardinals will be combatted in three games. The three succeeding days will be

WANIO, CRIBBS STAR AS PITT WINS FIRST FROM DUKES

PANTHERS GET BACK IN RACE FOR TITLE

By JESS CARVER

If there is to be an undisputed city collegiate basketball champion this year it looks like Pitt and the Dukes will have to play a rubber game before there can be any awarding of laurels.

Carnegie Tech can prevent this, of course, but it hardly is likely that the Tartans will be able to stop either the Panthers or the Dukes. Tech has a game with each in the offing.

Playing before another capacity crowd in the Pitt Stadium Pavilion last night, the Panthers, playing excellent basketball, effectively laid the jinx that has hovered over them since they inaugurated floor relations with the Dukes two years ago. Pitt won the ball game, 31 to 29, serving the Red and Blue its second defeat in a row and evidencing a greater superiority than the score indicated.

WAINIO, CRIBBS STAR

A reserve, Francis (Slim) Wainio, and the stellar Claire Cribbs, who once more stamped himself as being one of the best with his fine all-round play, and the steady work of the Hughes boys, carried Pitt to its triumph. There was no letdown in the work of the gallant Dukes, who scarcely had recovered from the shock of the Westminster defeat of last Saturday. Duquesne lost nothing but the game in last night's struggle.

The Pitts took the lead when Russ Ochsenhirt tipped off all and sundry as to just how alert the Panthers were going to be by racing past Dudey Moore, intercepting a bounce pass and dribbling more than half the length of the floor to hook in a field goal. At one time during the first half, the Panthers were ahead by eight points at 14 to 6. They led, 17 to 13, at half time.

Affairs broke badly for the Panthers in the second half, and had it not been for the basket-getting Wainio, the men of Carlson might be contemplating their fifth defeat at the hands of the Dukes. Both Russ Ochsenhirt and Don McCamant were ousted from the melee on personal fouls, and Slim and young Roderick had to go in there and battle Duquesne's seniors. They battled them very effectively, especially Wainio, who popped himself four important field goals at crucial points of the battle.

DUKES TAKE LEAD

With the score tied at 20-all, the Dukes, fighting desperately as they attempted to penetrate the bang-up defense thrown against 'em by the Panthers, took command of the situation for exactly two minutes and gained a four-point lead. This advantage, which looked like it might be the payoff, failed to hold as Pitt clicked off seven points before the Red and Blue could tally again.

Ahead by 31 to 27, the Panthers saw their lead sliced dangerously with a minute left to go as Art Feldman sank one from the side, his third of the game. Pitt got control of the ball after that, but a floozie pass gave the ball to Irv Brenner, who tried one from mid-court. Irv was too strong, and had the windows been open the ball would have landed in the right field stands at Forbes Field.

The Dukes' foul shooting was off, the Bluffites missing as many as they made and they made nine. Pitt picked up seven out of 11. It looked for a time during the second half as if the officials were going to let the Dukes do all the foul shooting.

The Panther freshmen made the evening complete by beating the Dukes' yearlings, 37 to 34, in the preliminary. The lineups:

By JULIUS LEVIN

Connelley Trade School remains in the running for the Section I crown in the City Scholastic League, but the Traders came dangerously close to being erased yesterday.

Meeting Schenley yesterday on the Bellefielders' floor, Connelley found itself trailing for more than three-quarters of the game, but put on a rally in the closing moments that enabled it to pull out on the long end of a 26-to-25 score. Ptacek, Connelley guard, was the high score man of the fray with nine points.

In other Section I tussles Fifth Avenue walloped Allderdice, 42 to 27, and Westinghouse took Peabody, 30 to 19.

Langley and Perry remained in a deadlock for the Section II lead as Langley nosed out Carrick, 18 to 17, and Perry beat off Allegheny, 50 to 32. Oliver downed Vocational, 36 to 26.

spent in Cincinnati, single contests being slated for each day. Gibby's crew is due to return home April 23. On the following afternoon, Tuesday, April 24, they will defend their colors against the Cardinals in the home opener.

Frankie Frisch will bring his Redbirds to town for three days, and as soon as this opening series is completed the Reds will appear. The first Sunday game will be the last contest of the series with the Reds.

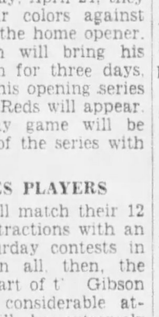
CHART PLEASES PLAYERS

The Buccos will match their 12 Sunday home attractions with an even dozen Saturday contests in Oakland. All in all, then, the home playing chart of t' Gibson clan is one of considerable attraction. It will be extremely popular with the members of the team in that it does away with the one-day Sunday jumps which long have been the bane of Pittsburgh teams.

The 1934 schedule is a much more compact document than the playing chart which preceded it. Due largely to the entry of Sunday baseball into Pennsylvania, the draft was made to include the traditional 154 games in a shorter space of time. The opening date is five days later than in 1933 and the closing games will be played one day earlier.

Lew Raymond On Air Tonight

The Trained Seals of the Sports Department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph go on a new schedule tonight, when they will be heard at 6 o'clock. Previously they have been heard at 7 p. m., on Thursdays. Until further notice they will be on the air at 6 p. m. Wednesdays.



Lew Raymond

Lew Raymond, famous local boxing promoter and matchmaker, will be the guest speaker, engaging in a fanfest with Harry Keck, sports editor of the Sun-Telegraph, about the Ted Yarosz-Jimmy Smith fight and other boxing matters of interest.

Pitt Track Stars In W. Va. Meet

Coach Carl Olson, of the Pitt track and field squad, will enter a team of 35 varsity athletes in the annual West Virginia indoor games to be held at the West Virginia Field House, Saturday. In addition there will be 14 first-year men competing in the freshmen events.

FIGHT RESULTS

At Los Angeles—Art Lasky knocked out Johnny Freeman, 5 rounds. Fritzie Zivic defeated Perfecto Lopez, 6 rounds. Sailor Jimmie Wade defeated Johnny Huffman, 6 rounds. Jack Price and Ted Stratton drew, 4 rounds. Young Danny and Rito Martinez drew, 4 rounds.

At Seattle—Gordon Wallace defeated Bobby Pacho, 8 rounds; Frankie Villa won by technical knockout over Mickey Connelley, 2 rounds; Richie Fontaine defeated Ray Mayo, 4 rounds.

OPEN TOURNEY NET PROBLEM

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

What about open tennis tournaments? There's a real headache for the moguls of the United States Lawn Tennis Association when they convene at the P. A. A. here in their annual meeting, Friday and Saturday. A proposal agitated, off and on, for many years, but brought into outstanding prominence only since the defection from the amateur ranks of such stars as Suzanne Lenglen, Vincent Richards, Bill Tilden, Henri Cochet, Francis Hunter, Ellsworth Vines and performers of but slightly less note, this matter of competition involving both professional and amateur players is bound to rate serious consideration by the powers.

EVENT APPROVED

The U. S. L. T. A. at its 1933 conclave approved a national open event and awarded it to the Germantown Cricket Club. The action came as distinctly a surprise move—a neat bit of tactics on the part of Philadelphia delegates, who, on being denied the national doubles championships, suddenly switched their attack to a demand for an open affair on the historic Quaker City net battle-site. Any opposition that might then have obviated a favorable vote was denied opportunity to develop, and the tourney was, as intimated above, tossed to Germantown as a sop to assuage Middle States disappointment over failure to obtain one of the traditional major meets.

The joker, however, bobbed out of the deck later. Plenty of sentiment was found against the idea of matching unmonied stars with their moneyed confreres, and, as an expedient to nullify the Germantown grant, it was conveniently discovered by the U. S. L. T. A. sanction and schedule committee that no suitable date was available for the first National Open. Thus, for a little while, the controversy was railroaded into the background.

BATTLE EXPECTED

But the whole thing must be aired, and that quickly. Whether or not open play is desirable is scarcely within the purview of this article. The point is, the U. S. L. T. A. is at the crossroads where it must determine its attitude for or against such tourneys. Had the United States recaptured the Davis Cup last summer, there would have been a temporary "out" for the association; the challenge tie could have been returned to Germantown and that influential organization would have been entirely satisfied. As it is, though, Germantown appears to have gone begging again in its quest of the National doubles affair and it is a pretty fair bet that the Philadelphians will refuse to take the cut lying down. So look for pyrotechnics on the Open topic this week-end!

Tener, Heydler At Scribes' Dinner

Gradually the list of notables who will attend the Baseball Writers' banquet at the Schenley Hotel next Sunday is increasing.

John K. Tener, former president of the National League, and John A. Heydler, his successor, will be on deck. So will Jimmy Crowley, Fordham's football coach, Honus Wagner, Deacon Phillippe and Wilbur Cooper, oldtime Pirate stars and Elmer Layden, Notre Dame's new football coach.

Buck Herzog, Cotton Tierney and Hans Lobert are three major league baseball stars who have sent on word they will be here.

The banquet gets under way at 6:30. Reservations may be made by calling John Hernon at Atlantic 6580.

Akron Goodyears Wallop Geneva

Mel Rush, former Bethany College star, was the high scorer of the battle, caging seven field goals and three fouls for a total of 17 points. The lineup:

Score at half—23-15. Goodyear. Missed foals—Penebaker, Schmitz, Rush, Potosky 2, Brownlee 3. Personal fouls—Ginsberg, Grahame 3, Hutchley, Littell, Rush, Cope 3.

VANITIES PLAY ELLWOOD

The Goldenson Vanities will have the Ellwood City girls as their attraction at the South Side Market House tonight. The Goldenson Boys meet Brookline M. E. in the preliminary game. The Vanities are undefeated so far this season.

SPORTSMEN TO MEET

The Springdale District Sportsmen's Association will hold its first annual banquet tomorrow night in the Springfield Methodist Church dining room. Motion pictures of wild life will be shown the members.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Teddy Yarosz, back in the midst of his hard training for his 15-round battle in defense of his state middleweight title against Jimmy Smith at Motor Square Garden next Monday night, took time out following his workout in the Turner Hall, Monaca, yesterday to tell a story . . . Someone had just checked up on his record of 74 professional bouts, 70 of which he has won, two of which he has lost, both by disputed decisions, to Eddie (Kid) Wolfe and to Young Terry, and two of which have resulted in draws, both with the same Wolfe man . . . Fifty-seven of those victories were consecutive before he ran into his first draw, in a 12-rounder with Wolfe in New York's Madison Square Garden, and it was not until his sixty-first start as a pro that he lost to the same Wolfe in the same ring in which he will meet Smith.

"Do you know," said Teddy, "that one of the most interesting bouts I've ever had isn't included in the records, and it was one of the toughest, too, and I didn't win the decision?"

Well, that was news for all concerned, so Teddy was not interrupted as he proceeded to elaborate . . . "It was back in 1929," he said, "just before I turned professional . . . My older brother, Ed, and I both were boxing as amateurs and both were in the welterweight class, and there wasn't much to choose between us, but he used to step aside late in the tournaments and let me pass him . . . It was thus I won the right to go to Boston that year to represent Pittsburgh in the national amateur senior tournament, and I went farther in the competition than anybody on our team . . . When I returned home Eddie began to razz me for not winning the title . . . 'Fine stuff!' he droned at me . . . 'Going all the way to Boston to get licked.' . . . He finally got my goat, and we flew at each other . . . He challenged, 'Everybody's been wanting to know all along which one of us is the better fighter—let's go to it and find out—right now . . . Down in the cellar.'

"To the cellar we went, and turned on the light and went to it with our amateur boxing gloves, no referee and the understanding that we would fight until one of us went down exhausted or knocked out . . . There were no rounds or rest periods . . . We must have battled for upwards of a half-hour, tugging and pulling and punching and hammering, and both of us still were going strong when our mother heard the scuffling and came downstairs, grabbed a broom and broke up the fight . . . Who won? . . . I didn't, and neither did he . . . Maybe it was a draw and maybe it was no contest . . . Personally I think our mother won . . . Well, after that, Ed and I buried the hatchet, and we've never gone to grips since . . . I do the fighting now and he trains me, and we make a going family proposition of it . . . But, speaking of tough fights — wow!—HARRY KECK.

SOCCER REPLAY ORDERED HERE

By TOM BIRKS

The United States Soccer Football Association has fined the Slavia Club, of Cleveland, $25 and ordered its game wuth Curry, of Pittsburgh, replayed at Greenlee Field Sunday afternoon. A letter from James Armstrong, secretary of the U. S. S. F. A., to the local commissioner, says in part:

"The committee is of the opinion that the Slavia Football Club is most grievously at fault in this matter and its action in leaving the field of play tended to injure the good name of the sport in a district that has evidenced the greatest growth in soccer in this country in recent years. The decision of the committee is:

"B—That the Slavia Club be fined $25."

The contest, a National Open cup affair, will be staged at Greenlee Field Sunday afternoon with Trysull Evans as referee.

REDS PURCHASE DAZZY VANCE

The reorganized Cincinnati Reds and their representatives, President Powell Crosley, Jr., and General Manager Larry MacPhail, stole what headlines there were when they announced the purchase of Arthur (Dazzy) Vance, veteran right-hander, from the St. Louis Cardinals for the waiver price of $7,500.

Otherwise the meeting produced no startling developments. The Reds' representatives, apparently busier than all the others combined, did sign Val Picinich, veteran catcher, as a coach, and obtained Second Baseman Les Mallon from the Toronto Internationals. They also announced they had negotiated working agreements with Toronto and Beckley, of the Middle Atlantic League, and expected a similar tie-up with a club in the reorganized Three-Eye Circuit.

Names in News

Under a ruling by the Attorney General, licenses have been granted to NELL DONALD and RUBY ALLEN, permitting them to compete in wrestling matches, and they will oppose each other in a 15-minute match at the Cicero (Ill.) Stadium Friday night.

BABE RUTH'S celebration of his forteth birthday anniversary today was rather quiet, mainly because he has been suffering from a severe attack of the grippe. He plans to leave New York for the South tomorrow.

EARL JOHNSON, CHARLES BEETHAM and JESSE OWENS, of Ohio State, will compete in the annual West Virginia University indoor relay meet at Morgantown Saturday.

FORD FRICK, widely known radio commentator, and sports writer for the New York Evening Journal, has been signed to succeed CULLEN CAIN as the manager of the service bureau of the National League.

ED (MOOSE) KRAUSE, center and captain, established an all-time Notre Dame basketball scoring record by making 22 points to lead the Irish to a 43-34 victory over Minnesota at Notre Dame last night.

PIRATES MEET H. J. WEBERS

CITY HOCKEY LEAGUE

GAME TONIGHT

Pirates vs. H. J. Webers, Duquesne Garden, 8:30 p. m.

STANDING OF THE TEAMS

Ravens	0	5	8	26	.000
Duquesne	0	0	0	0	.000
Tech	0	0	0	0	.000

If the dope runs true to form, the City Hockey League's first tie game of the season will be staged at Duquesne Garden tonight when the Pirates meet the H. J. Webers.

Deadlocked for the runner-up position in the standings, with three victories and two defeats each, tonight's rivals appear to be evenly matched, and everything points to a close, hard game.

The Pirates downed the Webers, 5-0, on the occasion of their first meeting, but since obtaining Goalie Curl the Oaklanders have taken a brace, and have turned in impressive triumphs over the J. Scott Morgans, league leaders, and the Red Ravens.

The only doubleheader on the season schedule is to be staged at the Garden Saturday night when Duquesne will oppose Carnegie Tech in the season inaugural for both teams and the Ravens will meet the Morgans. The probable lineup for tonight's game:

STOCKS TRAVEL DIVERGENT PATHS

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Stocks folowed divergent pathways in the early trading today. Realizing in rails and industrials carried a number of the leaders down fractions to more than a point. Utilities were narrow while metals and some specialties moved forward. Trading was in moderate volume.

Homestakes and United States Smelting got up around 5 points each. Brooklyn Manhattan Transit, Dome and Cerro de Pasco were around a point higher.

United Aircraft dipped 2 before meeting support. Issues off major fractions to about a point included New York Central, Douglas Aircraft, General Motors, Bethlehem, United States Pipe & Foundry, Baltimore & Ohio, United States Steel and Allied Chemical. Case, Public Service of New Jersey, Western Union and Loews were fairly steady. Consolidated Gas eased a small fraction. Call money renewed at 1 per cent.

Shares of Homestake Mining got up 9, United States Smelting 6 and American Smelting, Alaska Juneau, Dome and McIntyre about a point each. A few specialties also showed resistance. On the other hand, Delaware and Hudson dropped 4 and Allied Chemical, American Commercial Alcohol and United Aircraft lost about 3 each. The utilities, including American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, Western Union and Standard Gas, sagged 1 to 2 or more. Santa Fe, New York Central, United States Steel, American Can, Douglas Aircraft, General Motors and others were off as much.

Selling of some of the aircraft issues was attributed partly to the inquiry at Washington into mail contracts and other air transport activities.

Just what effect the French political disturbances may have had on domestic equities was a disputed question among brokerage houses. That the sell-off may have been due partly to nervousness over the troubles in the Place de la Concorde was the belief in some quarters, although most market observers felt this influence was a minor one.

It was pointed out in several banking offices that further evidences of unrest in France might even result in an additional expatriation of foreign funds for investment in American securities because of possible unstable conditions in European markets.

For several days various stock analysts have been of the opinion that some sort of a reaction was on the program because of the sharp advance which has been enjoyed by most equity groups. Few, however, expected any serious reversal. The majority were still optimistic for what is termed the "long pull."

Advices from Washington that a bill for the regulation of speculation was being whipped into shape and probably would be used as the basis of the Senate committee's hearing which starts next week were studied with much interest by stock exchange members. Wall street, though, was still hoping that the enactment of a law may be postponed, at least until the next session of Congress.

Declaration of a dividend of $1.25 a share on the preferred stock of the American Woolen Company, while not altogether unexpected, was seen as a satisfactory indicator of busines recovery. This was the first disbursement by the company since 1927 when $1.75 was paid.

GRAINS GIVEN SETBACKS

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—Grain prices underwent material downturns early today. Indications were for possible breaking of drought in domestic wheat territory southwest, and the French political disturbance was construed as bearish. Apening at 1/8 to 1 cent decline, wheat afterward fell further. Corn started unchanged to 3/8 lower, and subsequently showed setbacks all around.

Restriction Rumor Lifts Crude Rubber

LONDON, Feb. 7.—(INS.)—Rubber reached 5 1-16 pence a pound on the market today, the highest since August of 1930.

The rise was due to rumors of negotiations between Great Britain and Holland to restrict the output.

FEDERAL RULE HELD AS CLUB OVER BANKS

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, New York University

NEW YORK Feb. 7. — Our banking system is in a period of crisis. The bankers are being told by the government that if they don't lend the government will take over the banking business.

The head of the RFC tells them that if they don't run their banks as a sort of "public service" institution rather than merely for profits, they will be "supplanted" by the government.

A representative of the New York Federal Reserve Bank undertook to defend the bankers. He stated eligible borrowers had never had any difficulty in getting loans, and that emergency loans had been made in some cases followed by borrowers going into receivership.

The bank representative also urged that a central bank of issue should not be under political control. It should serve the public interest in the management of money and credit, he said, but plainly he thought politics and the public interest are horses of a different color.

CROSSROADS REACHED

So we are at the crossroads. The administration wants bank credit pumped into business for relief purposes and for stimulation. The bankers want to see business expanding in a sound way before they expand loans, and object to extending the stockholders' and depositors' money for purposes which do not offer reasonable assurance of profits.

But the government has been financing thousands of commercial banks, and has taken over a large part of the reserve banks' functions. So now it is "talking turkey."

You may be sure that it is going to have its way. Either we are going to see government-dominated commercial banks participating in a great credit inflation, or we are going to see the administration enter the banking business and inflate bank credit.

The whole thing is built on credit. The chief assets of the banks are government debt (bonds), and the bigger the government deficit, the bigger the so-called "reserves" of the banks. Our money is purely credit money, and the larger the government debt, the more money we have.

Thus we are on the way. We are on the way to inflation, and the banks are going to have to come along.

We should note that the government spokesman says that "much of our trouble came from too easy credits. He says he would not advise "loose credits or unsound banking."

Then he says "But."

DANGEROUS DOCTRINE

He adds several interesting statements. One is that he would rather see "too much credit" at this time than "too little credit." That is certainly a dangerous doctrine. Which is better, too much debt or too little debt?

He says that bank credit should be used to prevent lack of food, clothing and shelter, and that "everyone should enjoy some of the luxuries of life." You would pay taxes to help the needy, but if you were a depositor in a bank would you want it to lend your money for such purposes?

I ask these questions in all sincerity. We are at the crossroads in our control of banking and credit. We all want a sounder and wiser banking system, but do we want the possibilities of a political control of our banks and of too much credit? Just think it over for yourself.

POWER OUTPUT GAIN LARGER

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Production of electricity by the electric light and power industry of the United States during the week ended February 3, totaled 1,636,275,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 1,454,913,000 kilowatt hours in the corresponding 1933 week, or an increase of 12.5 per cent, according to the Edison Electric Institute. In the week ended January 27 output totaled 1,610,542,000 kilowatt hours, a gain of 9.6 per cent over the similar 1933 period, and in the week ended January 20 showed an increase of 9.5 per cent.

RUSSIA TO CUT PRODUCTION

MOSCOW, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Soviet Russia has modified its second five-year plan to slow up somewhat the general rate of production in the last three years of the plan, it was revealed today.

A reduction from 18.9 per cent to 16.5 per cent in the planned annual increase of industrial production beginning with 1935 was approved.

Thus the Soviet hopes to be producing 16,000,000 tons of pig-iron annually by the end of 1937 instead of 18,000,000 as originally planned and will make a corresponding reduction in the proposed output of steel.

Plans for a 306 per cent increase in production of the food industry by the end of 1937 were trimmed to 270 per cent.

Memory Test

2—W. & J. played the University of California to a scoreless tie in the 1922 Tournament of Roses football game and did not make a substitution at any stage of the battle.

3—Harry Greb boxed Gene Tunney five times.

4—The scores of the Pitt-Southern California Tournament of Roses games were: 1930, 47 to 14, and 1933, 35-0, the Trojans winning both games.

5—Charley Hyatt, of Pitt, is generally conceded to be the greatest college basketball player ever produced here.

HUDSON—

FOURTH DEGREE

By K. S. DAIGER

"'That's hubby, ain't it?' I whispers to Tilly.

"'No,' she tels me, sort o' worried like. 'I can't guess who it is. It must be her boy friend, I s'pose. To think of it! But stick around a bit longer, Timmy. They can't be very long now!'

"So we smoked a couple more cigarets without so much as a sound coming from the second floor. We had another long dull period. All of a sudden I hears a car coming up the drive. 'It's him,' I says. 'We better beat it.'

"Then we hears the man upstairs come rushing down, running for dear life. Sort of caught he was, you see. He gets in the hallway and we can hear the gentleman put his key in the lock. So the first gentleman—I don't know who he was, sir, seeing that the front way is barred, turns and runs down the hall and straight down the cellar steps. . . . Scared to death we was, sir, Tilly and I. . . . No time to run and sure we were going to be caught!"

Anderson was eyeing the burglar quizzically and a couple of detectives and newspaper men were smiling broadly.

Heard Paige Scream

"You can laugh all you want, Cap," he said, "but that's the truth, so help me God! That there man came on down into the cellar and when he saw how dark it was, he struck a couple of matches and beat it as fast as his legs would take him through the very window which Tilly and me had left open.

"A woman's?" asked Anderson.

"No, sir, it wasn't no woman's scream. It was a man's and he came tearing down the steps and right into the room over our heads.

"'Give me Police Headquarters at Towson,' we heard him say, 'and give it to me damn quick! Somebody's killed my wife!'

"'This ain't no place for us, Tilly,' I says. 'Let's beat it.' Which we did as fast as our legs could take us out of the window.

"And that's all I know about it, so help me God!"

Rough Voice

Tim concluded this amazing recital with a sort of dramatic gravity. Plainly he was not expecting us to believe him. And no one did believe him.

"You saw this man's face? What did he look like?" asked Captain Mahler.

"No, sir, that we didn't. He had a match or two in his hands but he kept it well down. He was tall—that's all I know."

"You heard him talk," said Anderson considering. "What was his voice like?"

"Oh, I'd know his voice anywhere in a million. Sort o' hoarse and rough like, with a twang. Couldn't say what part o' the country he hailed from but seems like I'd heard it somewhere before." Tim knitted his brows in the effort to remember.

"Think you'd recognize it if you heard it again?"

Anderson flashed me a meaning glance, and I knew what he was thinking. Was this man the same mysterious phone caller of the morning of the murder? Mrs. Deane had described the same uncouth nasal voice.

"That's all for the present," ended Anderson. "Anything the rest of you want to know?" turning to the other officers.

There was silence and then the newspapermen made a dash for their respective phones. For them the interview was at an end. For Tim and for us it was just beginning.

Reiterates Story

And then followed the real grilling—hours and hours of it. Officer after officer took up the questioning, twisting Tim inside out, shouting questions at him, bullying him, accusing him, wheedling him, threatening him. How anybody could have been guilty and withstood that dreadful volley of questions was beyond me.

It lasted all that night and well into the following morning, until Tim, without food, without sleep, was ready to have confessed to anything.

But he always stuck to the same statements: he had not murdered Mrs. Paige and a tall man with a hoarse voice had come into the cellar.

We never broke him. No matter how many different ways we approached his story, it was always the same. Its final form varied not an iota from its first.

"Take him away," said Anderson at last, when it became clear that Tim was simply incapable of any further conversation. "Give him a chance to think things over."

"Now, boys, let's all get to bed and try to get some sleep. I want you all up at the Paige house tonight promptly at 8 o'clock. I have a little idea about this murder which may be all wet, but I want to try it out. We're going to reconstruct this crime and we must make a minute examination of the house. If I can find one thing, we shall solve the case. And it will prove that Stokes' story is true.

"Remember — tonight at the Paige house—8 o'clock sharp!"

And now I come to the terrible and unforgettable events of that tragic Friday night—that night when the murderer of Sonia Paige was to exact another grim toll on his bloody trail, that night when we realized for the first time that this very murderer was still loose in our midst and still intent on killing.

The day began with a warm foggy morning. Hour after hour the barometer dropped steadily and late in the afternoon the elements broke loose in unleashed fury. That storm—like the Paige case—has gone down in history. Technically, it was a hurricane which, sweeping up the coast from Florida, lashed Baltimore with a savage sweep of its tail as it described its parabola out to sea.

To those who were forced to be abroad it was nothing more than a little slice of Hell. The fury of the wind was terrific. It uprooted magnificent trees, tore down signs from buildings, even whipped the roofs from houses and the tops from automobiles as if they were toys in the hands of an angry child. The rain, pouring down in an undiminished torrent, was seized by the wind and whirled about in blinding clouds of stinging spray.

It was a memorable night—a night fit for murder to stalk abroad!

Horrorful Events

Eight o'clock had been set aside for the reconstruction of the crime on the old Paige estate. I shivered as I thought of it. How dismal the old grounds would be—how cold—how eerie! The night that little Sunny had been killed there had been moonlight bathing the world in its soft glow.

Tonight there would be—what?

I put this chapter of the Paige case on paper with a certain degree of hesitation. I have lived through some amazing experiences in my career as crime reporter and investigator. There was, for example, that night when the newspaper photographer and I hid in the deserted cemetery at Havre de Grace to get some pictures of the private funeral the next morning—and when the murderess, intent upon paying a last visit to the grave of her victim—came to the grave. I can still remember that thrill of horror . . .

Again there was the time when we raided the old Rudel tomb in the Home Sweet Home Cemetery to apprehend the Norris bandits. We were all armed to the teeth and ready to blaze away at the bat of an eyelash. Death lurked there in that last resting place of the vanished Rudels. But I was not afraid.

Not even that night, I say, could surpass the horror of the terrible events which I am about to relate.

Believed Man Guilty

But I am getting away from my story. Let me tell you, with what composure I can, of the incidents which took place on that Friday night—the night planned for the reconstruction of the crime.

I knew exactly what had prompted Captain Andy to take this singular action. In his mind there was still the faint hope that Kirk Judson might be wrong—that the police department might still catch the real murderer—that, by some grace of God, Tim Stokes might actually be telling the truth. And there was just the chance that an exhaustive re-examination and search, in the light of Tim's yarn, might uncover something.

These things I knew as well as if the Inspector had told them to me. And I was sorry for him—profoundly sorry—because I believed Tim Stokes to be guilty of the murder beyond any shadow of reasonable doubt. His story was just such as a crook would concoct.

The time set was eight and it lacked only a few minutes of that hour when I parked my flivver and arrived, wet and dripping and chilled through, upon the front porch of the Paige house. The place looked black and silent except for a light in the library and a dim one in the hall. In a few minutes, I knew that it would be a blaze of lights from cellar to garret as a corps of detectives and newspaper men made their way from room to room.

I went in with a swirl of wind and rain.

Synopsis

Murder was suspected when Sonia Paige, wife of socially prominent Randolph Paige, was found hanging to a chandelier in her home. Paige and Mrs. Deane, the housekeeper, fail to give the police any clues. Kirk Judson, a shady private detective, is engaged by Paige when police begin their investigation. Robert Cleveland, prominent attorney, says that he was in love with Mrs. Paige and told her so when he visited her home with Mrs. Phelps, a neighbor, on the night of the murder. Paige admits to the police that he took a jewel owned by his wife to get money to cover stock market losses. Judson reports to Anderson that he knows the murderer. He names Tim Stokes, a friend of Mrs. Phelps' maid. Stokes is arrested, but claims innocence.

PREHISTORIC EXISTANCE OF MAN

The remains of man and his handiwork, found in various strata, establish his existence on earth as far back as the Pliocene period. This was followed by the Pleistocene, the Great Ice Age, with its four Glacial Ages and three Interglacial Periods. Man, restored from remains, shows stages of development, the duration of which can be estimated only vaguely. History—a systematic account of past events—probably was first recorded on the clay cylinders and tablets of the Babylonians, thousands of years before Christ. (World History)

CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS LANDING AT SAN SALVADOR, WEST INDIES (Oct. 12, 1492)

Columbus, a mariner of Genoa (?) believed that westward across the Atlantic Ocean lay lands belonging to Asia. For 18 years he struggled to obtain backing for exploration and finally, through Queen Isabella of Spain, procured three little ships (Pinta, Nina, Santa Maria). He sailed August 3, 1492, and despite all difficulties and threats of mutiny, landed at San Salvador (so named for his preservation) planting the Spanish Royal Standard, at the starting point of "New Spain."

A man of great vision and courage, though not conscious of his discovery of a new continent, Columbus did not enjoy for long the fruits of his labors. Due to intrigues and jealousy he was deprived of rank and liberty, dying a poor man (1506) in his fifties.

The new continent was named after the explorer Americus Vespucius; a Florentine merchant, who through his books focused attention on the new land. (United States History)

GENIUS THAT DISCOVERED FIRE MAKING

The material side of civilization rests upon chemical foundations. Living bodies are chemical laboratories where complicated processes take place with marvelous precision and efficiency. When primitive man produced fire by rubbing wood, he discovered the chemical tool which made possible the Ages of Bronze, Iron and Machinery.

Among the antique peoples, Egyptians knew most of chemistry. They embalmed bodies, prepared medicines, paints, soap, beer, vinegar, metals, alloys, salt, sulphuric acid, glass, enamel and tile. The mummy of Seti I (left) has been preserved about 3,225 years (at present is in the Cairo Museum, Egypt).

In the Middle Ages chemistry was considered a sort of magic. Chemical workers, alchemists, while in futile search for the "Philosopher's stone" (imaginary substance capable of converting metals into gold and of healing diseases) discovered many important products and processes.

Watching the steady rise of confidence and optimism, we figure the lambs will be back in the butcher shop in about four years.

Nothing unusual about the spacing of boom times and speculation. Time coats everything with forgetfulness and the years are salve for burned fingers.

Only, the next time it will be a new crop of quickies who will dive into the pickle vat hoping to come up with strawberries in their hair. We old timers will lurk in the bowlegged rocking chairs and laugh at the newcomers in the market. We learned our lesson and love the teacher. But you can't stay in school all your life.

We went through two big flurries up to 1929. And that year we got permanent possession of the loving cup. It is a beautiful silver trophy. Capacity, one quart of red ink.

All the advice and all the lecturing won't stop a brash genius who thinks he is smarter than the next guy. All the con rackets in the world are based on one fundamental gadget. The boys take you in as a full partner in a caper that is going to trim a weedbender from the hills. Just when things are brighter than a snake's eye they pull the switch and stake you to a bundle of fiat currency consisting of autumn leaves and soap wrappers.

You may have noticed that in the last five years there has been little complaining. That's because we all feel a trifle implicated. We figured we had the best of it from the start. And like the bear eating the berries off the top branches we took it standing up.

The best feature about events to date is that none of us old buzzards are singing about the good old days. We looked the grand old days up on the calendar and discovered there were none.

It's the good young days we are looking forward to. They're about due now. But we are going to let the youngsters handle 'em. With no coaching from the sidelines. When we figure the public investor to get into action around 1939 it is because we know his engine is primed and his gasoline tank is full and nobody got anywhere hanging around a filling station.

The government is doing all the investing now. But we hope to take that business off its hands. Give us the dope sheet and a pencil.

It 'Soaks' the Poor

The Rich Dodge the Income Tax, But It Hurts Business and Reduces Employment.

Fellow citizens! We have got to talk to you again about the sales tax—and about the taxation crisis that hangs over the nation.

We must talk to you earnestly, bluntly and with all the vigor we can command.

The whole people have a vital interest that correct judgment shall prevail in dealing with this crisis and that a sound policy shall be adopted.

Everyone else, whether a taxpayer or not, is equally concerned—for we all stand or fall with the country's fate.

If the present scheme of taxation, with its main reliance upon the fast-shrinking yields of the income tax, can be shown to be a thwart and obstacle to recovery, growing greater as such from day to day, we have got to decide how long we will tolerate it—how long we can AFFORD to tolerate it.

And we must make that decision before it is too late—while it is still possible that a decision will do us some good.

We say "thwart to recovery." And why should we not describe as a thwart to recovery a scheme of taxation that paralyzes business and commercial initiative; that sends capital, upon which the hope of recovery depends, flying into hiding; that forces the potential individual investor to sink his money in tax-exempt government securities netting him a scant one per cent, but which at least will afford him some protection from wanton confiscation of his savings by the government?

Now about the income tax.

Every serious and observant citizen, and every politician with a grain of sense, knows that it is played out as a source of public revenue.

The uninterrupted and steadily accelerated decline in its yield finds its climax in the year just closed.

In the three great states of New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois, which are the largest payers of income tax, the decline in yield was even greater last year than the rate of decline maintained in former years.

In New York the revenue from income tax was thirty-one per cent less than the previous year. In Pennsylvania thirty-three per cent, and in Illinois thirty-eight per cent.

And yet, the politician mind has driven its stakes and camped out on the income tax as having votes in it, if not revenue. It is the loud speaker, as it were, for the politician's rallying cry, "Soak the rich."

He cannot realize that this slogan has never meant much in view of the ability of the rich to circumvent the tax. It has now lost whatever meaning it ever had—even its fake value to the cheap politician.

THE INCOME TAX DOES NOT SOAK THE RICH.

IT SOAKS BUSINESS—by making it unprofitable to undertake and impossible to maintain.

IT SOAKS THE UNEMPLOYED—by curtailing and stopping business undertakings, which are the only source of employment and the exclusive hope of the unemployed.

IT SOAKS THE GENERAL COMMUNITY AND THE GREAT BODY OF TAXPAYERS—by throwing upon them the distributive share of the tax burden, which a fake income tax PRETENDS TO CARRY, but does NOT CARRY.

And worst of all, it affords a cover and an alibi for the fraudulent, interested and self-serving opposition to the sales tax.

Why should we have a sales tax, this opposition cries, so long as we have an income tax—ignoring the latter's failure as a provider of revenue and its choking effect upon recovery.

The sales tax is as sound in theory and legitimate, as the income tax is unsound in theory, and destructive and disastrous in its effects.

AND YET, THEY PRODUCED LAST YEAR MORE REVENUE THAN THE ENTIRE INCOME TAX!

Why this insensate resistance to a sound tax on the one hand, and this purblind and benighted adherence to an unsound tax that has been riddled, exploded and discredited, both in theory and operation?

There is only one thing to be done under the circumstances, and that is to replace the back numbers in our legislative bodies by informed and up-to-date statesmen.

Fortunately the opportunity to do so occurs this year.

The Businesslike Way

City Council adopted a budget for 1934 calling for expenditures far in excess of the estimated revenues.

The effect would be to add to the already vexatious deficit—a deficit which the taxpayers sooner or later will have to meet.

The new administration proposes to reopen the budget and reduce appropriations to a figure at which revenues will be sufficient to provide them.

But some of the department heads are reported to be opposing cuts in their appropriations. We are now in the second month of the year, and we are still operating on the excessive budget. The longer the reduction is postponed the more severe will be the effect when the cuts are finally made. Lop a million and a half from city expenditures and spread the reduction over 12 months and the hardship would not be felt to the same extent that it will be if the curtailment is made in 10 or fewer months.

The system that Pittsburgh has been following in budget-making is not the best way. To let department heads say what they think they should have, and then attempt to make ends meet by asking employes to take furloughs without pay or executives to accept voluntary salary cuts is unbusinesslike.

Baltimore, as the Western Pennsylvania Branch of the National Economy League has pointed out to Mayor McNair and the Council, has adopted a better way. It had a survey made of all city departments which resulted in economy and improved efficiency. A deficit larger than Pittsburgh's was wiped out in a year.

Councilman William A. Magee recommended, in a radio speech last summer, that a survey of this character be made in Pittsburgh, and has repeated the suggestion several times since then. Council should act upon it.

There has been talk of a city audit. An audit might or might not serve a useful purpose. It might detect irregularities, and it might not. But there is no doubt that a municipal efficiency and economy survey, such as is proposed, would be worth while.

The success of Baltimore's survey is impressive, and is especially worthy of our consideration because Baltimore was in a worse fix than Pittsburgh is in.

Ringing the Bell

(Copyright, 1934.)

By a wise, humane and patriotic action the Federal Government has intervened just in time to prevent the crisis in American education from becoming gravely worse.

Last December the United States Commissioner ot Education, Dr. George F. Zook, submitted a report on the public school system, both urban and rural. He found—as other expert investigators had found—both imperiled.

Throughout the nation school budgets had been reduced in a total of $133,000,000 a year, with enrollments steadily increasing.

In one city of every four school terms had been curtailed and economy had been carried even to the point of dispensing with text books in many schools.

In rural districts 2,000 schools were then closed in mid-term and hundreds more were doomed to close by the end of this month.

Now Harry L. Hopkins, the Federal Emergency Relief Administrator, announces that Federal funds have been set aside to keep schools in rural areas and in communities of less than 5,000 population going until the end of the term.

This is action which the Hearst newspapers and educational organizations have been urging. It should go further.

And it is action which demonstrates, as nothing else could, the sheer necessity of establishing a Federal Department and a Federal policy of education.

We should have a Federal Department of Education headed by a secretary who should be a member of the President's Cabinet.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Feb. 7. — Bob Brinkerhoff, juggling a variety of jobs with the deftness of a Serge Flash, salvages as much fun out of the business of living as anyone I know. While his main vocation is the comic strip, his range includes many other artistic endeavors.

Plump, fair-haired and with Flemish high coloring, he is as distinctly a Hollander as Willem Van Loon. Aside from his cartoon creation, he illustrates for magazines, writes books for boys, designs dolls, invents puzzles, lectures and talks on the radio. Yet never misses a roundup of artists.

Now and then he circles the globe, stopping off to visit Roy Chapman Andrews on the Gobi or to sketch in Algiers. His student days were in a Montmartre attic which he still maintains at the magnificent outlay of $50 a year. His summers are spent on Brinkerhoff Island in Maine.

He has a rich tenor voice and his prematurely white-haired wife everybody calls "Pat," was, before marriage, a professional concert singer. Their studio in West Fifty-seventh may be visited one night by C. D. Gibson, the next by a Bowery tattooer. Or in a far away corner you may see Bluch, the shy circus clown.

Few places incubate so many terse and descriptive phrases as the jousty bars of metropolitan clubs. Esmond O'Brien was having a late afternoon libation with a blizzardly die-hard at the Racquet. The old Tory poured himself a generous hooker of brandy. And as a waiter held the seltzer bottle over it awaiting orders, "Just a toot!" he cautioned.

Tallulah Bankhead, in languorous convalescence, is doing the rounds of auspicious first nights. Her helter-skelter mop of shoulder hair throws her face, sharpened by many months of illness, in chalky bas-relief, so remindful of Jeanne Eagels. At intermissions Miss Bankhead, sitting in an aisle chair, holds court with the seasoned play-goers in that feverbright sparkle that is her metier. Several major operations and a prolonged siege at various hospitals have not dimmed her radiance.

There are 10 song writers whose long-ago hits gave special plume to Tin Pan Alley, who are recipients of $3,000 a year from the Society of American Authors and Composers. In this way they do not face old-age worries and, as it often happens, are able to turn out another salable song before taps. More perhaps than any other guild, the song writers, thanks largely to Gene Buck, take care of their own.

Max Baer captured the Broadway fancy a while, but his spirits were too exuberant for even that lively street. He is the exploding-cigar kind of comic who zooms into gatherings to inspire wonder what will happen next. He is likely to knock an acquaintance from under his hat with a backslap or send a waiter with a heavy load sprawling with a suddenly outstretched foot. And his multiplicity of heart-balm suits are explained by his reputed penchant for proposing to every girl he meets. A part of his quite unfunny routine.

A few years ago Peaches Browning ringing through the headlines was a plump and gawky girl bewildered by sudden notoriety. But now, sleekly brittle, perfectly poised and a ringer for those Monte Carlo maidens in tow of the monocled dandies of the gaming tables. She puffs at her cigaret with the nonchalance of the finished inhaler, walks to her cafe table with a Lady Vere de Vere grace and is no longer dewey with surprise at Broadway's dazzle and pompous figures.

Broadway's insatiable itch of cheap curiosity overshadowed the stage goings-on at Peggy Fears' recent premiere. All the regulars craned hackly necks to see if A. C. Blumenthal, the husband from whom she is separated, was in the assemblage. The energetic "Blumie" is difficult to see even in a close-up, but he was there. At least, he was outside among those waiting for limousines after the curtain fell.

Matrimonial deflections in New York are often over-night whims. On a recent evening we were to dine and see a play with a long married and apparently happy couple. The morning of the dinner the papers told of their separation. What to do was a problem, but later came a telegram from the husband: "Dinner off, theater off, business off, stocks and bonds off. O, yes, wife off to mamma."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

How Streamline Are You?

Those new streamline automobiles—what honeys they are! No more silly gadgets or stiff angles to buck the wind and slow up action. Now, by some magic, stubborn steel has been made sleek and supple as light itself—mobile as mercury—fluid as the air with which it flows.

Remember the horseless carriage of 1904? Cute little knick-knack, wasn't it? Just about as adaptable as a harvesting machine. Needed the whole landscape, and all the time in the calendar, to turn itself around. No wonder old Dobbin gave it the razz as he passed by.

Imagine trying to travel in a contraption like that in 1934! What a joke it would be—and what a pain-in-the-neck! How far would you get before you were sent to the museum or the jail? Not far!

For these are streamline days, Nix on bucking busses! They may be as imposing as King George's gilded chariot, but it's action that counts today. If your wagon can't flow with the traffic—you're out.

Nothing new about that, is there? You know without arguing that it's true about any car. But—DO YOU KNOW THAT IT'S ALSO TRUE ABOUT PEOPLE? You may have all the trick shifts—"suspension"—"knee action"—the swiftest, slickest lines—

BUT HOW STREAMLINE ARE YOU?

How mobile are you? Do you flow with the traffic, or buck it? What's YOUR action?

You pride yourself on being modern. You wouldn't be seen in the suit your father wore when the century began. But how modern is your disposition—your attitude toward life? How current are your ideas?

ARE YOU USING THE MENTAL MODEL OF 1904 OR 1934?

Joking? No, I'm not. Look yourself over, as critically as you'd look over a new automobile. You're investing infinitely more in yourself than you'll ever invest in an automobile. You're expecting far more important results. What are your chances of getting those results?

HOW SMOOTH AND SWIFT A PERFORMANCE CAN YOU EXPECT OUT OF YOUR PRESENT MENTAL EQUIPMENT?

Are you streamline—or have you temperamental bumps, angles and gadgets which slow up your action and make you a nuisance to yourself and everyone you contact? For example, that stubbornness of yours? People have complained about it, haven't they? But secretly, you're rather proud of it.

BUT HOW MUCH WOULD YOU ADMIRE THAT STUBBORNNESS IN AN AUTOMOBILE? HOW MUCH USE WOULD YOU HAVE FOR A CAR THAT COULDN'T ADAPT ITSELF TO SUDDEN CHANGES? CLOSE JAMS—THAT WASN'T SWIFT AND EASY ON THE PICKUP?

Stubbornness — intolerance — laziness — cowardice — stupid, antiquated notions—conceit, that's like carbon in one's mental cylinders. You wouldn't stand for such qualities an hour in an automobile. Yet you're trying to make the grade in your own life with just such equipment.

SO WHAT?

MARRY-GO-ROUND

By Helen Rowland

THESE Modern Lovers

A man is most "dangerous" to women, not when he is in negligee or a bathing suit, but when he is all covered up in a boiled shirt, a high collar and faultless dinner clothes.

A man's wife may be only a "habit." But once his private secretary becomes a necessity, he finds her as indispensible as his three meals a day or his hat and coat.

* * *

There is probably nobody on earth quite so thrilled and grateful as an intellectual woman, who discovers that a man loves her for the dimple in her chin or the cuteness of her feet.

* * *

After a few years of marriage a woman has to go to the hospital or the grave in order to inspire her husband to send her a few flowers.

* * *

Just about when their friends have stopped wondering "why on earth they ever married each other," the bride and bridegroom are beginning to try to figure out the same problem.

* * *

Men and women are always misunderstanding each other, because a man is ruled by his head or his impulses, while a woman is ruled by her heart or her vanity. Hence they seldom speak the same language.

* * *

Theoretically, a man may have broad ideas about other women; but he always wants his OWN woman to be as set and conventional as the styles of 1830 and as correct as an engraved calling card.

Modern men have learned to make synthetic ice, synthetic pearls and synthetic drinks that can scarcely be distinguished from the real thing. But their synthetic love-making is still as obvious as a false tooth and as funny as a wood-cut.

* * *

Funny—but it's almost as dangerous to predict whether or not a divorce will "take," these days, as it is to predict whether or not a marriage will "take."

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

When it becomes necessary for you to concentrate, do you not make too much effort to do so?

If you are making a physical effort, do you not concentrate to the point where your muscular movements become stiff and devoid of rhythm?

If the effort is to be mental, do you not give more thought to the fact that you must concentrate than to the things about which you should concentrate?

You divide your thoughts and so the main object of your study comes out a poor second best.

There must be a concentrated relaxation in both mental and physical effort—or it might be termed relaxed concentration!

Every muscle, every brain function must run easy and smooth.

The idea is to keep the mind attentively concentrated so that it will not wander.

It is necessary to be very much interested in what you are doing.

A happy interest and an openness of mind that will neither pinch the idea nor permit it to be lost through indolent looseness is required.

WISE WORDS

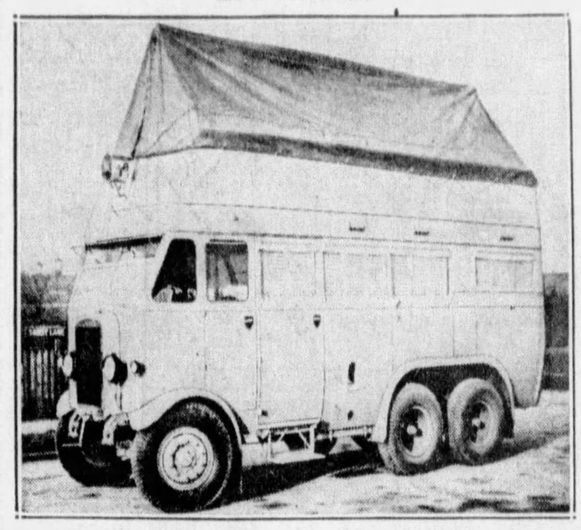
As bodies through a mist, so actions through anger, seem greater than they are.—Plutarch.

Text for Today But they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk, and not faint.—Isaiah, xl:31.

Quite a Car

His Highness Travels in Safety, Comfort, Exclusiveness.



A SPECIAL CAR BUILT FOR HIS HIGHNESS ABBAS HILMI II, FORMERLY KHEDIVE OF EGYPT.

This country, land of the automobile, with more self-moving vehicles than all the rest of the world put together, will be interested in this "Mansion on Wheels," built for an Eastern prince. His Highness Abbas Hilmi II, whose mental workings you could not imagine any more than you could imagine the mental workings of a sea lion, knows just how he wants to travel and here you see it. He has two men in front, with bullet-proof glass all around them. He himself sits inside, back of those bullet-proof metal doors. How can he see the country? He can't see it, but that does not worry him.

He would say, like Samuel Johnson invited out to the green fields, "When you have seen one green field you have seen all green fields."

Inside this house on wheels His Highness rests, drinks, eats, entertains any gentleman or lady invited to go with him, and scenery does not worry him.

The top with a canvas roof is for servants. They do their own cooking and sleeping up there. The lower part, divided into three compartments, is used by the ex-Khedive principally on his travels into the desert, a very monotonous country, much sand.

The settees and armchairs in the lower compartments can be changed into beds, the engine has great speed and power. Any little car colliding with this would be sorry.

Human Side of the News

By Edwin C. Hill

OF ALL the news of the day, the item which most fires the imagination comes to us from Ottawa, Canada. The astronomers of the Dominion Observatory are planning to build a telescope which is almost certain to reveal to us secrets of the universe that have been hidden from mankind since life came to this old earth.

It will bring the moon so close to us that we shall be able to see every mound or crevice on that dead and burned out starlet, as if we were looking across the street into the windows of an apartment house just across the way. It will bring the red planet, Mars, so close that we will know for certain whether those strangely mathematical lines running north and south from the polar caps are really canals, constructed by some sort of thinking creature, mentally akin to human beings, at least, for the purpose of bringing to their deserts the only water the planet possesses, the water that melts from the vast ice caps at the poles.

It may, indeed, everlastingly solve one of the most fascinating puzzles of all time: Do living beings, with brains probably far superior to human brains, dwell on the great red star which is Earth's nearest neighbor in the wheeling panorama of the endless universe?

For the gigantic telescope the Canadians are planning will have a lens 2,000 inches in diameter—an enormous mirror, nearly 174 feet across—almost the length of a city block. And upon that vast mirror, which will be overlaid with sensitive silver, will be photographed celestial pictures which can be magnified millions of times and converted into a photograph as large, if they want it, as the site of a great city.

It will be television of the universe, and the day may come, indeed, when we can sit in our homes and, by turning a dial or a switch, thrill to the drama of the infinite. By the twist of a dial lovely Venus, like a great golden apple of the Hesperides, may float into our vision; the streaming planets and stars of the Milky Way may become as exciting and familiar as the stars of Hollywood; far-distant Saturn, endlessly revolving with his triple rings in the black loneliness at the back of the universal beyond, may give us a spectacle of such beauty as the eyes of humans have never dwelt upon and great Betelgeuse—a million suns flaming as one, an incredible conflagration in the heavens, the biggest thing in all the universe—may flare across the panorama of an evening's diversion.

Such, at least, is the promise of the gigantic telescope that the star-gazers of Ottawa offer to science and the imagination of mankind.

Mount Wilson Lens Small in Comparison

FOR EVEN a notion of the promise of that incredible eye, peering into the mysteries of the Creator, one may think of the most colossal telescope which we possess up to now. That is the spyglass which points to the heavens from the crest of Mt. Wilson, near Pasadena, Cal. The Mt. Wilson lens is only 100 inches in diameter, yet it brings the moon so close that most ungallantly it exposes every pock-mark on the shining face of Lady Luna, and brings to the eye those lovely jewels, set in the black velvet of space, which glow and gleam 40,000 light-years from our earth.

And when the new 200-inch super-telescope which is being built for the Mt. Wilson Observatory is completed, and at a cost of $12,000,000, the moon will be brought within an apparent range of 24 miles and man will reach out into space twice as far as man ever reached before.

But the Canadian lens will probe secrets and solve mysteries that even the new Mt. Wilson lens cannot glimpse. Perhaps the greatest of all these mysteries, to most of us, in the human sense of things, is whether or not life does exist anywhere in the universe except on earth. That controversy has raged between star-gazers for countless years.

The late Percival Lowell, who mapped the canals of Mars, firmly believed that the canals were built by super-intelligent creatures. W. H. Pickering, a great authority, believes that the canals are waterways which bring water down from the Martian poles. But the most fascinating of all conjectures as to whether we actually have neighbors in the universe, is made by Hiram Percy Maxim, a great inventor and a pioneer in the field of wireless communication.

We can't imagine the kind of creature the Martian may be, says Mr. Maxim. There is not one chance in a million that he resembles man. He could be a flying creature, though the air is very thin for wings to grip. He could be a swimming thing, though there is no water on Mars, except at the poles and in the canals. But if the canals are real and built by him, his mentality must be far in advance of human intelligence.

We produced our first telescope only a few hundred years ago. The Martians may have been spying on us for 30,000 years. For centuries they may have been signalling to us by radio, hoping that the day would soon come when we would be keen enough to catch the signals and reply. The great Marconi has heard queer radio impulses, inexplicable; as if they might have flashed from far out in space.

When the Canadians tilt their magic glass to the heavens, all these questions may be answered, these mysteries solved, and we may come to a thrilling understanding of those whirling, flaming centurions of infinity, sweeping on and on, from the beginning of time, until that inescapable and destined day when time itself shall be swallowed by silence and dark.

Mr. Weir's Remarkable Pledge

MR. WEIR, of Weirton, comes out with the statement that never again in the plants of the National Steel Company will there be a reduction of wages without consent of the representatives elected by the workers. He asserts that it has been an error of the past to liquidate labor at the first sign of hard times.

"I am for the President," says the hard-jawed, hard-fighting Mr. Weir, "but I also have considerable faith in and an abiding respect for the old deal. But new deal or old deal, we must have a reasonable assurance that it will be a square deal. The surest test of a square deal is when both parties are satisfied."

Ernest T. Weir was working in the steel mills in Braddock, Pa., when he was 15. That was back in 1890. Now he owns steel mills, but the tough going of his youth has left so much fight in him that he is one man, at least, who stands up and swaps punches with Gen. Hugh Johnson, the NRA chief. He is the only important industrialist, thus far, to defy the edicts of the slam-bang general.
